News Is So So:
Torturing Witnesses.
Bull, Donkey, Goat Race.
Water Fine, in Spots.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

NOTHING in the way of "big news" when this was written at 5 o'clock yesterday.

The British seized some more of Gandhi's men. A little fighting seems enough for the Mahatma's followers.

THE Jugo-Slavian King Alexander is accused of allowing police to torture political prisoners. One, brought to court in a wheel chair, says he was beaten, tied with ropes, whipped with canes, at intervals, all night long. Other prisoners were treated in similar fashion.

Civilization, backward in some places, in others makes progress. Not long ago, men accused were tortured everywhere, to make them tell what they knew. Torture is no longer legal.

WHEN Queen Elizabeth decided to cut off the head of her lover, Essex, she was praised for her restraint in not having him put to the torture. His abject submission, and fear of things he might have said under torture, about the woman whom he indiscreetly described as an ugly old hunchback, may have caused the unusual gentleness.

RALPH SANDERS was to start from Harlington, Tex., bound for New York, riding a large black bull. He will race with Benjamin Stack, who starts 30 days later, driving a goat and a donkey.

Mr. Stack bets that he will get to New York first in spite of Sanders' 30 days' start.

THAT is unimportant in days of airplanes and automobiles, but everything strange interests us. Fashionable ladies in the Medici days liked hideous dwarfs, old kings had their "court fools," the great astronomer Tycho Brahe made all at his table be silent when an idiot eating scraps at his feet mumbled words supposed to have deep meaning.

The "cruelty" society, of course, will see that the bull, goat and donkey are properly shod.

IF YOU are still in the stock market, or hovering on the edge, like a small boy asking "how is the water," know that just now "the water is fine," in spots. Old Pafner, the money dragon, in addition to his pile of gold, has in his interior a gigantic mass of undigested securities.

He is still alive, but certain groans indicate that he is having trouble in spots where the securities were fed to him in millions of shares at a time.

WASHINGTON, discussing the Naval Pact, learns from Secretary Stimson "the United States had to compromise to get the treaty."

It might have been simpler to get along without it, building ships and other things as we require them.

Britain never came here to discuss the size of England's navy, or invited us to come to Europe to discuss that matter, when she had enough money to build what she liked, when she liked.

THE League of Nations will print a report on the "morals of the United States." You may say, crudely:

"None of the League of Nations' dashed business."

Nevertheless, Mademoiselle Chaptal severely criticised our moral conditions, especially as regards childhood. She finds that with us:

"Hygiene frequently takes the place of morals and physical health takes precedence over conscience. The human soul does not seem to be regarded as a living reality."

PERHAPS we do neglect our souls occasionally, what with one thing and another.

But let us be grateful that nobody forced us into the League of Nations. Had that happened, they would probably come over and fix our souls, morals and children for us, according to Mademoiselle Chaptal's ideas, forcing us to accept their morals, souls and conscience in place of our bathtubs, playgrounds and washing machines.

DWIGHT W. MORROW, candidate for the Senate in New Jersey, will be attacked by the drys with especial ferocity. They mean to run a dry independent against him, reviving the old Prohibition party.

PROHIBITIONISTS have nothing personal against Mr. Morrow. In fact, they compliment him, saying he is so "distinguished" that it would hurt prohibition if he won his race on a wet platform.

Mr. Morrow learns, from politicians, that in New Jersey, he could not be elected on any other platform.

YANKEE GIRL REACHES FINAL

Competing in the British women's championships, at Formby, England, Miss Glenna Collett, American champion, advanced into the final with thrilling 1 up triumphs in quarter-final and semi-final round matches. Glenna vanquished Hilda Cameron, of Scotland, this morning, and then eliminated Miss Enid Wilson, of England, to move into the title round this afternoon.

The Collett-Wilson match was a see-saw duel in which the lead alternated several times. The British star was 1 up when only four holes remained to be played, but Glenna staged a fighting finish, evened the match at the sixteenth hole and then showed iron nerve in deftly sinking a nine-foot putt for the victory on the home green.

HICKS ELIMINATED

Miss Wilson qualified to meet Miss Collett by defeating Miss Helen Hicks, Yankee "baby" star, 5 and 4, in the morning's quarter-finals competition.

Miss Collett will oppose Dinna Fishwick, 18-year-old English schoolgirl, at 36 holes for the

SENATOR NYE CONDUCTS QUIZ HERE

Head of Slush Fund Inquiry Asks Registration Board About 12,000 Denied Vote

Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee, arrived in Pittsburgh today for a personal survey of political conditions here.

He announced that every phase of the senatorial primary would be considered.

Nye made the statement when his attention was called to Mayor Charles H. Kline's "bread and butter" speech before city employes. He had no other comment to make on that speech.

REGISTRATION SCANNED

Nye held a three-quarters of an hour conference with members of the board of registration commissioners in the Courthouse. Afterwards he said:

"We are here to familiarize ourselves with the machinery of election in Allegheny County so that we will be prepared to act immediately and with dispatch after the primary election. A number of people who have complaints against the conduct of elections have asked to be heard and we have arranged to interview them and investigate their complaints."

BOARD QUESTIONED

James Kirk, of the registration board, declared that Senator Nye had questioned the members as to how they appointed registrars; how the registrars are divided numerically among the major parties; the board's method of holding hearings when there is a question raised about a person's name on the books, and the board's method of determining whether an entry on the books is illegal.

Nye particularly questioned the board about the 12,000 names stricken off the books at the last primary election as the result of the assessors' action in delivering the books to the delinquent tax collector without the books' passing first through the county treasurer's office.

SEES GRAHAM, PARK

Upon arrival in the city this morning, the Senate slush fund investigator first went into conference with United States District Attorney Louis E. Graham and with Allegheny County Prosecutor Andrew T. Park, both of whom have pledged co-operation in an effort to prevent corruption or fraud in the senatorial vote.

PLANS SECRET

Before Nye went into conference with Graham and Park, he said:

"We are not prepared to tell what our plans are yet."

Nye will not hold a formal investigation here at this time. He intimated, however, that if evidence indicates that there has been large expenditure of money in the senatorial campaign, he will conduct a searching investigation later.

OVERTURNED DICE TABLE, ROULETTE WHEEL, THOUSANDS OF CHIPS AND BOTTLES LEFT IN WAKE OF U. S. RAIDERS

The gaming room on the upper deck of the "Show Boat" after Federal Prohibition agents early today staged a spectacular raid in which four men were arrested. All patrons of the place were allowed by the raiders to leave the boat unmolested.

FOUR JAILED, PATRONS GO FREE

Entertainer Held; Jaffe, Klein and Manager Will Receive Further Hearing

One man was held for Federal Court on a charge of interfering with a government officer and three others were given preliminary hearings today, 12 hours after prohibition agents raided the "Show Boat" in the Allegheny River at the foot of Sixth street.

The raid abruptly ended the revelry of fashionably-gowned women and their escorts. Agents reported that when they rushed up the gangplank into the night life resort, shortly after midnight, more than 100 persons were gambling and drinking.

PARK PROMISES ACTION

Roulette wheels and other gaming equipment were turned over to the county detectives. District Attorney Andrew T. Park promised prosecution of the proprietors on gambling charges and was guaranteed full co-operation by Federal Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington.

Thomas McFarland, of 2225 Fifth avenue, an entertainer, was held after a hearing before the United States commissioner, charged with interfering with a federal agent. Dry raiders testified he sought to prevent their entering the cabaret dressing room on the boat.

KLEIN, JAFFE ARRAIGNED

Others arraigned were Louis Markowitz, 110 Haberman street, alleged manager; Jake Klein, of the William Penn hotel, prominent in the vice crusade conducted several years ago by William L. King; and Milton Jaffe, of the Fort Pitt hotel, alleged owner. Frank T. Graham, named as the fifth defendant, has not been apprehended.

Markowitz, a graduate of Pitt dental school, and Jaffe were released after a partial hearing on

COUNT STARTED ON TAXI PEACE

Work of counting the taxi drivers' ballots on the peace proposal to end the four-month-old strike got under way this afternoon in the pastor's study of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Liberty avenue and Baum boulevard.

There were 818 ballots in the box when the tabulation started. Ballots had been sent out to 1,410 drivers, but of this total 259 were not delivered by the postoffice department because a large number of drivers had moved.

The Rev. James R. Cox, in a statement today, said:

"I am absolutely for the men and will stick to the bitter end, no matter what the vote may be. If they vote 'no' it is 'no' with me; if they vote 'yes' it is 'yes' with me. But I promise in case the vote is 'yes' to use every ounce of energy and influence with the men to call out another strike if the company breaks any clause of the agreement."

Ford Orders Yacht To Replace Wreck

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Edsel Ford is to have a new yacht built to replace the one wrecked in Buzzards Bay last October.

The new craft will be a twin-screw, all-steel, 125-foot offshore cruiser type, with Diesel engines giving a speed of 14 miles an hour. On the main deck there will be four large staterooms, dining salon, living room and lobby. The yacht is to be ready for delivery December 1.

FIVE WARDS HIT BLUE LAWS

Voters of the first five wards are more opposed to the Pennsylvania Blue Laws than the voters of the city as a whole, according to the initial ward tabulations in the poll of Pittsburgh by the Sun-Telegraph.

Ninety per cent of the vote in these five wards favors repeal, the remaining 10 per cent being divided between continuance and modification. The ratio between voters favoring repeal and those favoring continuance of the law is 14-to-1.

This compares to a ratio of about 7½ to 1 shown by the total vote to date from all wards, comprising 8,654 ballots, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	946
For modification	538
For repeal	7170

Reed, Luncheon Guest, Declares Naval Pact Eliminates Enmity

Senator David A. Reed returned to Pittsburgh today fresh from the naval parley at London.

In an address to the outstanding business, professional and political figures of Pittsburgh at a luncheon in his honor at the Chamber of Commerce, he asserted that the London conference had done more to eliminate enmity and suspicion among the great powers than anything else since the dawn of civilization.

He is confident, he said, that it has removed the possibility of the United States becoming involved in war during the lifetime of the present generation.

PREDICTS RATIFICATION

He predicted the ratification of the naval limitation treaty, developing from the parley, by all three nations involved—the United States, Great Britian and Japan.

The treaty, he said, will save the United States from the expenditure of $400,000,000 that would otherwise go to the construction of battleships; it will give the nation parity with Great Britain and a 10-to-6 ratio with Japan in cruisers, and tend to make other nations hesitate to violate neutral rights.

In his introductory remarks Reed reviewed previous arms limitation conferences. Two meetings at the Hague were unfruitful, and the Versailles conference only eliminated Germany. The Washington conference of 1922 resulted in the scrapping by the United States of more battleships than were scrapped by any of the other

Talkie Career Seen For Marion Talley

NEW YORK, May 15.—A career in the talkies is foreseen for Marion Talley, the Kansas girl with the golden voice, by a Kansas psychic, Gene Dennis. Princess Martha Expecting an Heir

LONDON, May 15.—(AP.)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail says that Crown Princess Martha, of Norway, is expecting an heir. She has been absent from social affairs for some time and is not likely to appear at public functions until late in the summer.

MAKES ESCAPE BY TRAIN LEAP

WHEELING, W. VA., May 15.—Leaping from the window of a Pennsylvania railroad train as it was sulling out of Wellsburg for this city, Paul Paige, a Federal prisoner, escaped from two deputy United States marshals, today.

Paige, recently released from the Atlanta penitentiary, was slated for deportation to Italy but was arrested at Ellis Island, and was being brought back to face charges of stealing automobiles.

The deputies removed the handcuffs from Paige when the train left Pittsburgh, this morning. He asked permission to enter a rest room at Wellsburg. He jumped through a window, rolled down an embankment and fled to a woods nearby. Federal and state officers joined in the hunt.

SERVICE BOARD GETS RATE WAR

Pittsburgh's development may be halted and many of its manufacturing plants may be forced to move into other territories if the increased freight rates on short hauls of steel are allowed to remain in force, according to complaints being made to the Public Service Commission by industrial organizations in this city.

Traffic managers of the organizations state that the new rates will have direct bearing on the state of employment in the Pittsburgh district and indirectly will affect the entire population of this city.

Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, in placing his case before the commission, said that the future expansion of the Pittsburgh district as an industrial center will be endangered and the increased rates may re-

King Honors Sentry For Rescue of Son

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, May 15.—(AP.)—Prompt action today of a sentinel outside the King's summer palace saved the life of his second son, Tomislav. When the sentinel saw the child fall from a balcony rail he dropped his rifle and dashed forward just in time to catch the infant in his arms.

King Alexander, frantic, descended rapidly, embraced the sentinel and called the officer of the guard, instructing him to take immediate steps to procure the soldier's discharge from the army. He then presented the soldier with 30,000 dinars (about $500) and arranged for a life-long pension.

PIRATES' GAME, FIGHTS OFF

Rain which fell heavily around the noon hour caused the postponement of two major sports events scheduled in the Pittsburgh district today, the Pirates' baseball game with the Phillies at Forbes Field in the afternoon and the opening outdoor boxing show of the season at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight, with Battling Battalino, the world featherweight champion, boxing Vic Burrone, of New York, in the 10-round main bout.

The baseball game will be played off on August 12, while the boxing show has been postponed until next Monday night. It was the second successive day of idleness for the crippled Pirates, who also called off yesterday's game with the Phillies because of rain.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 15.—(INS.)—After a day of acclaim here, Jean Mermoz, French aviator who flew the first airmail across the South Atlantic to Brazil, prepared to return by airplane today to Natal.

He announced he expected to begin his return flight to Senegal, Africa, Sunday.

Mellon Gives City Land For Golf Links Entrance

A gift by W. L. Mellon of three acres of land near the intersection of Forbes street and a roadway leading to the Schenley Park golf links, was accepted by Council today.

The grant is conditional on the city constructing an entrance to the golf course from Northumberland street and eliminating traffic dangers at that point. These changes will cost $25,000, the Public Works Department informed Council.

Councilman Robert Garland said:

"The land is worth 10 times that much."

On his motion, President John S. Herron was instructed to write a letter thanking the donor.

This was the second Mellon gift of land to the city within a week. The other was a grant of property opposite Carnegie Institute to permit a street widening and improvement, made by R. B. Mellon.

SENATORS HEAR ADMIRAL JONES SCORE LONDON TREATY

NAVY CHIEFS DISAGREE ON PACT

U. S. Beaten Down by Britain, Adviser Says, While Pratt Approves Arms Agreement

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP.)—Two gray-haired admirals of the American Navy, each with upwards of a half-century of distinguished service behind him, disagreed pointedly today over the merits of the naval treaty of London.

Sounding the first note of protest from any official quarter, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, long an outstanding figure among navy men, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he not only disagreed with many of the decisions of the London conference, but thought a different settlement would have been entirely possible.

TREATY SUITS PRATT

At the same time, Admiral William V. Pratt, commander of the battle fleet, was advising the Senate Naval Committee that the treaty suited him, that he was satisfied to have fewer eight-inch gun cruisers than the Navy previously had asked, and that in any case the American delegation at London got the best it could.

Both admirals were naval advisers at London, but Jones left before the conference ended because of illness and he came to the committee table today leaning heavily on a cane. His disability did not diminish the vigor of his replies to questioning senators. He said:

"I disagree fundamentally with Admiral Pratt. I cannot understand Admiral Pratt's position."

"U. S. BEATEN DOWN"

Great Britain, Jones said, always had tried to beat down the American strength in the eight-inch cruisers most desired by the Navy, and at London had brought about such a reduction.

The Japanese cruiser strength as against the United States under the treaty he placed at "5-5 plus."

When the witness concluded, Chairman Borah said that while he was not ready to indicate whether he would support ratification of the treaty, he agreed with Jones in respect to the need for more eight-inch cruisers.

POLICY SWITCHED

Taking the treaty section by section, Jones, one of the patriarchs among naval officers, said the new classification of cruisers into six-inch and eight-inch ships "is contrary to the consistent policy we have maintained always heretofore."

He likewise criticized the battleship provision, saying that France and Italy, who had been parties to the Washington treaty but not to the limitations of the London pact, would not be restricted, and adding that while "it does not particularly affect us, I wonder what effect it may have if Great Britain feels alarmed by building by France and Italy."

The speed of 20 knots allowed for the unlimited class of ships also was opposed by Jones. He said this speed "will make very formidable any commerce raider or anti-submarine craft particularly in the Pacific or in the Mediterranean."

Meantime before the Naval Committee, Admiral Pratt was declaring that the United States "went into this conference with no assets at all so far as cruisers were concerned," and "got the best agreement possible."

SECRECY REQUESTED

Asked to go into details of the American delegation's policy toward abolition of undersea craft, Pratt said he would prefer to discuss the question in private.

Senator Hale, chairman, asked if the submarine was not vital to defense of the Panama Canal and Hawaii, but Pratt said he felt aerial forces had "changed the situation materially, since 1922, when he opposed abandonment of submarines as a naval weapon.

The hypothetical possibility of defending an expanded American merchant marine in war-time was touched on, but Pratt said:

"I would like to go into that, but it would take many more cruisers for defense than are provided under the treaty. In fact, it would necessitate almost unlimited building."

nations. The other powers in the meanwhile proceeded to build cruisers until Great Britain had acquired four times as many as the United States and Japan an equally disproportionate number. The Geneva conference of 1927, called to correct this situation, accomplished nothing.

NOTHING TO TRADE

When the American delegates went into the London conference, Senator Reed said, they had practically nothing to trade with except the ability of the United States to build and finance naval vessels.

He said:

"Our prosperity was the one big factor that the others recognized. Great Britain is suffering from the worst unemployment situation since 1921, and the income tax was recently increased from 50 to 60 per cent. Japan also is troubled by unemployment. Both were anxious to save money if they could at the same time save their naval prestige."

The outcome of the negotiations was, he said, that the period during which parity with Great Britain is to be attained has been reduced from 11 years to 6½ years. Great Britain and Japan have agreed to build no more cruisers until 1936, while the United States goes ahead with its program of cruiser construction.

GUESTS AT TABLE

IS NON-COMMITAL

Senator Reed will leave for Washington tonight.

He said concerning politics:

"I have been completely out of touch with the political situation in Pennsylvania for months, and for that reason I am in no position to commit myself as yet. Bear in mind that I have just set foot in Pennsylvania after a long absence, that I have had no opportunity to talk to my friends, and have had to rely wholly for what information I have on a few newspaper clippings that were sent me."

Concerning the postmastership Senator Reed said:

"I want the most efficient man I can find—a man of executive ability. Several persons have been to Washington to make recommendations, but I have not made up my mind yet. I want to study the situation further before committing myself."

Weather Conditions.

The eastern low pressure area is now centered over Eastern Ontario, and extends southward over the Middle Atlantic states. It is responsible for cloudy and showery weather over the eastern half of the country. The rains were light generally, but moderately heavy in Eastern Pennsylvania, Eastern New York and New Jersey. A low pressure area centered over New Mexico is causing cloudy and showery weather over the Rocky Mountain states and the Western Plains states.

The principal high pressure area is centered over Northern Alberta and extends southeastward in the form of a narrow ridge to the Gulf of Mexico, separating the two low pressure areas.

a ratio in favor or repeal ranging from 5 to 1 in the Fifth Ward to 27 to 1 in the Third Ward. The ratio is 21 to 1 in the First Ward, 18 to 1 in the Second Ward and 10 to 1 in the Fourth Ward, which includes the Schenley Farms district.

POLL BY WARDS

First	20	10	422
Second	22	9	401
Third	27	43	739
Fourth	68	80	732
Fifth	44	15	216

Returns for the day show a slight proportionate increase in the vote favoring the Blue Laws, reducing the ratio favoring repeal from about 8 to 1 to about 7½ to 1. The day's total included 1,497 ballots, divided as follows: For the Blue Laws, 203; for modification, 109; for repeal, 1,185.

WOMEN VOTE REPEAL

The latest totals show 83 per cent of the voters favoring repeal, 10 per cent for continuance of the law, and seven per cent for modification.

These totals are divided between men and women as follows: For the Blue Laws, 562 men and 384 women; for modification, 337 men and 201 women; for repeal, 5,079 men and 2,091 women.

Ballots are being mailed daily to registered voters of all city wards, approximately one-third of the districts in each ward having been included in the distribution of ballots to date.

BISHOP CANNON ANSWERS CHARGES

Spends Several Hours With Episcopacy Committee Explaining Stock Charges

DALLAS, Tex., May 15.—(AP.)—Exonerated of charges of undue political activity in the 1928 campaign, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., today still faced complaints signed by more than a score of delegates to the general conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, that he speculated on the stock market.

Nearly six hours of deliberation by the Episcopacy committee yesterday, failed to clear Bishop Cannon of the charge.

Cannon was on the witness stand several hours.

FOUR BISHOPS NAMED

Of these five, only four—Cannon, Edwin Mouzon, John M. Moore and H. M. DuBose—were known to have been named by the Rev. Rembert G. Smith, of Washington, Ga., instigator of the charge. It was not possible to ascertain the name of the fifth.

In the event the committee exonerates Cannon, the decision is final, insofar as those charges are concerned. If the committee should order a trial, he will be tried before a jury of clerics, probably in executive session.

WOMEN WIN FIGHT

The committee will meet again Friday.

The conference yesterday disposed of the most important items on the nationalization program—providing autonomous churches for Brazil, Mexico and Korea, and a bishop for China.

FREIGHT RATE WAR TO P. S. C.

WILL RAISE COSTS

He charged that the new rates will subject industrial organizations here to increased production costs and will result in restricting Pittsburgh trade area in competition with other points such as Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis.

These other points have not been affected by increased rates in the general revision of freight tariff schedules on steel products, since extensive areas are included in so-called switching zones where the increases do not apply.

The fight against the increased short haul rates on steel, which in many cases will be more than doubled, has been led by the Chamber of Commerce and the large steel corporations, but it is being joined by a vast number of smaller organizations. Some of these are producers of steel and others are users of steel as a material. All will be placed at disadvantage in the struggle with other districts for business.

FILES COMPLAINT

Fred W. Haas, manager of the Keystone Traffic Bureau, said yesterday that he had filed complaints with the Public Service Commission in behalf of 10 companies.

He has a large number of additional complaints under preparation. The filing of some of these is being delayed while a thorough study of the exact effects of the new rates is being made.

He stated that in some cases the altered relationships between competitors here will make companies in outlying sections desire to remain out of the fight.

DRY LAW SHIFT WINS SENATE APPROVAL

Transfer of Enforcement to Justice Department From Treasury Speeded by Vote

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP.)—The first of the administration's bills for the improvement of prohibition enforcement today bore the approval of both branches of Congress and awaited only the elimination of minor differences between the two Houses before being sent to the White House.

This was the measure to transfer the prohibition unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department and coordinate it with the prosecuting agency there under the direction of a single head. It was approved by the Senate late yesterday, with a few minor amendments in which the House is expected to concur.

MILD DEBATE

The vigorous debate that the bill had been expected to evoke in the Senate failed to materialize and the only dispute of consequence came on an amendment, offered by Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, to prohibit the addition of poisonous ingredients to denatured industrial alcohol. This was rejected by a vote of 53 to 19.

The principal Senate amendment would provide that the bill become effective next July 1.

The anti-dry bloc of the House today threw itself behind an effort to obtain consideration at this session of either the LaGuardia bill for modification of the Volstead law or the Norton resolution for a referendum on the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

McBRIDE'S DENIAL

P. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, last night issued a statement denying that he had given his approval to the contention that the Volstead law permits the manufacture of home brew.

Important prohibition decisions by the Supreme Court are expected before it ends its present term on June 2.

Duveen Art Slander Trial Off Till Fall

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Retrail of the $50,000 slander of title suit brought against Sir Joseph Duveen, international art dealer, by Mrs. Andree Hahn, of Kansas City, was postponed today until Fall. Duveen has been ordered abroad by his physicians to recuperate after an operation.

The first trial resulted in disagreement. The suit involves Mrs. Hahn's charge that Duveen, by reason of his reputation as an authority on art, damaged her property, the painting, "La Belle Ferroniere," by declaring that it was not a genuine Da Vinci.

Ileana Meets Count To Explain Jilting

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 15.—(AP.)—A Palestine report today said Princess Ilena, of Rumania, had met Count Alexander, of Houchberg, her former fiance, whereupon explanations were made and their relations broken off definitely.

The dispatch did not state exactly when the Palestine meeting took place.

Civil War Veteran Dies at Age of 85

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 15.—Francis H. Quick, 85, Civil War veteran, died at his home on the National highway yesterday. He was a member of Company D, Third Regiment, Maryland Infantry. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. W. B. Pastorius, of near Uniontown. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

championship tomorrow. Miss Fishwick gained the final by defeating Kathleen MacDonald, 5 and 4.

Today's triumphs placed Glenna in the final of the British championships for the second successive year. She achieved the title round last season only to be beaten out by Joyce Wethered in a sensational championship match.

U. S. MEN GET LEAD

In the annual U. S.-British competition for the Walker Cup, emblematic of the amateur team championship of the world, at Sandwich, the Yankee forces gained a big lead by winning three of the four foursome matches. The competition will be concluded with eight singles matches tomorrow.

Bobby Jones, captain of the American team, teamed with Dr. O. F. Willing to register the most decisive victory of the day, Rex Hartley and T. A. Torrance were their victims, and the margin was 8 up and 7 to play.

Cyril Tolley, captain of the British team, paired with Roger Wethered, turned in England's only triumph, at the expense of George Von Elm and George Voigt, 2 up.

OUIMET, JOHNSTON WIN

Francis Ouimet and Harrison Johnston defeated William Campbell and J. N. Smith, 2 and 1, and Don Moe and Roland MacKenzie gained a 2-and-1 decision over Sir Ernest Holderness and J. A. Stout.

The Prince of Wales flew to Sandwich for the matches, met all the members of the American team, and went around the course with Mrs. Johnston, wife of the U. S. national amateur champion. His Royal Highness devoted much of his attention to the playing of Bobby Jones, and on several occasions mildly applauded brilliant shots by the American links ace.

Wales teamed with Jones in a foursome a few days ago.

FOUR JAILED IN RAID

$2,000 bail each for a further hearing May 26. Additional testimony was to be taken late today in Klein's case.

AGENT TESTIFIES

Prohibition Agent John Kreck testified that on May 3, he and Agent John Clifford purchased liquor on the "Shaw Boat" from Don Collins. They paid $7 a pint, Kreck testified. They made another visit May 7 and bought another pint.

Kreck testified that he saw persons intoxicated on the boat on both occasions. Clifford corroborated Kreck's testimony.

On cross-examination the two agents admitted none of the defendants figured in the negotiations for the liquor.

BELIEVE WHISTLE TIP

Assistant Administrator H. D. Wilson led 28 agents in the raid. It was begun several minutes before the appointed time, he said, because they heard a shrill whistle as they were gathering under the Sixth Street Bridge and took it for a "tip off" to the boat owners that a raid was impeding.

NEWS TO CLARK

Asked about the raid, Public Safety Director James M. Clark said:

"I was unaware that gambling was taking place on the boat until I read of it in the newspapers. No complaints had been received by myself or Supt. Walsh, so far as I know. If they had been received, immediate steps would have been taken to have it stopped and to arrest the proprietors.

"I have instructed Inspector Beebe that if dancing is put on at the boat to arrest the proprietors, as they have no city permit to conduct a cabaret."

PARK GLAD TO HELP

District Attorney Park said:

"Rumors of the existence of gambling on the Show Boat reached me recently and were being investigated when the federal authorities took action. I am glad of the opportunity to aid in the prosecution of those under arrest for gambling.

"Previous to these rumors the Show Boat was known as a cabaret entertainment but there was no mention of law violation.

"The district attorney has only 20 detectives available for investigation in the entire county, and he cannot do regular police work in all sections. The balance of 10 detectives are engaged in trial work in court, juror investigation or on emergency detail, held in office to await call."

FLIERS DOWN IN SHARK WATERS

Two Army Airmen Missing in Pacific; Ten, Including Navy Pilots, Saved by Ship

HONOLULU, May 15.—(AP.)—Two more of the 12 Army and Navy fliers, caught in the rough, shark-infested waters between the islands of Maui and Hawaii when their planes were unabel to effect take-offs yesterday, were rescued early today by the minesweeper Pelican. Eight previously were picked up. The other two are unaccounted for.

The Pelican picked up Lieuts. U. G. Jones and Walter Myers from their helpless amphibian Army plane, one of the three aircraft which landed in the dangerous channels in an attempt to save the four fliers of a big Army bomber which had been forced down.

DRIFTS 40 MILES

The Amphibian had drifted about 40 miles from the spot where it landed, and was found 20 miles Southwest of the Island of Kahoolawe. The crews of another army amphibian and of a navy seaplane containing four naval fliers and two of the ill-fated bomber's crew were picked up last night by the steamer Hawaii.

The two missing fliers were members of the bomber's crew of four.

THREE USE 'CHUTES

Three of the four men jumped with parachutes, the fourth remaining at the controls. A Navy seaplane with a crew of four, piloted by Lieut. M. A. Shur, had been convoying the Army planes.

Shur landed in an attempt to rescue the bomber's crew and took two of them aboard, but was unable to rise from the water. Two Army amphibians, each bearing two men, landed later and also were unable to take off.

Those rescued by the Hawaii were the four of the seaplane's crew, two men from one of the amphibians and two of the bomber's crew. The latter two had been picked up by the seaplane. In taking the six men from the seaplane the Hawaii broke one of the craft's wings.

Betsy Ann Again to Tax Speed of Tom Greene

CINCINNATI, O., May 15.—(AP.)—The river packet Betsy Ann of Pittsburgh, was substituted for the steamer John W. Hubbard to race the Tom Greene of Cincinnati, June 7, in the annual Ohio River steamboat contest.

The Tom Greene barely won from the Betsy Ann in a 22-mile race last year, but there were some who doubted the official decision.

According to William Castellini, general chairman of the race, the change of plans was made to decide definitely the championship of the Ohio River before new challengers are allowed to compete. The John W. Hubbard which formerly plied the Mississippi now operates between Cincinnati and Louisville.

Hoovers Aid Building Of New Meeting House

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover has contributed both for herself and the President toward erection of a Ida avenue and Decatur place. Architecturally, it is planned that the building shall resemble the third Friends meeting house in the capital.

A committee in charge of the project has acquired a site for the purpose at the corner of Florida avenue and Decatur place. Architecturally, it is planned that the building shall resemble the third Friends meeting house in the capital.

A committee in charge of the project has acquired a site for the purpose at the corner of Quaker churches of Colonial times.

It is intended to supplement the two Quaker churches in the city, the congregations of which have greatly increased since the inauguration of President Hoover.

The President usually attends the meeting house at Thirteenth and Irving streets, Northwest. Occasionally, he motors into Maryland to attend a Friends church at Sandy Springs.

EIGHT AMERICAN GIRLS PRESENTED AT BRITISH COURT

KING GEORGE GREETS 800 AT LEVEE

Presides at Reception First Time in Two Years; Nine From U. S. Go Tonight

LONDON, May 15.—(AP.)—Eight American girls curtseyed to King George and saw the kindly flash of Queen Mary's smile in the first court of the Buckingham Palace season last night; nine more American women, seven of them matrons, will receive the same honor tonight.

King George received his guests, who numbered more than 800 and came from every country in the world, for the first time in two years, the Prince of Wales having officiated with Queen Mary last year, while His Majesty recuperated from a long illness.

WALES ATTENDS

The Prince of Wales, only recently returned from an African hunting trip, attended with Princess Mary, who wore a gown of pale blue trimmed in diamante, with a silver tissue train and a diamond sapphire tiara completing the ensemble. He wore the uniform of the Welsh Guards.

The long queue of limousines stood for hours in the Mall before the court, moving up to discharge their occupants as a loud speaker called the names in order of presentation. Many Londoners had their annual frolic of parading past the limousines and gazing at the splendor within. The occupants seemed not to mind—few shades were pulled.

The presentees posed for pictures. Many bought books to read during the long wait. Most all had a snack of something to eat, while in some of the cars bridge games were kept going.

BRILLIANT UNIFORMS

Since most of the guests were of the diplomatic corps, brilliant uniforms were the order of the evening. Ambassador Dawes, however, attended in ordinary full evening garb. Ambassador Sokolnikov, the Soviet ambassador, came in evening coat and knee breeches.

Most of the American girls presented to their majesties last night by Mrs. Dawes wore white, but the matrons to be presented tonight at the second court of the season, will wear colors.

Those to be presented tonight are: Mrs. Clark Howell, wife of the publisher of the Atlanta Constitution; Mrs. Louis Burguiere, of California; Mrs. Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Mrs. John K. Davis, of Ohio; Miss Doris Duke, of Durham, N. C.; Miss Carley Robinson, of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Robert Appleton, of New York; Mrs. Robert P. Scripps, of Ridgefield, Conn.; Mrs. David C. Hanbrahan.

Those presented last night were: Miss Katharine K. Tod, of New York; Miss Eunice Bennett, of New York; Miss Charlotte Dorrance, of Radnor, Pa.; Miss Elizabeth Kent, of Philadelphia; Miss Isabel B. Henry, of Philadelphia; Miss Griselda A. Forbes, of Boston; Miss Eleanor Edwards, of Cincinnati; Miss Frances Hutchinson, of Philadelphia.

WOMAN KILLED AS KIN SINGS

Miss Virginia Musmanno, member of the University of Pittsburgh Women's Glee Club, sang last night in Carnegie Music Hall unaware that her stepmother had been fatally injured by an automobile in front of the hall.

The victim, Mrs. Mary Musmanno, 60, of 118 Island avenue extension, Stowe Township, died in Montefiore Hospital a short time after she was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by Frank A. Tracey, 36, of R. D. No. 2, Clinton. Tracey was arrested and held for the coroner.

Miss Musmanno, sister of Assemblyman M. A. Musmanno, and a student at Pitt, learned of the accident upon her return home from the concert. The victim, with several relatives, was on her way to the hall when she was struck. Death resulted from a fractured skull.

TRAILS MATE, KILLS WOMAN

MOBILE, Ala., May 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Hines, 25, was shot to death last night, according to authorities, by Mrs. Angelo S. Puckett, 33, who said she trailed her husband, crowded his car to the curb, and fired twice at Mrs. Hines, who sat beside Puckett on the front seat.

Puckett was a Mobile County license inspector. Mrs. Puckett is held on a murder charge.

MORROW OPENS VOTE DRIVE

NEWARK, N. J., May 15.—(INS.)—Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, will open his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey, here tonight. Opinion was divided as to what stand he would take, if any, on the prohibition question.

Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Morrow's opponent, will make his address tomorrow night, speaking over the radio from station WOR. Morrow's speech tonight wil be broadcast over the same station.

KIN OF HOOVER DENIES PEACE DESIRABLE

Dean, President's Brother, Informs Students Race Develops Through War

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., May 15.—(AP.)—The Stanford Daily, a student publication, today printed quotations from a syllabus by Dean Theodore J. Hoover, of the Stanford Engineering School, and brother of President Hoover, in which Dean Hoover was represented to have said:

"The pacifist errs in assuming that peace is desirable."

The quotations were published over the protest of Dean Hoover, who asserted giving publicity to class-room views was a violation of a long-standing unwritten agreement.

The syllabus was quoted as saying:

"The human race develops by war and succeeds in war in proportion to its use of metal. Races perish in peace. Culture is increased by the invention of new weapons. The pacifist errs in assuming that peace is desirable.

"Emerson says, 'Everything we have must be paid for.' We Americans are living in unpaid luxury and must pay in the future by blood and hard work."

In objecting, not to being quoted, but to what he declared the flagrant violation of the inviolability of the class room, Hoover said:

"The document quoted is a condensation of a 25-page lecture and necessarily lacks the clarity of the full lecture. I believe the words quoted to be true, although somewhat depressing and saddening.

"I believe in all efforts directed toward achievement of perpetual peace, but I fear they will all prove ineffectual."

BRITISH BALK INDIA RAID BY WOMAN

Band Led by Poetess Halted By Troops, Camp in Road; Reds Blamed as Agitators

International News Service.

BOMBAY, May 15.—The scheduled raid of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, self-styled "Indian Joan of Arc," on the government salt depots at Dharasana today resulted in a peaceful stalemate between her followers and police.

The raid, as such, failed. Fifty salt guards and a dozen police, armed with night sticks, intercepted Mrs. Naidu and her several hundred volunteer raiders en route to Dharasana and blocked the road. When the volunteers halted, police surrounded the entire body. Mrs. Naidu, however, was not arrested, and none of her followers was molested.

CAMP ON ROAD

When police informed Mrs. Naidu that her procession would not be permitted to proceed to Dharasana, the poetess replied that she and her followers would camp indefinitely upon the road. The police retorted they would stay as long as the salt raiders remained.

One year's simple imprisonment was given Mrs. Lakshmipathi, widely-known social worker of Madras, the first woman to be taken into custody by the government since the civil disobedience campaign began. Her offense was leading a demonstration against the salt laws at Vedaranyam.

REDS STIR REVOLT

There were renewed disturbing reports today from the northwest frontier, where Communists were said to be subsidizing the All-India National Congress agitation and to be instigating revolt among the tribesmen, some of whom are reported wearing the hammer and sickle badge of the Soviets.

One of the foremost Mohammedan leaders on the frontier, Newab Sir Dost Mohamed Khan, was said to have issued an appeal to Moslems to cut their connection with the Communists, claiming that they were leading them into danger.

LOYAL CLAN REBELS

He warned that the Moslem policy is suicidal and that they were allowing themselves to be led blindly by Hindu members of the All-India National Congress, whose salaries have been paid by Communists.

Defection of the clan of Tochi Wazirs, who hitherto always remained loyal to the British rule and who cordially aided the British in the Mahsud rebellion, is causing much worry here. They have risen in arms against the British, allegedly at the instigation of All-India National Congress agents in the pay of Communists.

PLANES BOMB TRIBE

LONDON, May 15.—(INS.)—Open action continued along the northwestern frontier of India today. Dispatches from Bombay to the London Daily News told of new bombing raids by airplanes of the Royal Air Force. The planes went to the assistance of native scout troops attacked by an Afridi tribe in Tochi Valley, near Miramsha.

Other dispatches from India said several thousand Nationalists were being mobilized to raid salt works in a suburb of Bombay next Saturday afternoon.

Fireman Rescues Woman in Blaze

ROCHESTER, Pa., May 15.—Burned about the arms and body and partially asphyxiated by smoke, Mrs. Ethel Patterson, 45, of 130 Taylor avenue, Beaver, was carried from her bed at the home of Mrs. Stanley Catanese, here this morning when the bed clothing ignited, firemen believe, when Mrs. Patterson fell asleep while smoking a cigaret in bed.

Mrs. Patterson, a nurse at the Catanese home, was carried to the street by Francis Heuring, driver of the fire truck, who broke down the door of a bedroom to get to her.

Carrying Liquor Not Illegal Act

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 15.—(AP.)—A bulge in the coat of a pedestrian, which proves upon search to be a bottle of liquor, is not sufficient grounds for prosecution under the Volstead Act, George M. Haight, United States Commissioner, ruled in a decision discharging Carl Kendrick of this city.

Baby Lore Films Being Sent to India

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP.)—Baby lore from the United States Children's Bureau is now being exported to India.

The Rockefeller Foundation has arranged for shipping of children's bureau films, including one titled "The Best Fed Baby" and illustrating modern principles of nutrition, to Madras, India.

Nine Nurses Given Hospital Diplomas

ROCHESTER, Pa., May 15.—Nine nurses received diplomas last night at the commencement exercises of the Rochester General Hospital Training School. The Rev. John S. Taylor, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, delivered the address. The graduates are: Margaret Moran, Midland; Mary Zieman, Beaver; Effie Nichol, Colona; Catherine Theilman, Youngstown, O.; Martha Peterman, New Castle; Ruth Hazeltine, Linesville; Mary Henkel, Rochester; Helen Welsh, East Palestine, O., and Florence Case, Toledo, O.

Two Chinese Hurt In Canadian Riot

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, May 15.—(AP.)—Within two blocks of the City Hall, a crowd of infuriated Chinese yesterday swung baseball bats and axes at one another, injuring at least a score, two severely, before they were dispersed by police who answered a riot call.

Two of the injured Chinese were taken to a hospital. Nine were arrested and held pending the outcome of the two men's injuries.

Ambulance Upsets In Crash, 4 Injured

NEW YORK, May 15—(INS.)—Four persons were injured here today when an ambulance carrying a patient was overturned in a collision with a taxicab.

Dr. Marie Delucca, 26, ambulance surgeon, was cut on the arm. Alexander Ward, 51, of Philadelphia, the patient, suffered from the shock.

Stroke Causes Fall, Noted Artist Dies

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—M. Andre Bowles, noted artist of a generation ago and for 25 years art director of the W. D. Boyce Company publications, died yesterday of a fracture of the skull suffered when he fell, after having been stricken with apoplexy. He was 66 years old. Bowles retired from active work five years ago. He was born in New Orleans.

Pittsburgher Wins Four School Honors

AMHERST, Mass., May 15.—Students at Amherst have heaped four honors upon Howard H. Groskloss, of Pittsburgh, those of having done the most for the college, for having the greatest "pull" with the faculty, being the most outstanding athlete and the most versatile. He is president of Scarab, a campus honorary society. The honors were conferred upon him as a result of a questionnaire circulated among seniors.

RUM SHIP, BIG CARGO TAKEN

GREEN BAY, Wis., May 15.—(INS.)—Coast guardsmen today guarded the rum running ship Ansterberg No. 18, seized last night with $600,000 worth of liquor aboard, after a 24-hour search along the Western shore of Lake Michigan.

The ship was captured in the straits as the crew was attempting to put in at Green Bay and unload its liquor for transportation by truck to Chicago.

Although armed with rifles, the crew of five men offered no resistance. The boat is being held pending orders from Washington.

The Ansterberg carried 5,000 cases of Canadian liquor, valued at $120 per case, reputedly bound for the Capone syndicate in Chicago. Federal authorities regarded the capture as one of the most important on the Great Lakes in several years.

Missouri Bandits Get $10,000 Loot

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—(INS.)—Three armed bandits today looted the vault of the St. Charles Savings Bank, 18 miles west of here and escaped with money estimated between $10,000 and $15,000.

Bandit's Faith In Mankind Shaken

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—In the bandit business, Paul Harris has found, one must be very careful with whom one associates.

Paul was holding up four strangers in a parked car yesterday. During the course of the holdup he grew chatty, and wound up by inviting the victims to take him for a little motor ride. Leslie Healy, one of the men, suggested that the party go to his home for a drink.

They did, but when they got there the cellar was bare. Healy said he would go out and get some liquor. He went out, and returned with policemen, who arrested Harris.

Lightning Strikes Home, Three Hurt

INDIANA, May 15.—Three persons were seriously injured when a bolt of lightning struck the home of Maj. C. C. McLain here. His wife and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLain are recovering at Indiana Hospital. The lightning set fire to the McLain home, causing slight damage.

NICK'S ARREST AMUSES ALICE

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP.)—A minor agricultural bill was the cause last night of a filibuster in the House and the arrest of absentee members, among them Speaker Longworth, to obtain a quorum.

Vigorous opposition to the measure carried the day's session well into the evening and then it was discovered the chamber could neither take action on the bill nor adjourn, for want of the necessary majority of the membership.

Those present voted to have the absentees arrested.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the Speaker's wife, was one of the amused spectators in the gallery as her husband was brought into the chamber by the sergeant-at-arms. His chair had been filled during his absence by Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader.

When the quorum was finally obtained the House voted to take up the disputed bill for final action tomorrow. It would provide for expansion of the foreign agricultural information service.

Four Million Perch For Greene County

Suites at $100 Per Day In $5,000,000 Hospital

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—A $5,000,000 hospital, 30 stories tall, with kitchenette apartments for wealthy convalescents, will be built on Northwestern University's downtown Chicago campus.

Culminating eight years of effort, trustees of the Wesley Memorial Hospital decided yesterday to re-affiliate their institution with the University and to erect "the finest 600-bed general hospital that can be built."

The hospital will adjoin and be operated in connection with the University's Medical School. Both are Methodist institutions.

Two million dollars additional has already been spent by the trustees for the hospital site. The Wesley Hospital will be sold, the trustees said, and the money placed in a fund for charity cases.

The three-room kitchenette apartments will be rented at $100 a day. However, more than two-thirds of the patients will be cared for at rates less than the present average hospital cost and much of the treatment will be free, George W. Dixon, president of the Wesley trustees, said.

It is planned to have the hospital completed in time to be one of the 1933 World Fair exhibits.

Dog Tied Up to Prevent Attempts at Suicide

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—For some reason the police dog wanted to commit suicide.

He kept jumping off the Halsted street lift bridge yesterday, and howled angrily when James Dwyer, bridge tender, rescued him. Released, he jumped into the river repeatedly. Finally Dwyer tied the animal up.

Of course, the dog may not have intended to kill himself. There could be no gainsaying the fact, however, that it was intent upon jumping into the river.

Dwyer believes suicide is as good an explanation as any. He suggested, too, that possibly the dog's master had died in the river, and that the animal wanted to join him in death.

If he were human, they could send him to the psychopathic hospital for observation. Being a dog, he is being kept prisoner until such a time as he makes up his mind to quit the suicide foolishness.

WASHINGTON CO. VICTORY SEEN FOR PINCHOT

Outcome of Other Contests In Doubt After Muddled Campaign; Davis Active

(This is the first of a series of articles on the Western Pennsylvania political situation on the eve of the primary election. Every county has been stirred up by rival gubernatorial, senatorial and legislative campaigners. Local independents who realize the state campaign may be won in the counties outside Allegheny and Philadelphia, are unusually active. Tomorrow's article will deal with Fayette County.)

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 15.—Five thousand plurality predicted for Gifford Pinchot in the Republican gubernatorial canvass is the only tangible forecast that is attempted by observers who delve into the muddled state of politics in Washington County.

Straddling by Gen. Edward Martin and local organization leaders in favor of Senator Grundy has demoralized the Davis-Brown slate, although Davis and Grundy seem to have equal chances. Lack of enthusiasm for the state canvass is shown in the fact that no county manager was named for the Davis-Brown ticket, the campaign for the Republican organization's candidates being directed from Judge Charles D. Copeland's headquarters in Greensburg.

DAVIS' FRIENDS ORGANIZE

Kicking over the traces, the friends of Secretary James J. Davis mobilized the members of the Moose, various Welsh national groups and labor organizations, and are conducting a vigorous campaign in his behalf. This independent movement for Davis is gathering momentum and will be the chief source of his strength at the primaries.

Grundy's is a silent campaign with a lot of invisible wire-pulling by corporation interests. Grundy's high tariff talk has been music to the ears of the sheep-raising farmers, and he is certain to poll a large vote in the townships and country towns. Between Davis and Grundy, it seems to be anybody's race, according to the views of unbiased observers.

Washington County politics were thrown off an even keel last January when County Chairman C. E. Carothers and his executive committee indorsed Gen. Martin for governor and Grundy for the Senate. The rank and file of the Republicans of the county resented this action, and when Martin's boom was ignored by the state organization and Davis was slated instead of Grundy, the predicament of Carothers' committee was still more embarrassing.

MARTIN SLIGHTS DAVIS

In an attempt to set things right a Davis-Brown rally was held at a dollar dinner in the George Washington Hotel. Nearly all the tickets were complimentary and a big crowd came to dine. Davis did not attend and Gen. Martin in his speech forgot to mention the labor secretary's name. It was recalled Grundy's nominating petitions were sent from Martin's office in Harrisburg.

To top things off, Chairman Carothers introduced Joseph G. Armstrong, of Pittsburgh, whose speech was criticised as being the ord[illegible] of a boss. As a result the rally is said to have made votes for Pinchot and disgruntled the friends of Davis.

The Phillips - Bohlen - Dorrance ticket, which will receive its principal support from the towns along the Monongahela River, is expected to poll about 2,000 votes.

GRAFF IS POPULAR

Judge J. Frank Graff, ex-service man, is popular here in having served in France in the same sectors with veterans of the One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, and is expected to carry the county for Superior Court over Judge James B. Drew. Carothers' committee indorsed Drew and this act is said to have stirred the ire of Gov. John S. Fisher, who is sponsoring Graff's candidacy.

The entire legislative slate, all candidates for re-election, doubtless will be nominated. Interest in the contest in the Second District centers around the candidacy of former County Controller T. J. Underwood, "stormy petrel of Washington County politics," and a rough-and-ready campaigner.

Congressman Henry W. Temple, candidate for his tenth consecutive term from the Washington-Greene district, has no opposition.

Greene County Offers Little to Republicans

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 15.—With few more than a scant 1,000 Republican votes in sight at the primaries, Greene County has been given little attention by the big campaign managers of the G. O. P. This year Greene is returning to its Democratic traditions.

The handful of Republican ci[illegible]nbs will be swept up by Pinchot in the gubernatorial canvass. Davis and Grundy seem to have about an equal share in the small pickings in the senatorial race.

Overshadowing the state contest is the fight for Greene county's seat in the Legislature, held by Roy W. Clovis, Republican, who is seeking re-election. He will be opposed by William F. Garard, who is assured of the Democratic nomination. Clovis and Garard were opponents in 1928, and Clovis was carried in on the Republican landslide. With Al Smith out of the race this year, it is predicted the dry farmers of Greene county once again will revert to their time-honored Democracy.

Davis and Bohlen Wish Each Other Lots of 'Luck'

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Francis H. Bohlen, rival candidates for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, met in a broadcasting studio here last night.

Said Bohlen:

"Well, Secretary, I wish you the best of personal luck, with all kinds of bad political luck."

Rejoined Davis:

"I think the best luck for you will be to stay on the University of Pennsylvania faculty."

ANTI-DRY SEES BROWN DEFEAT

P. E. Shaughnessy, western manager of the Phillips-Bohlen-Dorrance anti-dry slate, in a broadcast last night over KDKA, declared:

"The contest in the primaries is between the drys and anti-drys; for governor, between Phillips and Pinchot, as Brown is out.

"To nominate Brown it would be necessary to give him a majority of 250,000 in Philadelphia and 50,000 in Allegheny County and the machine cannot do it and they know it."

Mrs. S. A. McClung, niece of Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon, presided at a noon-day meeting today in anti-dry headquarters, Magee Building, 334 Fourth avenue, to advocate the candidacies of Phillips, Bohlen and Dorrance.

Speakers included Representative Helen Grimes, candidate for re-election in the Twelfth Legislative District.

Miss Grimes spoke in her own behalf and for the anti-dry slate at a meeting yesterday of the New Era Club, in the Pittsburgh Country Club.

LA GUARDIA AIDS ANTI-DRY TICKET

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP.)—Representative Fiorello La Guardia, of New York, in a radio address last night in behalf of the anti-dry ticket, headed by Francis H. Bohlen for the Republican senatorial nomination and Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., for governor, declared that Pennsylvania's primary election this year was of national importance and that prohibition was the only issue.

He declared:

"I can't understand why any voter who supported William S. Vare in the contest four years ago can do anything else but vote for Francis H. Bohlen, an outstanding citizen of great ability and learning, who has the moral courage to say that after 10 years of experimentation he is against prohibition."

Pinchot Forces Ask Overseers

Attorney E. O. Spotts, representing the Pinchot ticket, presented petitions before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court, asking for the appointment of overseers in a number of districts of the Twenty-first Ward. These included the First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-third districts. Judge Reid fixed 9:30 a. m., May 17, as the time for the hearings.

Women Anti-Drys Open Headquarters

The Pittsburgh Chapter of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, opened headquarters yesterday in 63 Vandergrift Building, with the following officers in charge: Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., chairman; Mrs. William Frew and Mrs. Elizabeth L. Scott, secretaries; Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, treasurer and Mrs. McClung, chairman of the finance committee.

There are about 3,000 members in the local organization and the officers desire to increase that number to 25,000 before the November election.

Americanization Class Honored

McCLELLANDTOWN, Pa., May 15.—An Americanization class of 300 of the German Township district, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Roup, was given certificates by I. N. Riffle, superintendent of German Township schools.

DAVIS, BROWN SEE SUCCESS

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP.)—Returning from a 2,500-mile tour of the state, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for the Republican nomination as United States senator, and his gubernatorial running mate, Francis Shunk Brown, spoke enthusiastically of their reception and predicted success at the primary for the ticket. Both delivered radio speeches.

Brown declared:

"We visited more than 110 cities and towns, not to speak of hundreds of villages. Everywhere we met with great receptions.

"The men and women of our state will not, I am sure, be carried away by cure-alls offered to catch votes, nor will they be swayed by appeals to sectionalism.

"The attempt by one of the candidates for governor to array the country districts against the cities will fail, because it is not founded upon fact."

Davis declared the Davis-Brown ticket was the only one in the field which "adheres to the national Republican platform," and he felt certain it would win.

He told his radio audience he had studied the protective tariff system since he was a puddler in a Pittsburgh iron mill and had assisted in obtaining adequate protection for both capital and labor.

RALLIES BOOST DAVIS, BROWN

Final rallies for candidates on the Davis-Brown ticket will be held tonight and tomorrow night by the Regular Republican organization of which County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong is chairman.

Tonight in the McNaugher school, citizens of the Twenty-sixth ward will be addressed by William H. McNaugher, Mayor Charles H. Kline and Commissioner Armstrong.

Armstrong will preside at a meeting in St. John's Lyceum, formerly South Side Turner Hall, Thirteenth and Sarah streets, tomorrow night. Speakers will include Mayor Kline, former Assistant District Attorney Benjamin Leitcher, Councilman George J. Kambach and T. G. Robertson, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

State Senator Frank J. Harris will broadcast at 6:15 p. m., today over KDKA a speech in favor of the Davis-Brown slate. P. T. Pagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, will speak at 10:30 p. m., today over WJAS.

QUIZ ASPIRANTS ON GAS TAX

Candidates for the Legislature are being questioned on their attitude toward readopting the 4-cent gasoline tax by the Pittsburgh Motor Club, C. H. Roth, secretary, announced. The present 4-cent tax expires June 30 and the rate returns to 3 cents per gallon.

Francis Shunk Brown and Gifford Pinchot, candidates for governor, have both expressed themselves in favor of a tax of 3 cents or lower, according to statements given recently to the Keystone Motor Club of Philadelphia.

Martin's Manager Predicts Big Vote

Park H. Martin, candidate for state senator in the Fortieth district, is completing an active personal campaign, and judging from the receptions accorded him the voters will send him to Harrisburg, according to Urban Dice, campaign manager.

Martin is an engineer, a borough official and a leader in civic affairs, which have provided him with years of practical experience and a record that is exceptional, Dice declared.

Armstrong Names Legal Committee

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong has appointed a legal committee of the Republican organization to sit in Hotel Henry headquarters on primary dya, May 20, ready to go into court if need arises.

The committee includes C. B. Prichard, chairman; City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt, former Judge Stephen Stone, Assistant City Solicitors B. L. Steinberg and Harry Diamond, H. Fred Mercer, O. K. Eaton and Frank W. Ittel.

PINCHOT HAPPY OVER CROWDS

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 15.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot today entered the northern tier of the Anthracite belt for his last day of speech-making, save one, before the primary election next Tuesday.

Mr. Pinchot was happy with the prospect of overcoming the opposition to his candidacy of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America as he swung into Lackawanna County this morning for a final test of his strength. After visiting nearly a dozen towns in the county he addresses a meeting at Scranton tonight, taking a sleeper from there to Philadelphia for a return to his headquarters.

Friday will be spent in Philadelphia, the former governor making a flying trip to Pittsburgh by night train to address a large mass meeting there Saturday. After that he intends to return to Philadelphia, starting homeward to Milford Monday, making several stops en route, including Easton.

The Pinchot campaign will end Monday night with appearance at Milford where he will remain to vote on Tuesday.

Pinchot was overjoyed at developments during his tour yesterday of Schuylkill, Carson and Luzerne Counties which ended last night at Wilkesbarre, where his meeting represented the best ovation he has received in three weeks he has spent in touring the state in the interests of his candidacy for a second term as governor. The attendance, estimated by his campaign workers at 2,000 or more, equalled that of his meeting at Harrisburg as he started his swing toward the western heart of the state in the early part of the campaign. The enthusiasm of the audience in greeting the various declarations of his platform exceeded anything thus far accorded him.

GRUNDY TO GIVE RADIO TALK

Senator Joseph R. Grundy will speak in behalf of his candidacy to succeed himself in a broadcast at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow over station KDKA in a state-wide hookup. An address by Attorney Sarah Soffel will follow.

Tomorrow's program for Grundy's campaign includes a radio address at 8:15 p. m. by Attorney R. T. Houlden over WJAS and another at 9 p. m. over WCAE by W. L. Munro.

Attorney John P. Egan will address the radio audience at 8:30 p. m. today over WJAS and Attorney Henry A. Jones will speak at 6:15 p. m. over KQV.

Attorney Joseph Stadtfeld broadcast a speech last night over WCAE in which he urged the election of Senator Grundy.

ROOSEVELT KIN, FINANCIER, DIES

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—W. Emlen Roosevelt, capitalist, a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt, died today at his Fifth avenue home at the age of 73. He had been ill for some time.

He was a member of the financial house of Roosevelt & Son, chairman of All-America Cables and an officer and director in numerous other organizations.

He was the son of James and Elizabeth Roosevelt and married the former Christine Kean.

In 1923 W. Emlen Roosevelt gave 11½ acres of wild land surrounding the grave of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, Long Island, to the National Association of Audubon Societies for a wild bird sanctuary and shrine for bird lovers.

Movie Extras Given New Overtime Rules

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—(AP.)—A revision of the rules governing working conditions and involving a new schedule of overtime payment for 17,541 film extras was announced today by Hollywood motion picture producers.

Under the new regulations, contract players employed by the week will receive payment for overtime work after eight hours.

Other new rules include a provision for rest periods between calls, payment for interviews and wardrobe fittings, payment during travel, provision for hot meals on sets and a 16-hour limit for a day's work.

Pittsburghers Sail Aboard Berengaria

NEW YORK, May 15.—John W. McNally, of Pittsburgh, sailed for Europe in the S. S. Berengaria, flagship of the Cunard Line. Other Pittsburghers sailing in the same liner were Miss Edna Burkhardt, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Griffith, Mrs. J. E. Thorp, Miss Thelma O. Smith and Thomas Bowman.

U. S. Envoy Starts Duties in Austria

VIENNA, May 15.—(AP.)—Gilbert Baker Stockton, successor to the late Albert H. Washburn as United States minister to Austria, presented his credentials to President Miklas today.

McGovern Scores Bosses In Talk for Pinchot

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, field marshal of Pinchot's campaign, broadcast a speech last night over WJAS in which he declared that the late State Senator William Flinn was responsible for initiating and having passed legislation for the protection of children, women and labor that is claimed by Francis Shunk Brown, one of Pinchot's opponents.

Discussing limitations of the present primary election system, McGovern said:

"The political bosses in Allegheny County who hold the most important offices, control the police power, as well as personally manage the election machinery, long ago decided that they were the best judges to perform the duty of selecting all other public officials who were needed from time to time in the people's service."

Automobile caravans from every section of Allegheny and adjacent counties will have the Davis Theater the objective Saturday night when Pinchot makes his last principal speech of the campaign, according to Frank I. Gollmar, local Pinchot chairman.

Former President of Council James F. Malone will address a Pinchot meeting at 8 p. m. today in Allentown Turner Hall, Allen avenue. Other meetings scheduled for today are: McKeesport headquarters; residence of Mrs. Martha Madison, 506 Beaver road, Sewickley; Turtle Creek High School and Thaddeus Stevens School, West End.

Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, vice chairman of the Pinchot state committee, and Mrs. E. E. Houghtelin are expected to speak before a group of South Hills women today in the Beechview Women's Civic Club.

A World War veteran's estimate of Pinchot will be broadcast at 7:30 p. m. today over KQV by Gen. Churchill Mehard.

Pinchot Victory By 125,000 Predicted

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Former Judge Arthur C. Dale, state chairman of the Pinchot-for-Governor Committee, made this prediction:

"Gifford Pinchot will win by at least 125,000. His nomination is now a certainty. The primary contest is no longer a race—it is a runaway.

DRY LAW ISSUE IN OREGON VOTE

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—(AP.)—The Oregon electorate tomorrow will vote to nominate a governor, a United States senator, three congressmen, two state supreme court justices and state senators.

Gov. A. W. Norblad faces five opponents for the Republican nomination. Four candidates will fight for the Democratic nomination. The Republicans are J. E. Bennett, Henry Corbett, Charles Hall, John A. Jeffry and State Senator George W. Joseph. The Democrats are E. F. Bailey, A. C. Hough, Ed S. Piper and George R. Wilbur.

Prohibition and public ownership of utilities were the campaign issues.

If you are an employer you may find the worker you want in the "Situations Wanted" Ads in the Classified Section.

Place 10-Ton Rock At Bushy Run As Memorial

JEANETTE, Pa., May 15.—A 10-ton Ligonier blue rock boulder, from Booth & Flinn's quarries, was placed on a concrete foundation today as a marker on the Bushy Run battlefield site in Pennsylvania, three miles north of Jeannette.

The boulder is the gift of the Booth & Flinn quarries through the courtesy of C. Lawrence Casey, superintendent. It is the purpose of the Bushy Run Battlefield Commission to place bronze markers on the boulder this summer, telling the story of the battle and its historical importance.

The state now owns 130 acres of land at the battle site.

$200 Fire Damage In Vacant Building

3 FAITHS PLEAD TO BAN BIGOTRY

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—(AP.)—Apostles of three faiths, a Protestant, a Jew and a Catholic, spoke from the same banquet table last night and each pleaded for dissipation of religious prejudices.

They spoke on a seminar program, described as a "religious prejudice disarmament conference," attended by some of the nation's outstanding leaders in all three faiths.

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, said that "nowhere in the world is the task of creating some degree of comity between various religious communities more urgent than here in America."

The Rev. John A. McClory, S. J., of the University of Detroit, deplored the "dogma of religion."

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue of New York, pleaded for higher intelligence and finer sympathy to dispel prejudice and ill will.

Pennsylvania R. R. Puts in Longest Freight Runs

The longest through freight runs without change of engines ever established by the Pennsylvania Railroad have been inaugurated between Crestline, O., and Altoona, Pa., via Pittsburgh, it is announced by Vice President E. W. Smith. Locomotives of the massive M-1 type are hauling many of the fastest freight trains practically on passenger train schedules 320 miles with but one scheduled stop, at Sharpsburg, Pa., where crews are changed and the engine fire cleaned. Under the new arrangement several hours are clipped off the former running time.

A thief broke into the office of Dr. Joseph W. Moss, at 707 McClure avenue, Homestead, early today and stole $200 worth in gold and other dental supplies.

LOSES ESTATE IF SHE WEDS

Elias Goldman, of 5843 Darlington road, in his will filed for probate today, leaves his $50,000 estate to his wife, Sarah Goldman, for as long as she remains unmarried. In case of marriage, the estate is to be divided among her and their children. At her death each of Mr. Goldman's children and grandchildren receives $2,000, and the remainder is to be shared by the children.

Mr. Goldman stipulated that the inheritance of any of his children who married outside their race was to be reduced to $5. To Jewish charities he left $1,200. Mrs. Goldman was named executrix.

Open Hill Branch Of Poor Association

The new Hill branch of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, Webster and Washington avenues, will be formally opened next Tuesday, H. W. Shepard, secretary and general manager, said.

M., Islam Grotto, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Beth Shalom and B'Nai Israel synagogues. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Milton Morris; two daughters, Mrs. A. Supowitz and Mrs. I. Broverman, and a brother, Harry Morris.

Meyer Morris

Johnston Funeral.

Funeral services for Carman C. Johnston, 54, a former teacher in the Westinghouse and Fifth Avenue High schools, who died in Huntingdon, Pa., yesterday, will be held in the chapel of Juniata College, in that city, tomorrow. He was born in Uniontown and came to Pittsburgh in 1910. While here he was an elder in the Church of the Brethren, Greenfield avenue, and conducted a Bible class in the William Penn Hotel, and broadcast Sunday school lessons over station KDKA. He went to Florida four years ago, for his health, going from there to Huntingdon last year. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Forbes Johnston, of Pittsburgh; a brother, Joe L. Johnston, of Winchester, Va., and three sisters, Mrs. D. D. Kaufman, of Huntingdon; Mrs. Z. H. Rhodes, of Edgewood, and Mrs. D. P. Kennedy, of Tarentum.

Frank H. Burkhart.

Frank H. Burkhart, veteran real estate man, died yesterday at his home, 612 Center avenue, Aspinwall. He was employed in the real estate department of the Fidelity Title & Trust Company for 37 years. Mr. Burkhart was born on the North Side. He was a leader in boys' brigade activities and a veteran of the Spanish-American War. He was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Aspinwall and superintendent of the Sunday School for many years. He was a member of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Jessie Burkhart; two sons, Russell and Frank H. Burkhart, Jr., and a sister.

Mrs. Marie Cameron Seeley.

Mrs. Marie Cameron Seeley, widow of Leonard P. Seeley and for 25 years a resident of Pittsburgh, died today in her home in Duluth, Minn. Mrs. Seeley was born in Toronto, Can., and came to Pittsburgh about 40 years ago. She later went to reside in Duluth. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. C. M. Garrison, of New York; Mrs. E. C. Bald and Mrs. Edmund W. Mudge, of Pittsburgh; and two sisters, Mrs. Charles P. Craig, of Washington, and Mrs. Maud Palmer, of Duluth. Services will be held from the home of Mrs. Mudge, 1000 Morewood avenue.

McLean Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mathilda W. McLean, who died Tuesday at her home in the King Edward Apartments, will be held tomorrow at the home of a son, J. F. McLean, of 362 Stratford avenue. She was born in Saltsburg. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Pittsburgh Chapter, D. A. R. She leaves seven sons, John, J. Franklin, Harold, and J. Donald McLean, of Pittsburgh; Barnet McLean, of Philadelphia; W. Frederick McLean, of Bayshore, L. I., and Edwin McLean, of Los Angeles; two sisters and a brother.

Miller Funeral.

Funeral services for Harry J. Miller, of 1307 Rescue street, Spring Hill, were to be held today at the William Sirlin funeral home, 620 East Ohio street, North Side. He died Sunday. He was born in Baltimore and came to Pittsburgh 20 years ago. He was a member of the Workingman's Beneficial Union and St. Ambrose Catholic Church, Spring Hill. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Louise Miller Huegel, and two brothers, F. L. and Walter F. Miller, all of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Bella M. McClellan.

Mrs. Bella M. McClellan, of 313 Curtain avenue, for 14 years matron at the Warrington playgrounds, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Riggs, 313 Curtain avenue. Mrs. McClellan was the widow of Frank McClellan. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Riggs, Mrs. R. H. Thompson and Mrs. Mildred Gruber, and two sisters, Mrs. R. C. Bonner and Mrs. D. R. Herrod.

Robbers Break Cash Register to Get $1

Robbers obtained $1 from a cash register they carried from the grocery of F. S. Holtgraver, 3700 Evergreen avenue, last night, and broke open in the rear yard, the proprietor reported to police today. They also ransacked the store, he said.

Auto Victim Dies Of Fractured Skull

CROCKS SEIZED IN RUM RAIDS

WICHITA, Kans., May 15.—(AP.) — Raiding two business houses, Federal prohibition agents seized crocks, bottles, corks and sugar alleged to have been designed for the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

The action followed a drive yesterday against an alleged Kansas liquor ring, which netted about 30 arrests here and in other cities of this district.

John H. Cox, proprietor of the Wichita Stoneware Company, was arrested on a charge of conspiring to defeat the prohibition laws. Among bottles and crocks found at his place of business were numerous square containers with "Gordon gin" blown in the glass. Cox said the gin bottles were left there two years ago by a Wichita bootlegger.

A carload of sugar, many bottles, crocks corks and other paraphernalia were seized at the Wichita Vinegar and Cider Works.

The raids were made under the announced plan of Prohibition Commissioner Doran to "clean up" dealers in apparatus used in making and disposing of liquor, following a recent United States Supreme Court decision which held that the dealers were liable to prosecution.

FALSE ARREST HELD IN SUIT

William A. Savko, of Homestead, and his partner, Egbert Jackson, of Whittaker, have brought suit against Anna Koysa and her husband, Bert Koysa, for $10,000 damages each for accusing them of larceny, on which charge they were acquitted.

They claim through their counsel, Edward G. Coll and Ira Hurwick, that an information was made against them before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, January 20, accusing them of taking certain goods and that when the case was tried in court last April, were acquitted. They claim their reputation was damaged. The plaintiffs are Homestead contractors.

'The Swan' to Open Graduation Week

The presentation of "The Swan," by the senior class of the Pennsylvania College for Women June 4 and 5, will begin the commencement activities. The play will be presented in the school auditorium and on June 6 the alumnae meeting will be held in the assembly hall.

The week's program will be brought to a close with the commencement exercises June 9 in the assembly hall. Dr. Miles H. Krumbine of the Plymouth Church, Shaker Heights, Cleveland, will deliver the commencement address.

Here Tomorrow

Former Open Champion and "Best Dressed Golfer," Will Discuss Golf and Help Local Golfers With Their Problems

10:30 to 1:30

2:30 to 4:00

This popular golf champion will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow as the guest of the Horne Golf and Tennis Shop. During the above hours, he will conduct informal demonstrations in the use of the different clubs and the proper stance, grip, and club for each play, as well as answer questions. The morning session will be especially devoted to men's questions, and the afternoon session to instruction for women, although men and women will be welcome at both sessions.

Local golfers are invited, tomorrow, to avail themselves freely of Mr. Farrell's advice and suggestions to improve their game.

Pact Endangers Philippines, Navy Expert Finds

By CAPT. NELSON H. GOSS, U. S. Navy.

(United States Naval Academy, 1905; commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; now commanding the U. S. S. Sirius. Capt. Goss is a practical sea-going officer, who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.)

The London treaty prescribes an equal submarine tonnage—52,700 tons for Great Britain, Japan and the United States. 5-5-3 ratio; no consideration for naval bases; no regard for its effect on both actual and relative strength of other types of men of war.

Present submarine tonnage is as follows:

America, 81 of 69,908
Great Britain, 69 of 69,201 tons
Japan, 71 of 78,497 tons

These figures do not represent a comparison of actual strength however due to the great difference in both size and age of these vessels.

Fleet Submarines

Only the larger submarines are large enough to operate away from their bases or sustain any material speed at sea. These called fleet submarines are at present divided as follows:

America, 9
Great Britain, 25
Japan, 27

There is also a great difference in value between submarines designed since German knowledge and experience became available after the war. This is reflected naturally in the newer vessels.

The release of funds previously ear-marked for capital ships stimulated British and Japanese submarine building since the Washington conference. As a result they have provided themselves with large numbers of modern vessels while we have built very few of new design, as shown by the following summary of submarines laid down or authorized since the Washington conference:

America, 6
Great Britain, 21.
Japan, 33

The difference in modern vessels is greater than this table indicates, also for the Japanese laid down fourteen of their new design submarines in 1921, while we were still laying down the remainder of our pre-armistice design "S" boats.

Japanese Favored

The treaty fixes the replacement age of submarines at 13 years, which would not enable us to replace 11 of our semi-obsolete "S" boats before 1937. At the same time it contains a special provision authorizing the Japanese to lay down 19,000 new tonnage before that amount of their present vessels reach the age limit.

Submarines, as almost everyone is now beginning to understand, are the one type that cannot be driven away or hunted down except in very restricted waters for they are able to hide under water to escape pursuit or conceal their presence until they are ready to strike.

Hence they are not only destructive in attack but require a great dispersal of effort to guard against them since they must be expected everywhere. This quality of escaping detection also gives them great value for raiding and observation duties.

They have inherent limits, however, which make their relative effectiveness dependent on base facilities. They all have low speed submerged; all except the larger classes have low surface speed and none of them except the largest cruiser types are large enough to sustain any considerable speed in rough weather while all are cramped and uncomfortable for their crews.

Depend on Bases

Relative strength of submarines is accordingly dependent on base facilities more than any other craft, for the amount of time they can be on station and the number in active service depends directly on the distance to and from their bases.

This was strikingly illustrated during the recent war when, in the restricted war zone area, the Germans were seldom able to have more than 20 operating at any one time out of a total of over 200. On this account the same number of submarines may differ very greatly in actual strength.

The agreement at London authorizing Japan equal submarine tonnage with us was much more than a departure from the principle of the 5-5-3 ratio affecting men-of-war.

It would throw the relation of all other types out of balance for greater strength of Japanese submarines would augment her strength in other types and greatly affect her ratio of naval strength.

This is so because with greater strength a greater relative counter anti-submarine effort would have to be made by other powers, thereby dispersing their other types and lowering their effective strength.

Exposes Philippines

If Japan has an equal submarine force with ours both its actual and relative strength would be greatly strengthened, really more than doubled by the nearness of her bases to the Philippines and all our exposed communications with the Far East.

Our relative strength in submarines is substantially decreased by reducing the limit to 52,700 tons for that would not permit sufficient units to cover all exposed points or overcome in any way our lack of bases.

The proposed treaty provision on submarines therefore not only violates the principle of the 5-5-3 ratio in mere tonnage now generally accepted as the proper ratio of strength between the three navies but accords to Japan what is not only a relative but an actual superiority in strength of this type.

Parity Mythical

This in turn would upset the whole ratio of relative strength of other types of naval ships since all are dependent on each other and since increased strength in as important a type as submarine decreases both actual and relative strength of all other types.

Both British and Japanese, as shown above, have large numbers of modern submarines already. The larger fleet type are the only vessels at all effective in overcoming in any way our lack of bases or protecting our exposed communications with the Far East. But we are deficient in them and they have them, especially the Japanese, who do not need them for purposes of defense of their possessions.

We could not even approach the actual submarine strength of Japan, not to consider relative effective strength without going to the expense of an entirely new submarine force except nine vessels.

This reduction to the new treaty limit of tonnage would leave us a submarine force of nine "V" boats and 42 "S" boats, only four of which could be replaced before 1934 so we couldn't equal present Japanese or British submarine strength before 1937, no matter how much we are willing to pay.

WILSON LEAVES TERMINAL COAL

Announcement was made last night of the resignation of Hugh T. Wilson, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, and election of Samuel Purseglove, of Cleveland, as his successor. Mr. Wilson, who lives in the Schenley Apartments, will remain in Pittsburgh, it was said. Mr. Purseglove will continue to live in Cleveland.

The latter, a large individual coal operator, with mines in Eastern Ohio, is said to be affiliated with the Taplin interests, prominent in the affairs of the Terminal corporation. Mr. Wilson, who came to Pittsburgh several years ago, is an individual operator in the West Virginia field.

The Terminal is rated as second only to the Pittsburgh Coal Company in this district, having mines in various points in Allegheny and Washington counties. Several years ago it was said the company owned 20,470 acres of coal lands and 1,320 acres of surface.

Insane Mother Kills Baby Girl, Two Sons

CANSO, N. S., May 15.—(AP.)—A mother gone suddenly insane, killed three of her seven children with an ax yesterday in their cottage home in the village of Dover, near here. The victims were an infant girl, and boys aged 3 and 5 years.

An inquest was held and it was believed the woman, Mrs. George Munroe, would be taken to the Nova Scotia Hospital at Dartmouth without a charge being made against her.

STUDENTS' IDOL HELD IN THEFT

ELKINS, W. Va., May 15.—(AP.)—Ray Hill, 20, track and field star and president of the junior class at Elkins High School, recently voted the most popular student in the school, was arrested by state troopers in the class room, charged with having stoled $700 from a chain store here.

Hill was in the Randolph County jail last night, while his parents endeavored to obtain his freedom on $2,000 bond.

Recently a rear door of the store was broken open and $520 in cash and $180 in checks were stolen. Hill formerly was employed in the store, it was said.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON

In the Auditorium

Says Brinton: Easel painting is done—extinct as the dodo. How about you? Would you cross swords with this famous New York critic? Then better read his lead article in May's "Country Life." Anyway—you'll get a terrific thrill from the theories of anarch Brinton. You are cordially invited to be present.

KAUFMANN'S

Pittsburgh Sets An Example For Maine-to-California

In Pittsburghland there are roaring giants with tongues of fire lining the banks of her waters as far as the eye can see.

In Pittsburghland the iron horses and the stern-wheeler bear on their backs a yearly load greater than that borne from any city in the world.

In Pittsburghland there is a store, heedful of the present preponderance of the Machine, which is pioneering a movement to restore to the Artist his place in Industry, and to restore to Commerce its ancient heritage as Patron of the Industrial Arts.

Five years ago, in its Exposition of Arts and Industries, this store brought handiwork and art objects from all over the world to its Exposition in Pittsburghland. That first important gesture, which has had many imitators, did much to bring the artist out of his studio and into the market place, side by side with the artisan.

And the new First and Arcade Floors, completing the five-year program begun at that Exposition, are the physical projections of the thought expressed here five years ago, "no part of a dollar spent for beauty is ever wasted."

Introducing UNCLE MATT

Here's the Star of "REAL FOLKS"

GEORGE FRAME BROWN is nationally—even internationally—known for his interpretation of Uncle Matt Thompkins, Mayor of Thompkins Corners, and leading character in the "Real Folks" radio program. You've heard him, of course, in the sketches which are broadcast every Monday night at 9:30 over station WJZ or KDKA.

Now "Uncle Matt" wants to tell you something about "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly. He finds it useful in so many ways, he says, that he doesn't see how any one can get along without a jar of it in the medicine chest.

"We men don't like to have chapped, dry skin, but we don't like a heavily scented lotion, either. 'Vaseline' Jelly has no perfume, and is just great to heal rough skin, to soften callouses on hands or feet, and it gives the smoothest, easiest shave you ever knew! For shaving, simply spread a little Jelly over the beard before lathering. Then proceed as usual. No razor pull, and you'll find your face feels absolutely comfortable—the Jelly prevents that smarting, drawn sensation."

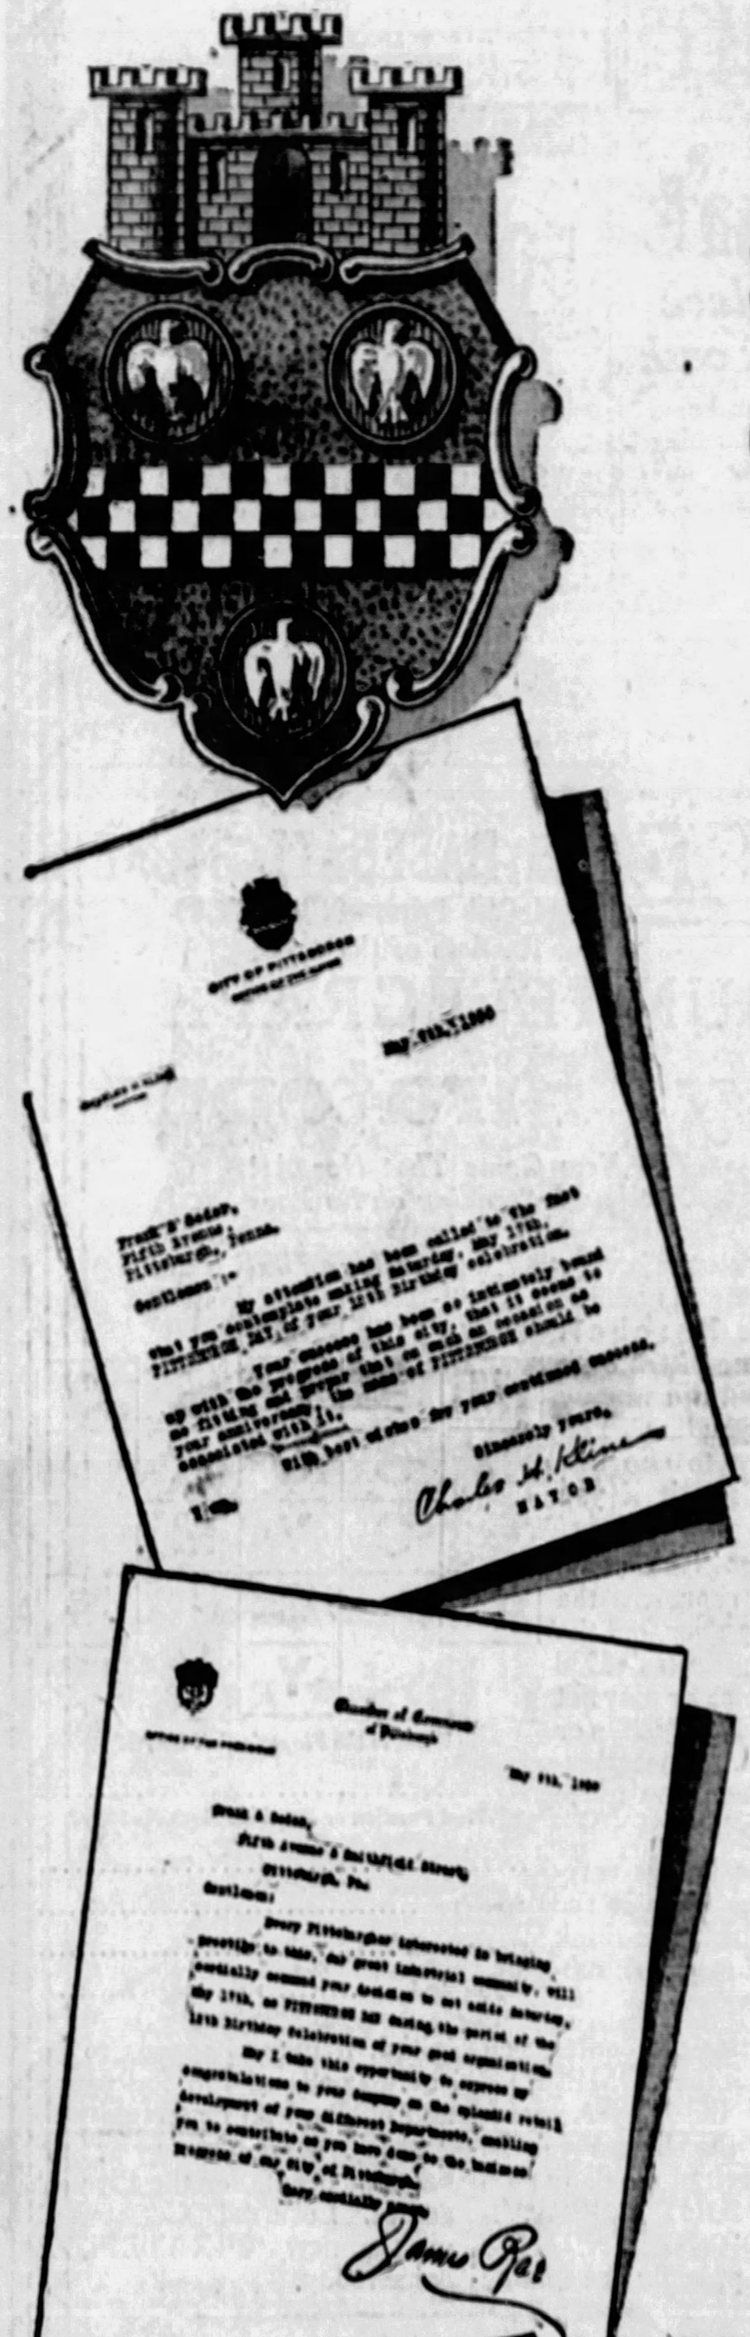
PITTSBURGH DAY

SATURDAY MAY 17th

Sponsored by Frank & Seder—

Commended by Civic Leaders



THESE splendid expressions of goodwill voiced by distinguished leaders in the civic life of Pittsburgh, which are reproduced on this page commending the idea of PITTSBURGH DAY, next Saturday, May 17th, as the outstanding goodwill event of our Twelfth Birthday Celebration, will serve to stimulate us to make the occasion worthy of the city to which it is dedicated.

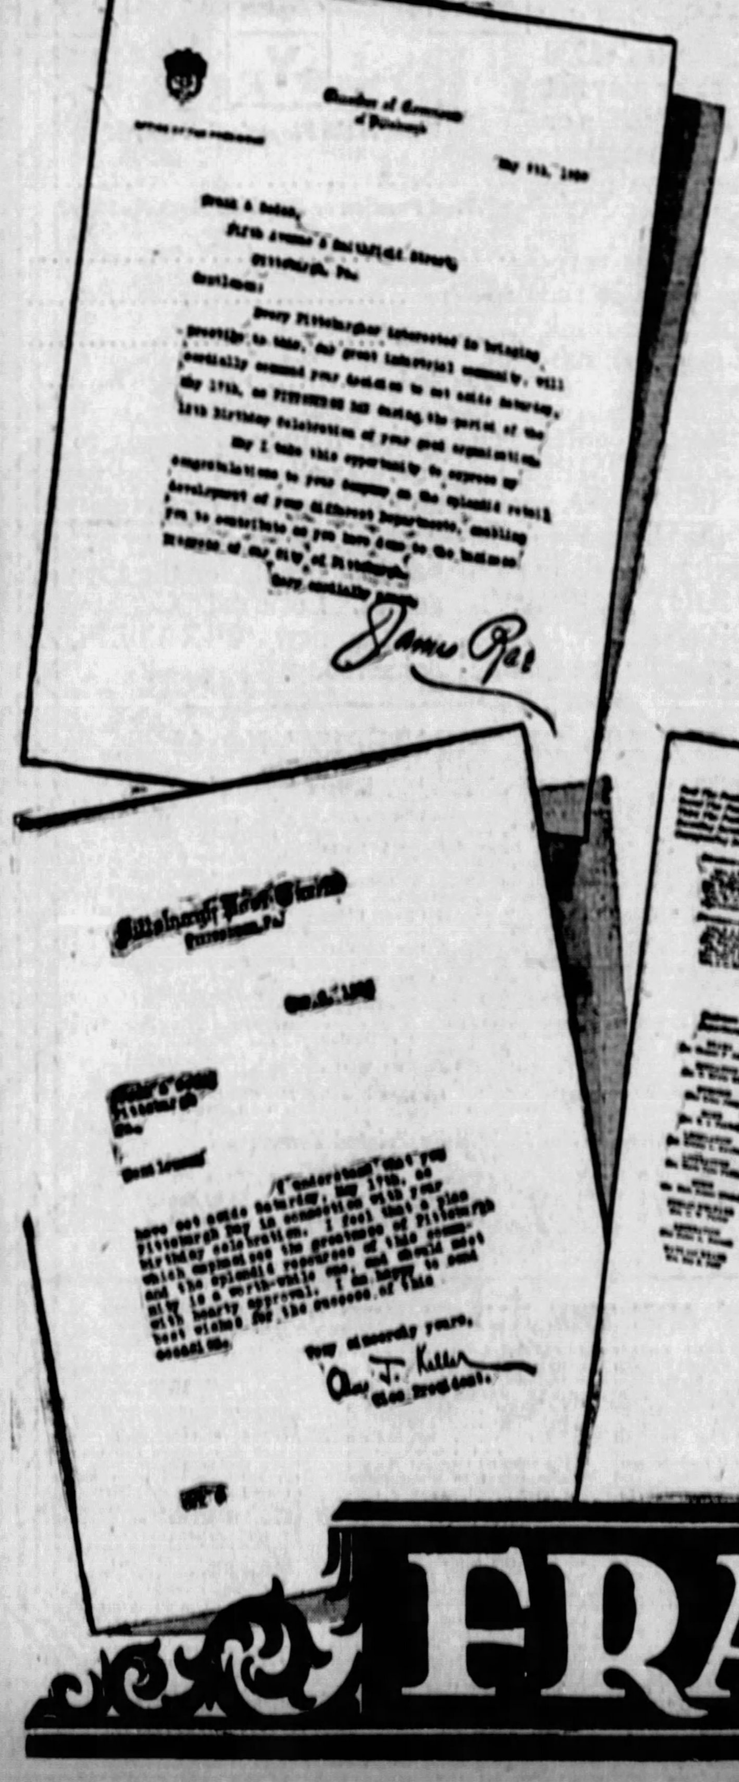
¶ It is gratifying to realize that we have achieved a position in the business life of Pittsburgh as to evoke such high commendation. And our aim will always be to continue to merit such endorsements.

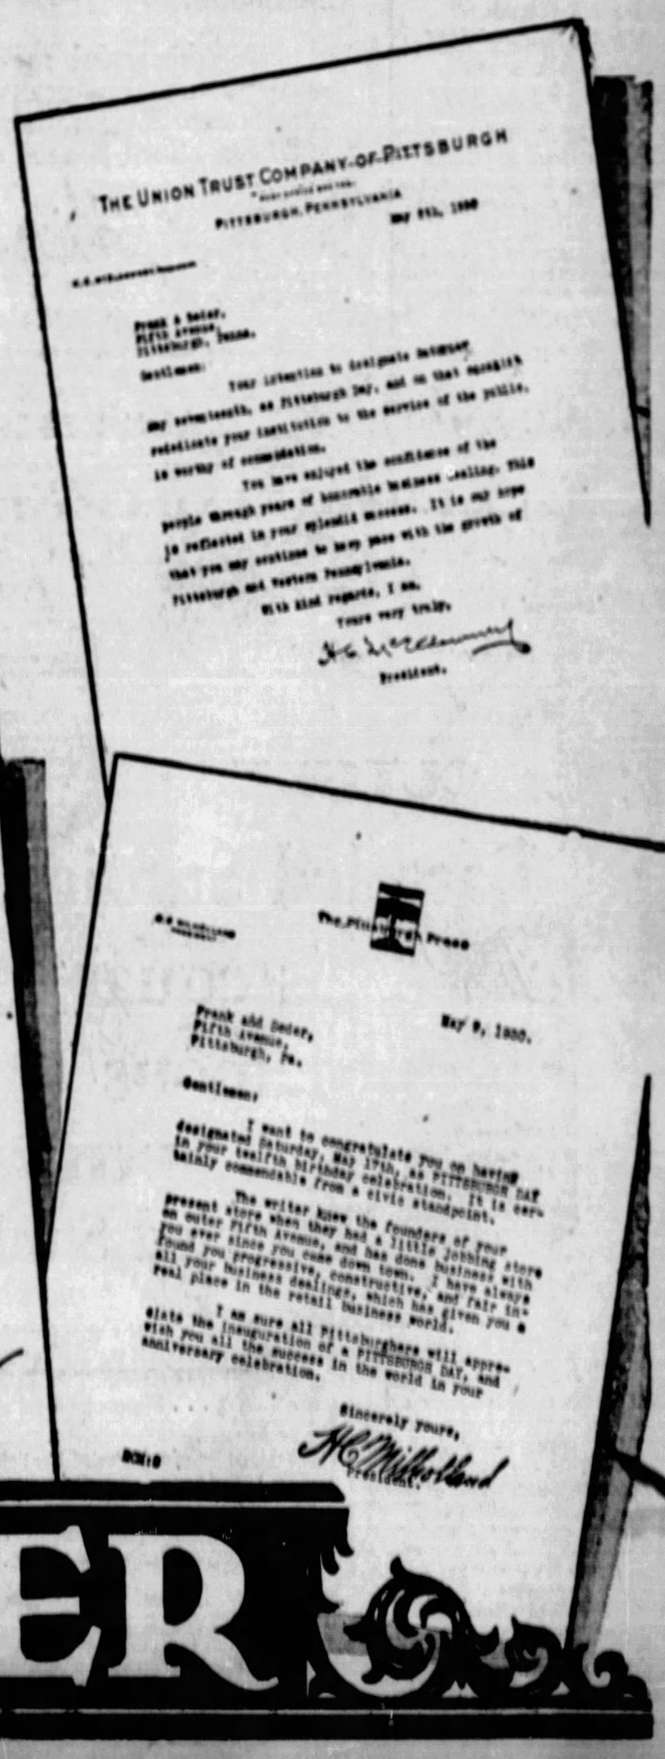
¶ Just at this time when there is a definite trend toward economy on the part of the wage earner, we welcome the opportunity to discharge our obligation to the community by distributing on PITTSBURGH DAY a quarter of a million dollars worth of merchandise of merit, at prices that will barely cover actual operating costs.

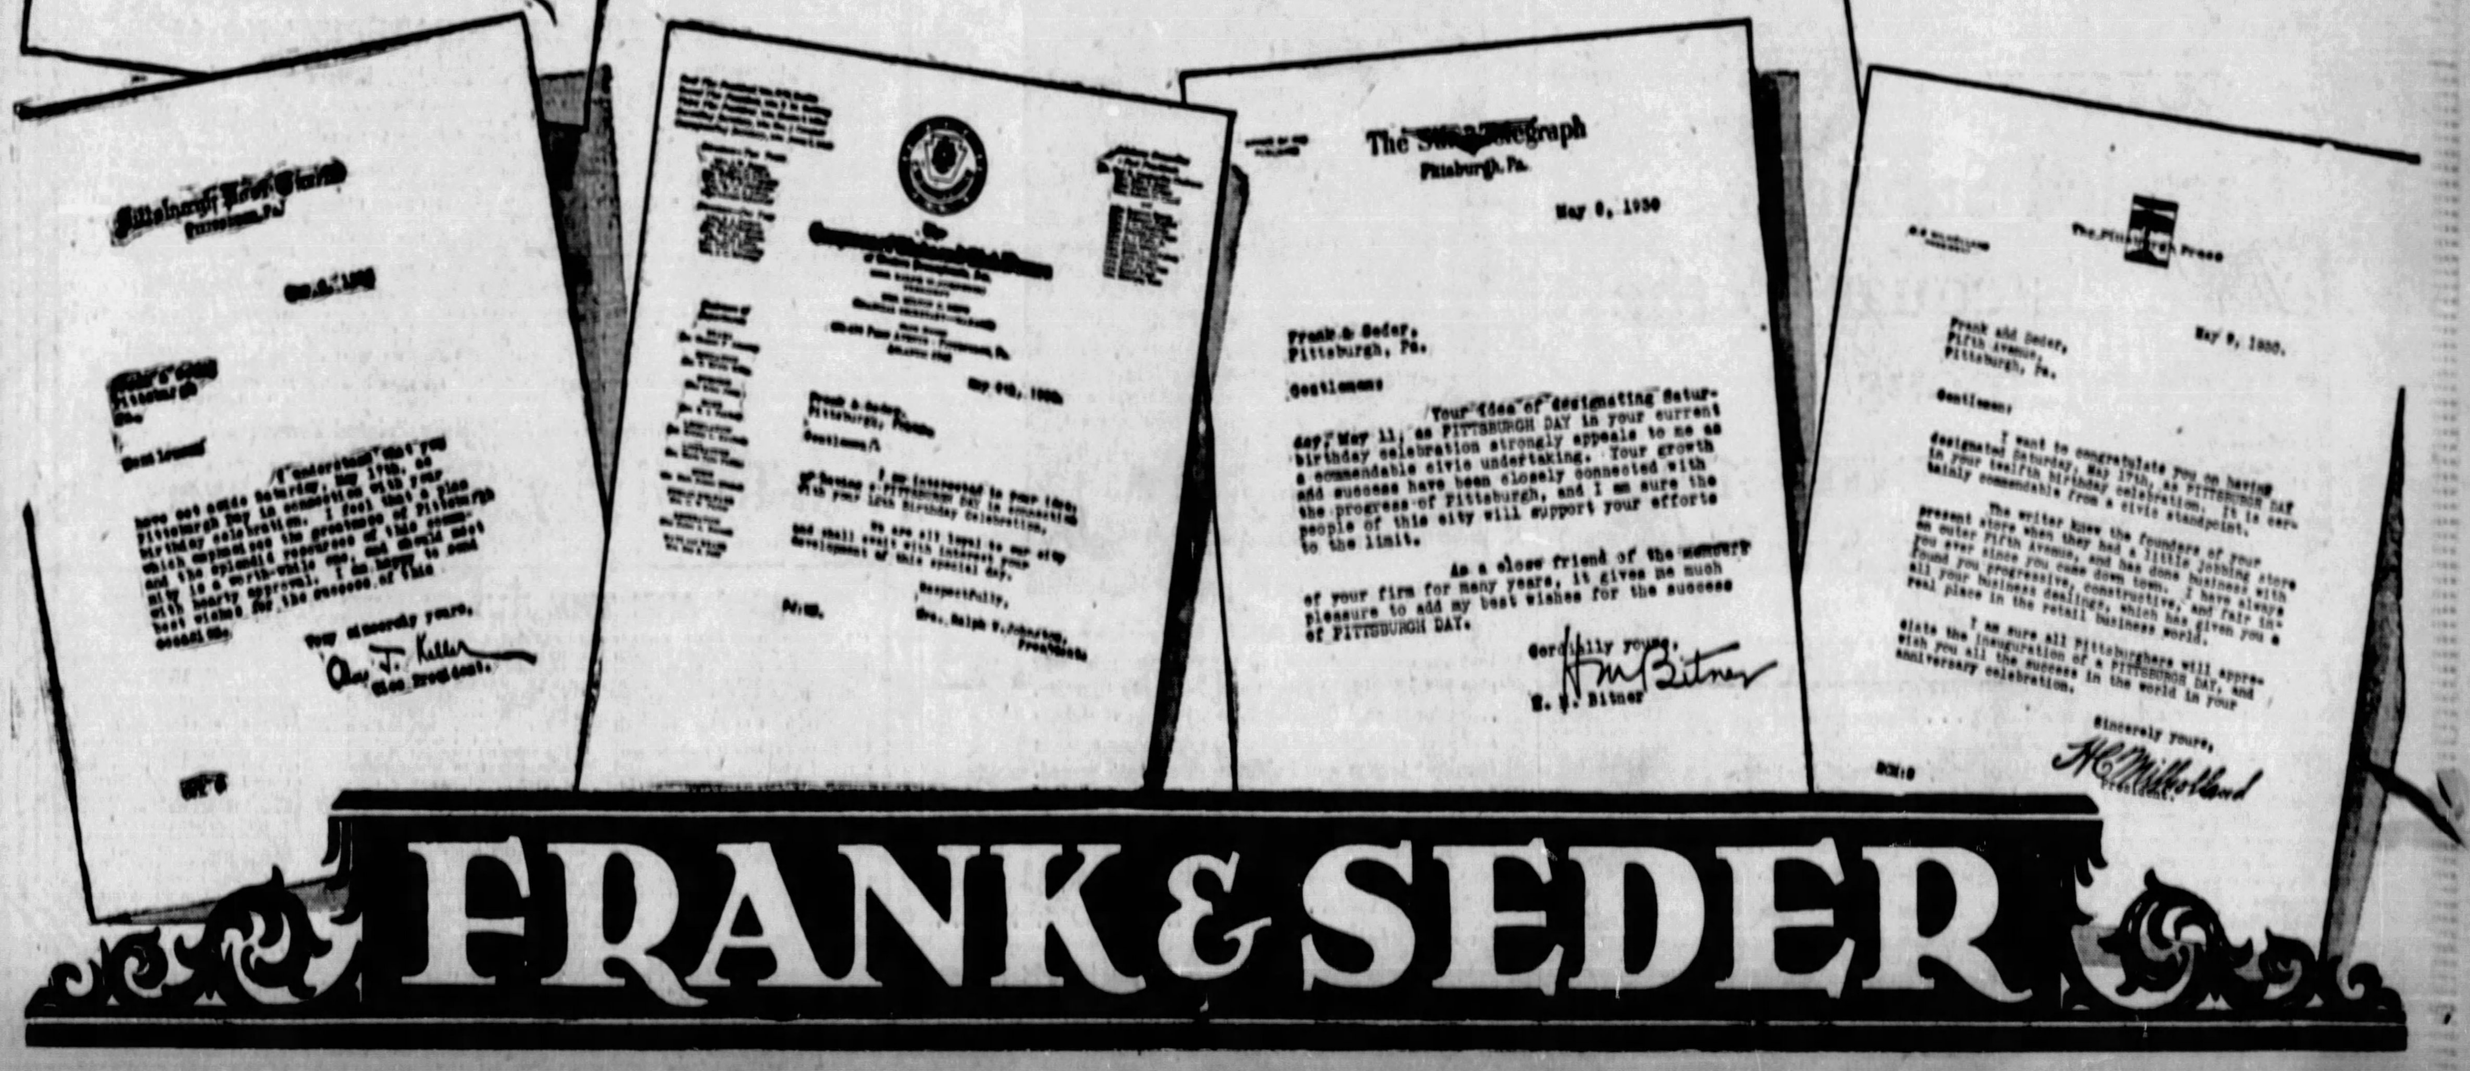
¶ By doing this we shall increase the buying power of the family purse, create employment through the addition of hundreds of salespeople to take care of the increased business, establish an additional outlet for the manufacturer, and in a practical way express our appreciation of the generous patronage of the Pittsburgh public. Pittsburgh Promotes Progress and we want to help promote Pittsburgh.

Fuller details will appear in all Pittsburgh daily papers tomorrow

The complete story will be told in our store Next Saturday, May 17th. We invite the public of Western Pennsylvania to share in this distribution of merchandise at important savings.







FRANK & SEDER

LEAGUE ENTERS HOLY CITY FUSS

GENEVA, May 15.—(AP.)—The Council of the League of Nations adjourned today after approving the personnel for a special commission to study the historic problem of the wailing wall in Jerusalem, so often the center of dispute between Jews and Arabs. The commissioners are M. Eliel Loefgren, former Swedish foreign minister; Charles Bards, Swiss jurist, and Mynheer von Kempen, Dutch colonial official.

Foreign Secretary Henderson, of Great Britain, said his government was not relaxing measures for maintaining order in Palestine.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France, has compiled a questionnaire dealing with his plan for forming a "United States of Europe," which will be in the hands of the various concerned governments and league members Saturday. It is understood one has been sent to Washington.

PARIS, May 15.—(AP.)—The question of removing the League of Nations from Geneva to an especially created independent territory much like the Vatican City state, has been raised by Matin, French daily, and is arousing considerable discussion.

SON TO RECEIVE HURD FORTUNE

Jack V. Hurd, vice president of the Monongahela Tube Company, who was killed in an auto accident in Wilmington, N. C., names his wife, Mrs. Caroline Hurd, who was killed with him, and his son, Sigourney Hurd, beneficiaries of his $160,000 estate in his will which was filed for probate today.

Hurd specified that one-half was to be held in trust for his wife and that the son was to receive one-third of his inheritance at 30, one-half at 40 and the remainder at 45.

As Mrs Hurd died along with her husband, the son, now a student in a military school, probably will receive the entire estate. The Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., is named executor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd were killed when their auto plunged into a creek, failing to take a curve.

Bar Will Propose Evans Successor

President Arthur M. Scully, of the Allegheny County Bar Association, has set Monday at 3:30 for a meeting of the association to determine the members' attitude, in a referendum, on a successor to Judge John A. Evans, who retired April 30.

The lawyers' choice of a candidate to succeed Judge Evans will be submitted as a recommendation to Gov. John S. Fisher.

Dormont Captain Made Police Chief

Police Capt. R. B. Miller, 461 Carnegie avenue, was named head of Dormont police to succeed the late Chief Albert Ruehling at a special meeting of Council last night. Chief Miller, who served as captain under Chief Ruehling, has been with the department about five years.

MOTHER SUES FOR BABY

Mrs. Georgia Grunert, of Cleveland, today instituted habeas corpus proceedings in court against her husband, Francis J. Grunert, to gain possession of her two-year-old daughter, Georgia.

The mother trailed her husband her from Cleveland, her counsel, Attorney Harry I. Miller, informed Judge A. B. Reid, in filing the petition, and found the child with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Grunert, 201 Michigan street, Beltzhoover.

The Grunerts, married February 9, 1927, separated last Monday, the petition set forth. Judge Reid fixed next Monday for a hearing. The father is a chain grocery store manager in Cleveland, according to Attorney Miller.

AUTOIST HELD IN 2 DEATHS

A coroner's jury today recommended that Richard Butler, 45, of Metropolitan street, be held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge in the death of John Creedon, 27, of Eckert street, and James McDonald, 24, of Sandusky street. Riding in Butler's auto, they were fatally injured when the car struck a pole at Baum and Bigelow boulevards.

Testimony was that the crash occurred while Butler was trying to escape from a pursuing motorist whose auto he had sideswiped.

Mayview Hospital Nurses to Graduate

Eight nurses graduated tonight from the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, the exercises being held in the Chapel at 7:30. The graduates are: Lydia Elizabeth Smith, of Meadow View, Va.; Mary Violet Eyer, of Beach Creek; Mary Margaret Butler, of Leetsdale; Effie Stella Lane, of Grant, Va.; Virginia Bell Ashley, of Warrenville, N. C.; Dalsie Isobelle Kline, of Ford City; Ruth Irene Reitze, of Carnegie; Loretta Mae Forh, of Allentown.

NEW HAITI HEAD TAKES OATH

Mr. Roy, who is 69 and an independent, succeeds President Louis Borno, who finished an eight-year term today.

The new president will develop plans for a popular election either late this summer or in the autumn for a regular president.

RAIL-BUS LINK UNDER FIRE

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission will make a thorough investigation concerning the coordination of motor transportation of passengers and property on the public highways "by or in connection or in competition with the railroads," it announced today.

The inquiry will go into the question of whether such motor transportation is performed by the railroad directly or indirectly or through subsidiary or affiliated companies, or through control in any manner in whole or in part, or by other operators of motor vehicles.

HERE ARE THE RULES FOR "PIRATEPUZ"

(1) Every day until further notice the daily Sun-Telegraph will print a frame, or diagram in squares, each containing the letters, that will, when placed in order, spell the name of a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball player.
(2) In this frame it may be possible that abbreviations and nicknames will be employed. The readers of the Sun-Telegraph in solving the daily PIRATEPUZ are to endeavor to submit as their answer the full, complete and correct name of the player, devoid of nickname or abbreviation, other than that of the middle initial, if there happens to be one.
(3) This is a contest that will test the skill of the readers of the Sun-Telegraph as to their knowledge of the names of the players of the Pittsburgh club.
(4) There will be a new PIRATEPUZ every day and daily prizes for the correct and most nearly correct answers will be awarded as follows:
1st Prize ....$10.00 in Cash
2nd Prize .... 5.00 in Cash
3rd Prize .... 2.50 in Cash
Next 25 Prizes—Each a Grandstand General Admission ticket to the Pirates' games, good any day during the season.
(5) Neatness in the preparation of answers submitted will be a factor in the judging. In case of ties, the contestants so tied will be given an equal award. The decision of the judges will be final in all cases.
Contestants agree that entries become the property of the Sun-Telegraph. The contest is open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls—no matter where they live, with the exception of employes of the Sun-Telegraph. You do not have to purchase a copy of the Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. The files of this newspaper are available at the Sun-Telegraph Branch Office, Fifth Avenue and Market Street, where any person can copy or trace the puzzle.
(6) All answers must be addressed to the PIRATEPUZ Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and must be postmarked not later than midnight of the day following the publication of the PIRATEPUZ for which the answer is submitted. Contestants are requested to place the number of the puzzle on the low outside left-hand corner of the envelope.
(7) Winners will be announced one week after the publication of the PIRATEPUZ—on the corresponding day.

'HEIRS' TESTIFY IN N. Y. FRAUD

CLEVELAND, May 15.—(AP.)—Six Ohioans, who were among thousands throughout the country who paid $26 apiece to protect "hereditary interests" in that parcel of Manhattan Island, N. Y., on which the Woolworth Building stands, testified in Federal court here against Dr. Herbert H. Edwards, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Dr. Edwards was president of the International Edwards Heirs' Association, Inc., until February 16, 1929, when postoffice inspectors terminated his presidency by arresting him.

Federal indictments against Edwards allege he engineered a nationwide swindle in which he obtained between $6,000 and $10,000, and in which his "expert geneologist," Milo Pressel, ertswhile carpenter, got $12,000, and $11,000 was left over in the association's treasury.

Pressel pleaded guilty last December and is serving two and a half years in Atlanta prison.

Dwight W. Morrow Honored at Amherst

AMHERST, Mass., May 15.—(AP.)—Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, Naval parley delegate and candidate for the Republican nomination of United States senator from New Jersey, was chosen the most outstanding graduate of Amherst College in the final tabulations of the senior class vote.

Woman, 101, 'Dies,' Comes Back To Life

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 15.—(AP.)—The attorney general here was asked to cancel a death certificate for Juana Gonzalez, a 101-year-old widow who refused to stay dead.

Her two grandsons reported her "death" to the civil registry clerk at Guaynabo, went to buy a casket, and on returning home found her revived.

A physician certified that Senora Gonzalez was still living, but the clerk could find no law permitting cancellation of a death certificate.

The woman resides in the Barrio of Pueblo Viejo, which was founded by Ponce De Leon, the Spanish explorer who searched for the fountain of youth.

School Principal Changes Position

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 15.—E. E. Church, principal of the high school here for the past seven years, has resigned to become supervising principal in the Parkersburg (W. Va.) High School. He will be succeeded here by Roy E. Boone, assistant principal.

Man Gets 2 Months For Beating Wife

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 15.—Alleged to have beaten his wife, Margaret, Stanley Novich pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months in the Allegheny County Workhouse.

OLSON SUSPECT DEFIES POLICE

SHREVEPORT, La., May 15.—(AP.)—A young man giving the name of Terence O'Rourke sat in a cell here, and talked glibly while police sought to determine if he was Erdman S. Olson, sought over the American continent as the slayer of his sweetheart, Clara Olson, Wisconsin farm girl.

He denied he is the man wanted, but the police said he resembled the description of the slayer and had in his possession handwriting similar to that found among the girl's possessions. Her body was found with the skull crushed in a shallow grave near Rising Sun, Wis. Wisconsin authorities charged that Olson slew her when the girl attempted to make him marry her to save her from disgrace.

O'Rourke said he was born in Ireland, migrated to Canada and left his home in Windsor in 1922.

Arrange Program For Bankers' Meet

SHARON, Pa., May 15.—(AP.)—The program for the three-day convention of the Pennsylvania State Bankers' Association to open May 21 at Atlantic City was announced here by Harry B. McDowell, of Sharon, president of the organization.

Included among the speakers will be John G. Lonsdale, president of the American Bankers' Association; C. Allison Scully of the Manhattan Trust Company, New York; Frank G. Sayre, of Philadelphia, and Judge Gilbert Stephenson, of Wilmington, Del.

Tired of Wedded Life Farmer Kills Wife

PORTLAND, Me., May 15.—(INS.)—Investigation of more than a month reached a dramatic climax here when Kenneth W. Williams confessed to authorities, they said, that he killed his bride of a few months in the barn on their farm in Yarmouth on April 4. According to County Attorney Ralph Ingalls, the young husband said he struck his 20-year-old wife over the head with a rolling pin, asserting that he had become dissatisfied with married life.

The Smartest 1930 TRAVEL COAT Is Furred

$39.50 and $49.50

The travel coat that will lounge about the smart liners this season . . . or keep off the breeze of the smart mountain or seaside resorts . . . may nip its waistline or be nattily straightline. It may be of rough tweed . . . or of soft llama or diagonal cheviot.

But always it will be furred. And always it will have the unmistakably fine tailoring seen in every McCreery coat.

These in 1930 pastels, and red, and black and white. Furred in the fluffy sunshine wolf, or lapin.

Sizes 14 to 40

(A) For those who prefer to travel in a straight line, Vionnet makes such straightline coats as these, with diagonal insets. Tweed with sunshine wolf. $49.50.

(B) The way this diagonal pastel cheviot flares from its tiny belt, is likely to give one a very jaunty feeling. With sunshine wolf. $39.50.

LISLE STOCKINGS Are the New Fashion

Yes, they'll take all honors—golfing, tennising, walking, casual afternoon-ing. Fashion says so, and Fashion ought to know. And like all "good" stockings, these imported lisles are dull, slenderizing, sheer, and sturdy. We've a complete stock.

At $1.00

At $1.50

Chiffon lisles that wisely prefer lace clocks. Plain chiffon lisles and a variety of interesting mesh patterns. Graceful heels. Tan shades, white, suntan, and pastels.

At $1.95

Tweedy chiffon lisles that even boast of picot tops. Some with lovely lace clocks. Beige, alibaba, copenhagen, orchid, green, white, black.

Lisle Anklets that will feel at home on tennis courts or golf links. Mesh weaves, some with pastel cuffs..... 50c and $1.00

USED A CANE; KONJOLA ENDS RHEUMATISM!

Pittsburgh Lady Could Not Walk for Seven Weeks—New Medicine Brings Glorious Relief.

There is no need to neglect rheumatic pains and suffer the discomfort of this dreadful disease when a five or six weeks' treatment of this remarkable Konjola medicine will bring amazing relief. Of course, rheumatism is an ailment which takes time to overcome and a systematic treatment of more than one or two bottles is recommended to work the poisons out of the system. Konjola contains no alcohol or heart-depressing chemicals; therefore, will not stop pain at once, but, if taken with regularity, will bring relief in a natural way. What is more logical than to follow the experience of others—men and women who have taken Konjola and found relief from the excruciating pains of that demon affliction—rheumatism. Just read the remarkable statement that Mrs. Jessie Murray, 110 East Erie Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, made to the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, just a few days ago:

MRS. JESSIE MURRAY

"I have taken a six weeks' treatment of Konjola and have improved wonderfully. My rheumatism is almost gone. In recent years I suffered from rheumatism in my knees. Last winter I had to stay in bed or just sit around. For seven weeks I could not walk and when I finally started to get around I had to use a cane all the time. At night I was so restless and nervous that my sleep was broken, and I always felt tired throughout the day. I suffered at times from indigestion and distress after eating. My appetite was very poor and what I did eat failed to nourish me or give me strength.

"I started taking Konjola after reading about it time and time again. Since taking six bottles I feel fine. I walk without a cane and have no difficulty in going wherever I please. The rheumatism gradually vanished and now, I feel it only slightly at times. I believe that if I continue taking Konjola it will be entirely banished. Soon after starting on Konjola I noticed that my appetite had increased and that the food I ate digested perfectly and without distress. I sleep soundly and awaken each morning feeling well rested and full of energy. Konjola is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all who suffer."

Konjola is not designed for mere temporary relief. When given a fair trial of from six to eight weeks, it will produces amazing results.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man.

Konjola is sold also by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

LUCY MARSH, Gladys Rice, Wilfred Glenn and Lambert Murphy will assist Nathaniel Shilkret's Orchestra tonight in reviewing the colorful career of Rudolf Friml for the RCA Hour on WCAE at 10 p. m.

Selections from the operettas "Katinka," "You're in Love," "The Firefly," "Rose Marie," "High Jinks" and "The Vagabond King" will be presented. Lucy Marsh and Lambert Murphy will do the melodious "Indian Love Call."

Rudolf Friml

Songs of trench life including his own "Hinkey-Dinkey Parlez Vous" and "Dear Old Pal of Mine" will be sung by Lieut. Gitz Rice for the WCAE Sunshine Hour at 8 o'clock. Six Canadian Mounties will help Rudy Vallee honor Toronto, Montreal and McGill Universities.

Knights of the Garter will be introduced to WJAS listeners at 9:30.

GONG!—Tunney rushes from his corner. Dempsey meets him half way—biff, bang, bim—and for 26 minutes every Thursday night Francis Owen gets all excited before the WJAS microphone crowning a new champion.

THIS BOY Owen—quiet, reserved among his associates—is a rapid fire talker in describing prize fights. He sets a pace that would have Tunney gaping at the end of the third round.

As the announcer, referee, timekeeper, the crowd and whatnot Owen has his hands full weaving the destiny of fight kings. One second he's pounding the desk, the next he conjures a mob scene via phonograph . . . all the time firing away at words so rapidly and vividly that one has an ambition to take a punch at the microphone or whatever's nearest.

* * *

OWEN had us all enthused in his rehearsal yesterday. We clocked him at 9 8-10 words a second which might be something for Floyd Gibbons' admirers to think about.

* * *

TONIGHT Owen must gratify Mr. Willard by producing insomnia for Mr. Johnson in 26 minutes and 17,004 words . . . or just about 10 words a second.

* * *

Now that is sumthin!

BUT on a golf course our hero is not so loquacious. It's either "Par!" (meaning Fore!) or a light, frivolous word not usually spoken when a golfer makes a hole in one.

War Hero Sings.

The war hero and song writer, Lieut. Gitz Rice, whose "Dear Old Pal of Mine" and "Hinkey Dinkey Parlez-Vous" helped lighten the burden of trench life, will present these songs among others when he appears with his six Canadian Mounties. Numbers which the Lieutenant and his songsters present include a medley of Canadian Northwest Mounted Police songs; a potpourri of popular ballads written by Rice and a group of the wartime ballads that patriots sang in the days of the war. Rudy Vallee and His Connecticut Yankees are dedicating this program to the Canadian universities and have selected favorite campus songs of McGill, Montreal and Toronto universities as a special feature.

TECH STUDENT WINS FREEDOM

Arthur Capozzi, 24, of 40 Carver street, a Tech student, was discharged at a hearing this morning before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central police court.

Capozzi was arrested last night by Patrolman George Stokes after Capozzi had made uncomplimentary remarks to the officer following his refusal to allow Capozzi to park his car on Sixth street near Penn avenue. At the hearing this morning Rothenberg stated that several of Capozzi's friends had called the Magistrate late last night, attempting to "fix" the charge. In spite of this Rothenberg discharged Capozzi on account of his student standing.

Spain Denies Pact With Italy Exists

MADRID, May 15.—(INS.)—The Spanish government today vigorously denied the existence of an alleged secret alliance between Italy and Spain. An official announcement said:

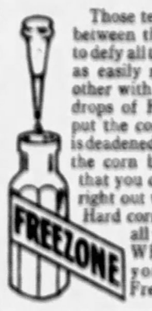
end to CORNS between toes



Those terribly mean corns between the toes that seem to defy all treatment—they're as easily removable as any other with Freezone! A few drops of Freezone instantly put the corn to sleep. Pain is deadened at once, and soon the corn becomes so loose that you can actually lift it right out with your fingers. Hard corns or soft corns—all yield to Freezone. Why suffer when your druggist sells Freezone?

Even Boys Enjoy This Quick Shampoo

Some sense to this shampoo! A quick, bubbly glycerin lather that goes to the depth of every pore and rinses out like a flash. Six minutes is all it takes. Leaves your hair glossy, vigorous, alive—your scalp tingling clean. Nothing so delightful for shampoo, hands and bath as a pure glycerin soap. Try Jap Rose for just ten days and appreciate the difference.

CHAIN STORE BILL PUSHED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The first important piece of anti-chain store legislation produced by a congressional committee was knocking at the door of Congress today with the House Interstate Commerce Committee prepared to demand consideration of the Capper-Kelly re-sale price measure.

Sponsors not only expect to place it on the program but to pass it in the House at least.

The bill sets aside the anti-trust laws to permit manufacturers of trade-mark, brand or trade name articles to require retailers to sell them at a price fixed by the manufacturers.

Representative Merritt (Rep.), Connecticut, has framed the report on the bill, which was introduced in the House by Representative Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania and in the Senate by Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas.

Patrol Driver, Crash Victim, Asks $50,000

Policeman Frank H. Eastley, injured while driving a police patrol, has brought suit for $50,000 damages against John E. Glenn, driver of an automobile with which the police patrol collided December 7 at Everett street and Larimer avenue. Eastley suffered the loss of several teeth and received a permanent scar on his forehead.

Gary Bomb Lets Go Near Police Station

GARY, Ind., May 15.—(AP)—A black powder bomb exploded early today in an alleyway less than a block from the police station. Damage was confined to a few shattered windows in a two-story office building.

GETTING MORE THAN YOU PAY FOR

Few things give us more pleasure and satisfaction than getting more than we pay for. Among tooth pastes this means PEBECO. It is a tooth paste plus. It cleans. It polishes without abrasion. AND, by stimulating the flow of saliva, it helps Nature check the mouth acids which drill and drill at the tooth crevices, starting cavities. Turn over a new leaf in your choice of dentifrices. Start using Pebeco today. In a week you'll agree there is a remarkable difference.

*In the U. S. Public Health Reports of 1923, Volume 38, Page 1271, we find the following: "Among short men less than 5 feet 7 inches in height an excess (in weight) of 20% involves an added mortality of 30% above normal. A 40% excess adds 80% to the mortality." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Hundreds of thousands of Frigidaires have never required any SERVICE

this is ONE reason why

3 times

as many Frigidaires are now in use as any other make of electric refrigerator

Frigidaire is sold with a definite guarantee, backed by General Motors.

And still more important to you as a purchaser is the fact that year after year Frigidaire continues to give satisfaction—long after the guarantee has expired.

If service should be required it is rendered instantly and without removing the machine from the premises.

Other reasons why 3 times as many Frigidaires are now in use as any other make of electric refrigerator

All Porcelain-on-steel
Every household Frigidaire is finished inside and out with Porcelain-on-steel. It won't rust, scratch, peel or blister.

Surplus Power
Every Frigidaire has the surplus power to keep food safely cold even on the hottest days.

The Famous "Cold Control"
The "Cold Control" makes possible extra fast freezing of ice cubes or desserts.

Unit at the Bottom
The mechanical unit is in the bottom of the cabinet out of the way. This design also provides a flat, usable top.

The New Hydrator
Wilted vegetables are revived and fresh vegetables stay fresh in the Frigidaire Hydrator.

Elevated Food Shelves

Quiet Operation—always
Recent improvements and refinements make permanently quiet operation one of the outstanding advantages of Frigidaire.

Low First Cost and Low Operating Cost
Frigidaire prices are low and the operating cost is but a few cents a day.

BOLT ELECTION IN DOMINGO

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 15.—(AP.)—The executive committee of the Alianza of the National Progressive parties withdrew the names of Frederico Velasquez and Angel Morales, candidates for president and vice president, as well as all candidates for Congress and provincial municipal offices, from Friday elections.

Senor Velasquez, in a letter to the secretary of the Junta Central Electoral, which controls the electoral machinery, notified him that all Alianza nominations were canceled in view of conditions prevailing throughout the country and in accordance with a manifesto issued by the party that it will not participate in the elections the sixteenth of this month.

Alianza leaders said they took this action to prevent any ballot being cast in favor of their candidates tomorrow, since they hold that the election is illegal. They assert that members of the Junta were illegally appointed, and if they win a court decision to that effect tomorrow's election may be declared invalid and another one will be scheduled later.

The government party, backing Gen. Rafael Trujillo and Rafael Estrella Urena, declare that the election is legal and will be fair and honest.

CURLEY SCORES MORAL LAXITY

BALTIMORE, May 15.—(AP.)—Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Baltimore criticized what he termed "barnyard philosophers" in an address delivered to the graduates of four hospital nursing schools here.

He mentioned remarks made by Dr. Hornell Hart, of Bryn Mawr, at a recent mental hygiene conference at Washington.

Dr. Hart was quoted by the archbishop as saying that "morality in itself has no value or anything," that "standards of morality must be set by science and not by outworn dogmas," and that "chastity and monogamy are good only to help the personality to blossom."

Theories advocating the elimination of restraint in moral conduct, said Archbishop Curley, "if carried to their logical conclusion, would wreck the earth."

School Term Cut Despite Protests

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 15.—In order to reduce operating expenses, the school term at Vanderbilt will be reduced from nine to eight months, effective in September. That action was taken by the Board of Education over the protest of 300 citizens.

Engineer Named On Viewers' Board

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 15.—Robert Cooke, Waynesburg civil engineer, has been named on the board of permanent road viewers to succeed Frank Church, of Rogersville, resigned. The appointment was made by Judge A. H. Sayers.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System — Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health-building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fibre in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at all May's & Liggett's Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you will feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

Miss Helen Kane, the young woman who sings whiningly and boop-boop-a-doopingly, is an attractive, talented vocalist, but we shall be glad when she leaves town. We have reached the point where we are ready to whip out the old .48 caliber the next time we hear somebody trying to imitate Miss Kane. The town is infested with Helen Kane imitators, and they are of all ages and descriptions. Just as the average man thinks that he is a dandy with the gals, so does the average woman suffer hallucinations that she is as good as the original Miss Kane. Breathes there, we want to know, a woman so fair who does not see herself as the boop-boop-a-doop girl?

Writing a column is pretty easy. On your right you find little human interest stories and on your left you find find more human interest stories. There's copy everywhere you turn. Something's always happening in the teeming life of a big city. And what big city doesn't have teeming life? We have been reading books and magazines and newspapers and the house organ of the Fort Pitt Hotel for many years, but we have never read of life that isn't teeming. Imagine the shock if you read this sentence: The non-teeming life of the tenements . . .

But we started out to tell how easy it was to turn up copy. Stroll down Fifth avenue, as we did last night. There were two girls in smocks peering intently into the display window of the five-and-ten cent store. Each had paper and pencil and was marking things down. Thirty-five pounds of peanuts. Two plates of idle roast beef. Six phonograph records. Eighty-eight pencils . . .

Here was just another incident in the teeming life of a big city. What were these girls doing? We ventured to ask them.

"Takin' inventory," said one, and that's all there was to it.

In Criminal Court the other day a lawyer quoted Socrates and Plato to defend eloquently the dubious activities of his client. The client was nevertheless convicted and the lawyer, disgusted with the ancient authors, plans next to fall back on Bruce Barton and Harold Bell Wright.

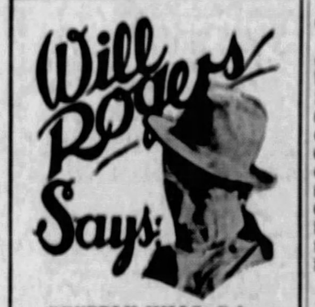
The favorite sport of the veteran Pittsburgh baseball fan is to complain that Honus Wagner was born too soon. Honus himself regrets that he reached his zenith before the days of bigger salaries and the livelier ball. If, the fans will tell you, Honus were in there swinging today, he'd hit .500 any old season. Well, perhaps Honus has suffered financially, but we doubt that he has lost in prestige. The typical baseball fan is a human being of vivid imagination and in his imaginings sees Honus doing not only the possible, but the impossible feats on a ball field today. The Dutchman of the fans' imaginations is a greater ballplayer than the great Honus in the flesh.



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 15.

The poor U. S. Army has suffered its greatest defeat. It was left humiliated and prostrated on the field by an old age-worn, moth-eaten marriage certificate. In delving through old historical documents it was found that Private Red Cagle possessed an incumbrance in the way of a wife, so the Secretary of War yanked him out of the West Point lineup and sent in 14 single men to replace him.

No wonder the Navy quit playing them. You can't beat boys that are doing it "for the wife and kiddies" and not for just the glory of the campus. This, of course, will cancel all games by Red after he "went matrimony." The whole thing looks like another scheme to discredit the present Republican administration as Red is a Louisiana Democrat. The moral is, if matrimony aids all players like it did him, Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team must all be bigamists.

Yours,
WILL.

3 HELD AS JURY 'FIXERS,' ONE IN DOUBT

Alderman to Decide if Evidence Warrants Angel Facing Grand Jury Quiz

Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan today was to decide the action to be taken in the case of Harry Angel, fourth member of the quartet accused of having tampered with members of the jury that heard the damage suit against Mrs. Laura Faulkner, wife of Police Inspector Charles Faulkner.

Joseph Hamowitz, his wife, Marie, and Frank Nathan were held for court on a "jury fixing" charge, after the quartet was arraigned before Alderman Flanigan last night. They were released on $1,000 bail each.

TWO TESTIFY

Mrs. Mary Wesibecker, of Webster avenue, a member of the jury, and County Detective Edward Frank testified against them. The case was prosecuted by Meredith Reid, assistant district attorney.

Mrs. Wesibecker testified that Mrs. Hamowitz asked her to give Mrs. Faulkner "a break," and that Mrs. Hamowitz gave her a slip of paper on which she had written Mrs. Faulkner's name.

Frank testified to stories told by Hamowitz and Nathan in court after Judge Frank P. Patterson, who presided at the damage suit in which Mrs. Faulkner was sued, ordered an investigation.

DISMISSAL ASKED

Defense attorneys closed their case by insisting that there wasn't enough evidence to hold any of the defendants except Mrs. Hamowitz. They said the entire proceedings "were groundless, and started by newspaper talk." None of the defendants testified.

Reid replied that the county had all the evidence needed to hold the people, though he admitted his case against Angel was weak.

"What I can't understand is why Angel came into the case at all. He wasn't arrested — he came in and gave himself up. I'm wondering why he did that?"

LOST EYESIGHT SUITS FAIL

During the present term of Federal Court suits brought in behalf of two girls, each of whom lost an eye, one by being shot with a rifle and the other in an automobile accident, were lost by the plaintiffs. The girls were Genevieve Karkofsky, 12, of Coal Center, Washington County, and Josephine Knotek, 17, of Parkman, O.

The parents of Genevieve sought $20,000 damages from the parents of Walter Komer, 14. It was testified the boy fired a shot from a rifle that destroyed the girl's left eye. The case was nonsuited by Judge R. M. Gibson, because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court. Attorney Vernon Hazzard, of Monongahela, counsel for the Markofskys, said he would take the case to the Washington County court.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, earlier in the week, gave the jury binding instructions for a verdict in favor of A. W. Bauman, Jr., and W. M. Trilby, of New Castle, defendants in a suit for $25,000 damages, brought by the parents of Joseph Knotek. The girl lost an eye in an auto collision. The court held that the plaintiffs failed to establish carelessness or negligence on the part of the defendants.

Boy Shot at Play Not Seriously Hurt

Fourteen-year-old Walter Zimmer, of 813 Maginn street, North Side, was in Presbyterian Hospital today, with a bullet wound in the right arm inflicted, police said, by a playmate near their homes.

Elmer Ott, 14, of 825 Maginn street, who fired the rifle "just to scare him," told police he found the weapon in his home, they said. The shooting which occurred Tuesday, was brought to attention of police yesterday, when the wounded boy was taken to the hospital.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

Ardeth Is Heartbroken on Ken's Wedding Day

CHAPTER XXXII.

SHE could not believe it. This was some dreadful dream which would pass. Oh, it couldn't be true! . . .

She whimpered. Pawed at him. "Ken! Don't let me go! Ken! I love you so!"

He snatched her to him. Buried his face in her hair so that his voice came muffled.

"What can I do? God, what can I do? I love you—more than anything in life, I love you. We belong to each other! But—she's dying! What can I do?"

She heard a small voice whispering—a small, tired voice, which she did not recognize as her own. "I think I'll die, too. I don't want to live without you."

She could feel his body shaking. She put up a hand and touched his face. It was wet.

Touched suddenly with frantic pity, she became the comforter. "Oh, darling! darling, don't! No—no—Ken darling!"

After a few moments Ken got control of himself. His chest rose in a long sigh. Gently he put her aside and started the engine, moving slowly, like a very old man.

At the sound of the motor a little moan broke from Ardeth. "Oh, no!" This couldn't be the end! It couldn't!

His voice was very tired. "Must, dear. I don't dare stay away any longer. She's so low, . . . I shouldn't have left at all—but I had to see you. I couldn't let you . . . just find out."

The Farewell

Ken Leaves Ardeth at The Hotel

The dark little park, dropping behind them. Deserted city streets stretching ahead. A short distance now . . . Just a little while and Ken would be lost to her forever. Oh—it was unbelievable! Sitting beside him like this, it was like waiting for death. Helpless . . .

She was crying softly, slumped in a forlorn little heap in a corner seat. Ken looked at her and his heart went sick with misery. For a wild moment he considered jamming on the brakes and shouting that he didn't mean it; that he would never give her up. For a wild moment he felt the insane impulse to swing the car down Van Ness — down toward the dark bay. To drive off the wharf—a toppling plunge—cold death together. Better than life apart perhaps. Oh, that was crazy, of course—weak. Here, pull himself together. Make it harder for her.

He stopped the car before her hotel and turned his white face upon her. "You'd better get out, Ardeth. I have to get back."

He unclasped her frantic fingers, feeling that he tore his own heart as he did so. Feeling the salt of her tears in his mouth as he whispered, "Good-by, darling. I love you. Remember that, won't you? I love you."

Like a released wild thing the car darted away, the tail light swerved around the corner while she strained her tearful gaze after it.

Groping her way toward the lighted entrance of the hotel, careless of who might see . . . Back in her own room, vague as to how she got there.

Her own room . . . lamp still alight, filling the small space with a quiet mellowness. Bedclothes tossed back as she had flung them when the phone rang. Such a short time . . . yet in this short time her heart had been broken.

A madness of grief descending upon her so that she sat on the edge of the couch, wringing her hands, making little soft animal noises of pain. Oh, it wasn't possible that Ken was really lost to her! Such things didn't happen in these days! It was like those silly old plays of long ago—like those sentimental novels she had found in a closet at Aunt Stel's. Deathbed promises—oh, people didn't make them any more! Oh, they couldn't!"

Cheeks hot. Heart pumping. The light in the room suddenly unbearable. She reached over, snapped it out. Sat for a long time in the dark, bowed over, hands ground hard against her mouth to keep from bursting into sobs.

Later she got up and pulled off her clothes, moving as slowly as Ken had done at the last. She got into bed.

Grief, suddenly tearing at her throat, so that she flattened her face in the wet pillows lest the tenant in the next room hear her. Wild anger shook through her like a hot wind, murderous anger at Cecile. At the dying woman who was snatching away her happiness. Even at Ken, himself, that he should give her up.

Sacrifice

Thinks It Useless if His Mother Dies

Its very intensity wore it out. Followed by a period of dreary calm when it seemed the heart within her had died. She had died. Ken had died. Dead things moving through a dead world. There would never be anything again but this hopeless ache in her heart.....

Periods when she lost herself in dreams as depressing as reality. Swimming up through reeling blackness to face memory.

She lay flat, her face upturned to the back room, stupidly whispering "Ken ..... Ken....." Tears rolled out of the outer corners of her eyes, trickled into her ears, wet her hair so that she rolled her head restlessly.

Then the room was flooded with rainy daylight and the chimneys on the roofs outside came in view. The hateful morning was here at last.

She whispered, "Today..... Ken will be married....."More dreadful to face it in this rainy light than it had been last night.

Rain, drip-dripping on the roofs outside with the sound of heavy tears.

Would it always be like this? Ardeth asked herself piteously. Would this raw pain in her heart ever slow to a dull ache? When she was old—as old as Aunt Stel, say, would all of this have receeded so it didn't matter? When she was old—but how could she live to grow old with this grief pressing on her heart?

Hopeful

Prays for Something to Right Things

If Ken's mother should die—suppose she were dead now—what need the useless sacrifice! If she were no longer here to be hurt at his refusal, Ken wouldn't have to—

Madly she tried to stifle the shameful hope in her heart. Not that—of course, she didn't wish that—but, oh, surely something always happened at the last moment to make things right, didn't it?

Maybe if she prayed . . .

She kneeled down, rested her forehead on the edge of the bed and closed her eyes. No words came. No thoughts. Only the picture of Ken's face, so bleak and white last night.

Tears began to steal from her closed eyes.

The telephone rang. Her heart leaped, swelled in her throat. The answer! God was answering the prayer in her heart!

Ah Ling's voice coming over the wire. "Are you coming down Miss Carroll?"

She had forgotten the time. She had forgotten the shop.

"Not today, Rosie. I—I don't feel well."

The little Chinese girl's voice held a worried note. "What shall I do? Miss Parker's out of town. She phoned."

A long moment, then Ardeth's tired voice. "All right. I'll be right down."

What did it matter where she was? What did anything matter?

NEIGHBORHOOD YOUNGSTERS EXAMINING TREE LIGHTNING STRUCK

Lightning struck this tree this afternoon during a rainstorm in Bellevue and broke windows in three houses. Five women were slightly shocked but needed no medical aid.

BOLT SHOCKS 5 AT BELLEVUE

Five women were shocked by lightning which shattered the windows of three houses in Bellevue this afternoon.

The women shocked were Mrs. Nee, at 88 South Euclid avenue; Charles Caughey, at 96 Euclid avenue, and Robert Lancaster, at 100 Euclid avenue.

Mace to Discuss Taxes at Y Meeting

"Taxes" will be discussed tomorrow noon in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., at the weekly meeting of the James C. Mace Bible Class. All men are invited to attend the meeting.

RESULTS

Mrs. A. S., Phillips Avenue, sold a ten-piece dining room suite the second day her Classified Ad appeared in the Sun-Telegraph. She got no results at all from other papers which ran her ad, so naturally she is well pleased with the Sun-Telegraph. Experiences, such as this one, are convincing hundreds of Pittsburghers that for results the Sun-Telegraph fills the bill.

Simone's Art Reveals His Vivid Vitality

By PENELOPE REDD

Would you see the plastic spirit of the Italian Renaissance in its modern expression, then visit the exhibition of sculpture by Edgardo Simone on view at the Grogan gallery. This exhibition will close on Saturday, May 17, and will be reassembled at the Museum of Fine Arts in Cleveland.

Penelope Redd

Francis Keating has given Pittsburgh an opportunity to enjoy the work of a sculptor who communicates his vivid vitality through the work of his hands. Simone, with intuitive comprehension, has given us the keen, measured glance of Col. Creighton Webb, the quizzical tolerance of Commander Edward Spafford, and the archaic beauty of Miss Ann Storrs. Simone becomes the instrument through which these personalities are rendered in plastic form.

His series of fountains are infused with the happy grace of a nature responding to all that is spontaneously sprung from earth. "Youth," "Aqua Plane," "Water Carrier," "The Kiss" and "Love" are intimations of universal emotions which he has detached from the intangible. Through his obedient technical skill, he has created images for contemplation which have associations common to us all.

There are suggestions of Rodin in some of Simone's sculpture as in the melting, evanescent quality of "The Dream," a portrait of a caress.

Or perhaps you see Simone atavistically return to the days of conquering Caesars in his almost Roman relief of "Il Duce," the Mussolini. The mother of the Gracchi is mirrored in Simone's head of a mother, a detail from the Ferrara War Monument.

"The Plowman" with his air of fierce determination might be an ancient centurion in this new nationalistic Italy of Mussolini's ideal.

In the Simone exhibition is the epitome of the quick sympathy, the instaneous translation of emotion into action, that has alike been projected in Italian history and in Italian art.

ADDITIONS CONSIDERED NECESSARY

Hospital Less Crowded Than Other Institutions; Bed Supply Adequate

(Editor's Note — The fire in the Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus, in which more than 300 prisoners lost their lives, has raised a question as to the safety of Pennsylvania's penal and welfare institutions. Sun-Telegraph reporters have been investigating conditions. This is the third of a series of articles describing what they found.)

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

The Allegheny County Home and Hospital for the Insane at Woodville, is less crowded, if not better protected from fire, than some of the state institutions visited. There are no double-deck beds, and there is space to pass between the beds. There is no sleeping on the floor or in corridors.

In her last biennial report Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, state secretary of welfare, gave the bed capacity of the insane department at Woodville, as of September 1, 1928, as 1,238, and the population as 1,426, an excess of 188 or 15 per cent.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED

It was stated at the institution that there are now 1,437 patients in the insane department and 1,458 beds.

In Mrs. McCauley's report, bed capacity was arrived at by allowing 50 square feet of dormitory space for each bed. That standard has not quite been reached. Hasty measurement of one of the men's dormitories in which 57 patients are quartered gave its area as 2,800 square feet. That is, there was one more bed than there should be.

This room was completely bare of anything except beds. There were no chairs, no hooks on the wall from which to hang clothing. Howard McWilliams, assist-

RADIO SCHOOL SUIT DISMISSED

Judge Harry H. Howard has nolle prossed an indictment against the Radio Corporation of Pennsylvania and its president, W. R. Jones, charging violation of the state law requiring a license for employment agencies.

The indictment charged that the company, which operates a radio training school at 331 Fourth avenue, had assisted its graduates to get work and had assisted employers to obtain radio operators, without having a license as an employment agent.

State Deputy Attorney General David Glick held, however, that the Radio Corporation of Pennsylvania came under the same classification as universities and business colleges which procure jobs for their graduates without being required to take out a license as employment agents.

President Jones, of the company, said today:

"The suit was entirely without justification.

"We have three opinions from the commonwealth officers in Harrisburg, stating we do not come under the Employment Act and a license is not necessary. This opinion applies to every school and university in the state, of which all conduct the same type of employment service to students as we do.

"Our school has been expanding year after year. We are graduating and help secure employment for our graduates with the very best and largest radio communication and service companies in the eastern part of the United States. The school is conducted and operated by the best radio engineering talent available and business executives of unquestioned ability and integrity. The school employs approximately 30 people and has a capacity of 200 students in the resident school in Fourth avenue.

PARKVIEW OUTSIDE CELL FIGHT CARRIED TO CAPITAL

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: A Philadelphia judge cites the social calls of Washington and Franklin on socially prominent women of their day while contending that it is perfectly proper for a married man to call on a married woman. What is your opinion in the matter?

Miss Luther

RUTH LUTHER, Etna, secretary: I would say no. Still, if it's only friendship, I guess I couldn't object. But friendship is all I think allowable. Does the husband have to be home when the second man calls?

Miss March

CATHERINE MARCH, Duquesne, clerk: My opinion is very broad. I think it is perfectly all right for a married man to call on a married woman. Things are accepted more tolerantly now than in the late '90s. We're more broad-minded.

C. A. Kolb

C. A. KOLB, district sales manager: I'd have to see the married woman first. It all depends on the purpose, too. But I don't see much wrong in it, done judiciously.

Miss Orr

Miss Brehm

RUTH BREHM, Allentown, stenographer: No, I don't think it is. Unless, of course, they're chaperoned. There's so much trickery in those matters nowadays that you can't even trust your own wife. That's why we have standards which disapprove of such visits. If humans weren't human, we might be able to tolerate it.

J. H. Gotthart

J. H. GOTTHART, Avalon, office manager: No sir. I don't think Washington and Franklin should have been permitted to do it. It just isn't done, that's all, and was poor taste for such men, it seems to me.

PRISON BOARD'S PLANS MEET OPPOSITION

Inside Block System Called Archaic; Appeal Will Be Made Welfare Department

Preparations were being made today to carry to Harrisburg the fight against the inside cage cell block system at the proposed Parkview annex to the county jail.

The Board of Prison Inspectors has decided tentatively in favor of a prison of the inside cell block type, and the County Commissioners sold $200,000 of bonds Tuesday for the construction of the building.

OPPONENTS FIGHT ON

Opponents of the scheme, basing their opposition on the contention of penologists that this type of prison architecture is archaic and suited at best only to the most hardened criminals, will attempt to persuade the Prison Board to change the plans. Failing, they propose an appeal to the State Department of Welfare, which must approve such plans before a contract can be let.

In a statement on the prison plans Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., prominent Pittsburgh attorney, said today in part:

STATEMENT ISSUED

"Cage cells inevitably give an atmosphere of repression felt by inmates and officials alike, and this holds out little hope for reform where one's will to reform is not enlisted by positive treatment. Mass, in contradistinction to individual treatment, moreover, is the temptation with a block of cage cells.

"However, real progress is being made by the proposed separation of the convicted from those awaiting trial. In my judgment, there is great room for improvement in facilities for persons awaiting trial, and it is my belief that the proposal for additional stories in the new county office building to provide for such temporary detention, with a bridge over Ross street uniting the two county buildings, offers more hope for appripriate care than would continued use of the present jail."

B. & O. TO SPEND BIG SUM HERE

Approximately $1,200,000 will be expended by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad this summer for double-tracking, extending sidings and installing automatic signals between Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., company officials have announced. The work has just been authorized, and will give employment to about 300 men during the summer months.

The work will include eight miles of double track from the west end of the company's bridge over the Monongahela River and extending to Finleyville, six and a half miles, and from Glenwood Junction to Gilson, one and a half miles.

Boy's Leg Broken In Wagon Crash

When a huckster wagon on which he was riding was struck by a truck driven by Marian Pusateri, 21, of 871 Lockhart street, at the north end of the Sixteenth Street bridge yesterday, Joseph Wehner, 11, of 32 Schillinger street, suffered a fractured right leg, police reported. The wagon was driven by the victim's father, Joseph Wehner, Sr.

COUNCIL HEARS WORDY TILT ON PIPES

Hot Air Keeps Councilmen From Other Business, Heat Systems Being at Issue

Single pipes or double pipes? That is the question.

It proved so involved that Council was forced to postpone practically all other business yesterday.

The city, by ordinance, forbids the use of single pipes from warm air furnaces. Many appeared to protest this ban.

Much hot air was furnished by members of Council and speakers on both side of the controversy.

No agreement was reached. At the suggestion of John S. Herron, the opposing sides were asked to try to reach an agreement and to report next week.

Single pipes are fireproof, much more economical and more efficient than double pipes, it was claimed. Double pipes are one inside another, with a 5.8-inch air space between the two.

The single pipe argument was advanced by J. L. Eddy, and Victor Cherven, of the Holland Company, supported by a majority of the spectators. H. L. Ley, head of the Bureau of Building Inspection, W. F. Angemeir and William A. Zahn defended double pipe installation.

Single pipe costs $4 for 10 feet, according to the testimony, while the other costs $9. Angemeir, however, denied this difference, saying it would be only $2.

ant superintendent, explained that these things were purposely kept out of the dormitory because almost anything might be used by the patients to harm themselves or others.

ALLOWED NO KNIVES

For the same reason the patients are not allowed to have knives or forks in the dining room. Everything must be eaten with a spoon.

In the men's mental department the building is of brick and hollow tile, with wooden floors laid on concrete. Ramps with safety tread, of fireproof material, and with 10 per cent. grade, are used instead of stairs, but there are also stairs for emergency purposes.

The ramps have iron handrails and are screened to keep the inmates from falling off. There are a ramp and stairway for every four wards, or about 275 patients.

Construction is somewhat different in the female mental department, in which 174 men as well as 677 women are quartered, but there, too, fireproof material has been used.

OWN WATER SUPPLY

The institution has its own water supply and a comprehensive hydrant and hose system. It also has a connection with the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

There has been no new building at Woodville since 1926, but a new group of buildings to be called the "farm colony" is contemplated. It will take care of about 100 patients who work on the farm.

Besides the mental department, there are home and tubercular departments, the home having at present 726 inmates and 915 beds, and the tubercular department 208 inmates and 238 beds, making a total for the entire institution of 2,407 inmates and 2,611 beds.

MUSEUM GETS MELLON GIFT

Scores of rare pieces of wood carvings, many dating back to the fourteenth century, are on view in Carnegie Museum today and represent R. B. Mellon's first gift to the museum.

Two cases of the bits, collected by Samuel Yellin, of Philadelphia, are open to the public. They are only a part of the entre exhibit, Dr. Andrey Avinoff said, the remainder as yet in the process of unpacking.

The carvings represent the Romanesque, Gothic and Renaissance periods. A number are extremely intricate in pattern—the flambuoyant Gothic. Others are simple, rather crude and represent the primitive Romanesque. A few pieces of modern German are also included.

The collection was secured by Mr. Yellin, a designer of iron, throughout the cathedral and institutional buildings of Europe. Wood-carving, nearly a lost art, has been supplanted in a great measure by stone and marble.

The pieces are generally small, but many of them of exquisite workmanship. Some are fragments.

Church Aid Will Stage 3-Act Play

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Home of the Good Shepherd, Troy Hill, will present a three-act farce, "Take My Advice," tonight in the Moose Temple, Penn avenue. The cast includes Miss Rose Brush, Miss Lida Brush, Mrs. Florence Joyce, Earl Tobey, Andrew J. Schloffer, William R. Tighe, Regis Staley and Charles E. Long. There will be several refreshment stands.

CHECKING UP LOST WATER

Searching for gold on the pirate Main has nothing on the search for lost water being conducted for the city through the streets of the South Side.

Millions of gallons of water are said to be lost to Pittsburgh every year through hidden leaks in old water mains under the streets. Until recent years brought apparatus that can discover the leaks through listening apparatus on the surface of the street, the leaks went on and on until the street was dug up in the search for them.

Checking of water flow through a 4-inch main on Mary street, South Side, workmen yesterday discovered that 80,000 gallons of water—75,000 gallons more than is used by houses on the street—was being lost between South Eighteenth and South Nineteenth streets. The new apparatus enabled them to locate the 75,000-gallon loss.

A few hours after he had been arrested on complaint of his sister-in-law late last night, John Burnell, 74, of Third street, Leetsdale, hanged himself in a cell in the Leetsdale jail, according to a report to the morgue. The body was found by the night turnkey, who said the aged man had used his belt to end his life.

Car Protest Up To Lincoln Board

The Lincoln District Board of Trade will hold a meeting tonight in the Lemington School to protest the placing of one-man street cars on the Center-Lincoln line. The committee expresses the belief that one-man cars are unsafe on account of the steep grades encountered in the Lincoln district.

ACTION DELAYED ON STREET PLAN

There will be no definite decision on "T" or "Z" plans for the Pennsylvania Railroad improvements in the vicinity of Penn avenue and Eleventh streets for two or possibly four weeks, according to President of Council John S. Herron.

The ordinance for an agreement between the city and the company, introduced Tuesday, was sent yesterday to the City Solicitor, the Department of Public Works and the Department of City Planning.

All interested, for and against, will have an opportunity to be heard, Herron said. At present the majority of Council is in favor of the "T" plan.

EMPLOYES LEFT BEQUESTS BY JEWELER

Widow, Son and Daughter To Share in Residue; Dies While in Paris

Charitable institutions, business employes and immediate members of his family, benefit in the will of Abraham J. DeRoy, senior member of the jewelry firm of Joseph De Roy and Sons, 311 Smithfield street, filed for probate in the county register of wills office.

The estate is estimated to be more than $300,000. DeRoy died in Paris early this month from a sudden illness.

CHARITIES BENEFITED

The Jewish Family Welfare Association of Pittsburgh is bequeathed a $10,000 loan fund, the income to be used in making loans to the poor, without interest or security. Two thousand dollars is the gift to the J. M. Gusky Orphanage, of which De Roy was a director. Income from this gift will provide motion picture entertainment of inmates.

The Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, of which the deceased was a trustee, is bequeathed $5,000, while $1,000 each is left to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Cincinnati, and to the Montefiore Hospital here. Rodef Shalom Congregation is given $2,000 to carry on work of the Congregational Sisterhood.

Bequests of $500 each are given the following:

Jewish Home for the Aged, Pittsburgh House of Shelter, Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Pittsburgh section, Council of Jewish Women, and the B'Nai B'Rith Orphanage, Erie, Pa.

To the Pittsburgh Tuberculosis League, Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind, Pittsburgh Home for Colored Children, Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, Industrial Home for Crippled Children, Coleman Industrial Home for Colored Boys, Parting of the Way's Home, and the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association, is given $200 each.

EMPLOYES GET GIFTS

Employes who have been with either Joseph DeRoy and Sons, or Louis DeRoy and Brothers, for at least five years, are bequeathed $500 each, according to the will. Those having less than five years and more than three years experiences with the firms are left $50 each. Grandchildren, sisters, nieces and nephews are also remembered.

75 PRIZES IN HOME GARDENS

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement has announced that 75 individual prizes will be awarded for the best home gardens planted by school pupils who live in the Hill district.

The contest is also open to students who live in neighborhoods adjacent to the Forbes, Franklin, Hancock, Letsche, Madison, McKelvey, Miller, Minersville, Moorehead, Rose, Somers, Watt, Short Course Business High, Fifth Avenue High, Schenley High, Herron Hill Junior High, St. Richard's, Epiphany, St. Peter's, St. Brigid's and Holy Trinity Schools. A prize will be awarded to the grade school which has the most home gardens.

2 MEN, WIVES HELD FOR RUM

Two men and their wives were arrested by prohibition agents in two raids yesterday. The women and one of the men were released on their own recognizance.

In a raid on a store at 4927 Lytle street, the agents said they seized a small quantity of moonshine and arrested Martin Yasko, 34, and his wife, Barbara, 34. Yasko was held in bond.

Adam W. Dazen, 31, and his wife, Pauline, 31, were released on their own recognizance following a raid on their home at 1205 Woodward avenue, Stowe Township, in which a 100-gallon still and a small quantity of moonshine was seized, according to the raiders.

Veterans to Hold Memorial Services

Members of posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold their annual memorial services Sunday, a parade through North Side and downtown streets preceding the services in the Davis Theater. The services are held under the auspices of the Allegheny County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The parade will form on Montgomery avenue, North Side, proceed down Federal street, over the Sixth street bridge and up Fifth avenue to Smithfield street and the theater. A. E. Schwenke is to be chief marshal.

Audubon Society Picnics Saturday

The Audubon Society of Western Pennsylvania will hold its annual outing for children Saturday afternoon in the following parks: Schenley Park, meet at the Library door at 9 a. m., leader, Miss Helen Blair; McKinley Park, 9 a. m., leader, Miss Alva K. LONG PEN TERM FOR 3 BANDITS

Terms running from seven to 35 years in the Western penitentiary were begun today by three youthful Negroes, who pleaded guilty to committing a highway robbery in Glenfield April 19, and to several other charges. Judge Harry H. Rowand pronounced the sentences in Criminal Court. William Grant, 1511 Colwell street, was sentenced 13½ to 35 years; Ollie Berry, 1202 Colwell street, to 12 to 24 years and Veola Martin, 1212 Colwell street, seven to 14 years.

It was charged they held up Margaret E. Timm, 808 Fourth avenue, Beaver Falls, taking $1 from her. At the same time they robbed Robert E. Morrison, Regent apartments, Beaver Falls, of a watch and ring, and discharged a revolver at W. H. Trimble, 7180 Brighton road, Ben Avon. They were also charged with stealing $250 worth of clothes from the Bryn Mawr Cleaning Company.

Daylight Bandits Bind Confectioner

Three youthful bandits entered the confectionery of O. W. Rohe, 1311 Arch street, today and while one covered Rohe with a gun another searched his pockets and the third rifled the cash register. They got a total of $5. They bound Rohe with twince, then sauntered out. Passersby, hearing Rohe yelling, entered the store and freed him.

NIGHT JUVENILE COURT URGED BY FOSTER

Poll Being Conducted to Ascertain Whether Day Sessions Are Hardship

Judge D. Paulson Foster, of County Court, believes that many working people sacrifice a day's wage, and at the same time jeopardize their jobs, by appearing in court in the daytime. Speaking at the weekly meeting of the Knights of Columbus Luncheon Club in the William Penn Hotel yesterday, he declared that if results of an investigation now under way warrant the action, he will attempt to have juvenile hearings in the evening. He said:

"I believe courts are made for the people, and to solve their problems. If the investigation I am now carrying on proves that a great deal of work is lost by persons ateinding any day sessions, I shall consider it my duty to try to adjust the court to the situation.

"In this line I ask all parents appearing in cases before me if he or she is being forced to miss work to attend the hearing. A court stenographer is keeping the answers. If the number of replies within a short time show that night sessions would warrant the time necessary for them, such sessions will be held."

Judge Foster said he was attempting to bring informality into the court, thereby minimizing the strain under which children's cases are heard. By increasing the number of hearing days each week, he concluded, the number of children held in the Juvenile Detention Home and the time they spend there, has been reduced to a great degree.

Tree Planting Held In Honor of Collins

Veterans and public officials last night attended tree planting and exercises on the grounds of the United States Veterans' Hospital, Aspinwall, in memory of Capt. J. Leo Collins, who died two years ago. A bronze tablet was unveiled. The Allegheny County committee of the American Legion had charge of the exercises.

Speakers were County Commander Edward Crump, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Judge George V. Moore, at one time law partner of Capt. Collins.

HIT-RUN DRIVER INJURES MAN

Police were searching for a hit-run driver whose automobile struck the machine driven by Philip Budinger, 34, of 1412 Wolf avenue, North Braddock, in the McKeesport road, near Oak Hill, Versailles Township, early today. Budinger was thrown from the car and lay in the road 10 minutes before a passing motorist went to his assistance, police said.

Lieut. David Bennett and Patrolman Samuel Whitman, of East Pittsburgh police, were summoned and took Budinger to a physician where it was said he sustained two fractures of the ribs.

CROATIANS FILE LEAGUE APPEAL

Croatians residing in the Greater Pittsburgh area have dispatched a cablegram to the League of Nations at Geneva, protesting against trials of more than 60 fellow-countrymen at Belgrade, for alleged rebellion against the Serbian government.

Similar cablegrams, under the auspices of the Croatian Circle of America, have been sent from Kansas City, Chicago, San Francisco, New York and other points.

Should the men on trial be convicted they will be subjected to long servitude or life imprisonment, according to George Haramic, of 617 Chestnut street, secretary of the local organization.

The Croatian Circle has a membership of several thousand throughout the United States, Pittsburgh's chapter is one of the largest, according to the secretary's statement.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Moore To Marry May 31

One marriage that will attract ever so many of our "400" will be that of Marion Moore, daughter of the Edward Small Moores, of the Gables, Roslyn, L. I., and New York, and granddaughter of Mrs. John R. McGinley, of Pittsburgh, and of the late John R. McGinley, and niece of the T. A. McGinleys and the Cyrus R. Millers, of Sewickley.

As I mentioned several weeks ago Marion will marry John W. Cross, Jr., son of John W. Cross and of the late Mrs. Cross, on May 31 in the Church of the Advent, Westbury, L. I. The Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, will officiate, and a reception at the Moore country estate will follow.

And now I want to tell you who'll be in the bridal party. Fanny Moore, a cousin of the bride, of Hollow Hill Farm, Convent, N. J., will be maid of honor, and Barbara King, of Chicago; Muriel Hedges, of New York, and Frederica Frelinghuysen and Marie Boies, of Scranton, will be bridesmaids.

H. Page Cross will be his brother's best man, and Edward Small Moore, Jr., brother of the bride; Oliver M. Wallop, younger son of the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth; John T. Adams, Daniel Catlin, III, Kimberly Cheney and James Hopkins Smith, III, will be ushers.

May Bride

Last evening at 6:30 o'clock, in the Mifflin Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Miss Roberta Marie Brandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Brandt, of Pittsburgh, became the bride of Harry C. Brunner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Brunner, of St. Louis, Mo., with the Rev. Dr. Charles J. Whitlach officiating.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and a veil of tulle. She carried a bride's bouquet of white roses. Her sister, Miss Beatrice Brandt, was the maid of honor, and wore daffodil yellow net, and the two bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Baxmeier and Miss Beatrice Miller, wore blue taffeta. They all carried spring flowers. Serving as best man was Henry Bullard, and the two ushers were Edward Carter and Roswell Johnson, Jr. Miss Lois Suchs and Miss Virginia Koenig were flower girls, and the bride's small brother, John Brandt, was the ringbearer.

A reception in the Brandt home followed the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Brunner left for a brief trip to Cumberland, Md. They will live in Susquehanna avenue after Monday. They plan to take a longer trip in June.

CHARMING CAPES ANIMATE THE LATEST SPRING MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 15.—The cape continues to jut out in the sea of fashion. Just now it is ever so much liked to give line and animation to plain frocks that find their charm in line and design rather than in rich fabrics and lavish trimming. Such little frocks with jaunty caped bodices are seen in increasing frequency now that the weather is more benign and Springlike. The smart Parisienne is quite addicted to the easy little frock that carries so much chic and dash in its slim folds.

This season, crepe de Chine of rather a heavy quality is used to make the little frock that strikes a note midway between the severely tailored frock and the very feminine models so much to the fore at present. The frock is cut on simple lines, and the cape gives softness as well as animation to such models. These frocks, generally of black or deep blue, are usually finished with pique touches, in white, of course.

WE HAVE just discovered, at the showrooms of Paquin, a clever comparison between the tiny little evening wrap and the quite long model, and thinking that it might interest you as much as it has us, we have had it sketched for you. It has a single, very long coat-tail in back and is quite short in front. Shirred insets give a slightly draped effect at each side and similar insets lend a flaring line to the long slashed sleeves. The material is silver and white brocade and the collar is of silver fox. The woman who is searching for that difficult-to-attain, something different, may find this wrap an answer to her problem.

THE AFTERNOON frock of dark blue crepe de Chine is by Tollman, and is typical of what is being worn here now. Over the plain bodice is a rounding, deep cape reaching to the waistline and bordered with a circular flounce, formed of godets. This passes over the shoulders to the front and forms a surplice shawls collar reaching to the narrow belt which ties to one side. A circular flounce finishes the sleeves at the wrist and the skirt, too, is circular and quite long.

Milk and Sugar

YOU WOULDN'T try a rice pudding recipe that didn't call for these ingredients. You know by experience that the milk — whether fresh, evaporated or condensed — makes a combination with the rice and sugar that is palatable, satisfying and nourishing.

There are so many healthful desserts — puddings, custards and ice cream — that can be made of milk. Have them often and remember that you may use either canned milk or fresh with equally good results.

Desserts belong in the normal diet — even in reducing diets. A famous food scientist recommends a generous green salad and a sweet dessert for the person who wants to reduce without leaving the table hungry.

Aside from the sweetness sugar brings to a dessert, it is also an ideal flavor for essential foods. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt makes vegetables much more palatable. Try this combination in cooking carrots, cabbage, turnips, spinach and peas. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXXXVI.

At the last moment she faltered. It was when Jonathan put his arms about her, raising her chin in his great, rough palms. With a roguish chuckle, he slipped a $10 bill in her hand. "For stamps, Chickie girl—now, mind, you write to us every day"——

She couldn't bear to have him holding her face back like that — seeing her chin double and the swift tears. "Oh, don't—don't, Jonathan."

He looked at her sharply. "Well—crying! No little spring bubbling today?" Still he held her face. "Mother—look—she doesn't want to go—likes us, I guess."

Chickie forced her head down, pressing against his shoulder. She wound her arms about his neck and clung to him.

And he laughed, thinking it was just her sweetness, just the pretty angel ways of her. She whispered against his grizzled old neck. "You better love me, Mr. Jonathan—better love me a lot—"

She kissed Jennie and ran her hand flippantly, tucking up the faded hair. But she didn't meet her mother's eyes—nor Jonathan's.

She ran from them, with her head down, calling to the dog—hurry—not a moment to lose—or she would drop down before them both and give her aching heart into their hands.

They stood at the door. She looked back, reaching out her hand in a sudden wild appeal. They thought she waved. She saw smiles on their faces. Tears made her blind.

That was the way she left them.

She had to put Wildie in the baggage car. So she was alone, and a thing quivered like an alarm in her thought. She sat low in the red plush seat, staring with an intent concentration from the window—a fence with white letters scrawled; a cow, motionless as the shrubs; line of trees; boulders in a dry creek. The throbbing in her mind grew louder; grew frightening. Never coming back—running away — leaving those two—not telling them—

At Destination

She got up quickly and went to the baggage car. She took the dog's head and pressed it. He gave a sharp, impatient whine. Her hands trembled. They shook with a strange, internal cold.

An all day trip—7 o'clock at last—they were reaching the station. She stood on the platform holding the leash. No one else getting off.

A dingy, yellow shed in the midst of vast, silent hills. Her trunk bumped off, the conductor smiling, taking her valise, helping her. Whistle—the train leaving—the rhythmic heaving of the earth's bosom—and she stepping into it—the pulsing solitude closing about her.

Chickie fixed her gaze on the hills. She pressed her hands against her throat, wondering why it tightened so; why there came such bewildered thumping at her ears.

Down the winding white road came a machine, honking insolently in the still face of the valley. It was the man from the farm—the man to take her trunk, drive her to the house. A little, dried-up, wiry fellow with a twanging voice and a sharp, canny eye. He touched his hat with a short, jerking motion: "Bound to Miss Robbins' place, Miss? Nice day, ain't it?"

Chickie smiled and took her place beside him. He settled down, a pipe in the corner of his mouth. Now and then they passed a barn, a lonely farmhouse and fields with dry stalks of corn and beans. The man gave a jerk with his head: "Harm's place, that. Harvesting the corn now," or "Smith owns that. His wife ran away two months ago. Mean fellow, Smith!" Again, with a grunt of satisfaction: "Kibbe—Mr. Harold Kibbe's place. Farms by a book. City fellow. Lost five thousand the season just gone. Know Miss Robbins a long while?"

Meets Miss Robbins

"No."

"Fine woman Miss Robbins. Here we are!"

An immense red barn, cows in a pasture, white rambling house with peaked roof and a maple tree to the side. All about were the fields. Chickie felt the stillness close down on her like a wall. She was oppressed, and at the same time relieved.

There was a porch about the house. Agnes Robbins came out to meet her. Her sleeves were rolled up. Chickie noticed that her arms were long; they were beautifully shaped. The hands were slender, strong but roughened.

She was a tall, supple woman about fifty. She spoke in a deep, resonant alto. Chickie stared, fascinated, at her face. She wore her black hair slicked back from her ears, but with very heavy straight bangs covering her forehead. The eyes were dark, snapping; the mouth severe, passionate, even a little hard. The wrinkles of her neck seemed out of place. They challenged the general air of youngness and fire that was in her face. It was a magnetic face but inscrutable.

Her speech was out of harmony. She said with a note of warmth almost ingratiating: "Mrs. Clayton? Come in, dearie. Did you have a nice trip? Too hot, isn't it? Now you just come right down to tea. You'll excuse me, dearie? This is my busy time. Your room is ready. At the top of the stairs. It's the only one. You'll like it—"

She gazed at Chickie's face and at her dress. She patted Chickie's hand and seemed flushed with triumph as she said: "I'm so glad you decided to come. Gets lonesome here."

Chickie was pleased but disconcerted. She had pictured Agnes Robbins as a plump, motherly sort with a large, ruddy face and blond hair turning gray—a woman who had reached the calm of life, not one with fires smoldering.

Now she was a little afraid. She wondered if this was the place—if she might really rest here, secure.

Planning

The room at the top of the stairs was long and narrow with many little windows, and these were hung with a flowered dimity. The roof was peaked, irregular, roughly beamed. There was a cool brightness, like a peace in the place.

There were but two men on the farm now. Chickie's place was set at the end of the table. The two men ate and didn't speak. Once the wiry fellow, who had driven her out and whose name was Billy, said confidently: "Guess you'll like it here, Miss, if you don't get too lonesome. City folks likes the noise."

She answered: "I like the quiet."

But she felt so strange and so quiet within herself—like a person she didn't at all know—that she couldn't eat. She wanted to get back to that room, sit at the little window and look out to the dark hills. Plan and think.

She did this until the light dimmed, her hands folded in her lap. Agnes Robbins brought her a glass of lemonade. She said to her: "Do you mean to stay long, Mrs. Clayton?"

"Perhaps a month—maybe two or three—I'm not quite sure——" Then Chickie told the story she had prepared. Her husband was a mining engineer. He was in South America now and would be there for quite a while. She had come up here to rest.

"You look a little tired."

Chickie started. But she could not bring herself to go on—wait a while—tomorrow—some other time would do.

Place for Sale

"But I'm not sure that I'll be here myself three months from now. We have the place up for sale. You see my husband and I were not farmers by calling. We came here five years ago. I never lived in the country before. It drove me half crazy in the beginning. I rather like it now."

Agnes Robbins told in a vivid, sketchy way of her early life. She had been on the stage as a girl. She had traveled all over the country. Her husband was a musician. In his fifties he had become melancholy. So they thought a farm was the thing for them. It hadn't proved so. She was restless to get away, now that he was gone.

Chickie asked: "Is anyone planning to buy it?"

"Perhaps we shan't—"

In the twilight she took a walk. It was still warm. The quietude grew. It touched her like a subdued, beaten feeling. At the end of a field was a mound under an oak tree. She sat there. She began to figure in an absent, forlorn way, then with a vidid, uneasy panic.

She said to herself: "Five months — maybe longer —" Nights and days—with the quiet and the heat and the appalling aloneness. She was afraid, merely thinking of it. The long imprisonment began.

Household Hints

Two ounces of beeswax dissolved in half a pint of turpentine provides an excellent polish for floors. Apply the mixture sparingly.

Tonic to remove dandruff: 48 grains of resorcin, one-fourth ounce of glycerin, diluted alcohol to fill a two-ounce bottle. Apply every night.

Used in its loose fibrous form asbestos is excellent for repairing water and gas pipes. The fibre is mixed to a thick paste with the white of an egg spread over the affected part and bound with a piece of cloth.

New Independence in Woman Has Its Darker Side, Fay King Points Out

THE WIFE OF A MAN WITH POWER OR MONEY HAS A HARD LOT THESE DAYS
YOU HARDLY FINISH READING ABOUT A DIVORCE UNTIL YOU READ OF THE MAN MARRYING A NEW YOUNG WIFE
AMBITIOUS YOUNG GIRLS HURL THEMSELVES AT ANY MAN WHO CAN HELP THEM
FAY KING

By FAY KING

I CAN'T HELP thinking sometimes that too much of this "independence of women" we hear about is only a more brazen display of selfishness and disregard of other women's rights.

Man has certainly been the gainer in this new freedom. Where once the other woman who purred upon a successful man had more or less to resort to secrecy, she now can expect to be received and even shielded and chaperoned by his wife.

It is not even considered cricket these days to speak ill of the woman who is wheedling your husband away.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The 'Fortune' Box Is Transported Safely to Bank

My hasty glance in the mirror at the bald-headed man driving his car swiftly behind us was punctuated by a crisp command from my father.

"Margaret! You are driving altogether too fast. If there were no other cars on the road it would be all right, but with a speed maniac like that one behind us, it is dangerous. Slow down and let him pass us."

I obeyed both his spoken and unspoken command, drawing my car down below 20 and keeping it scrupulously upon the right side of the road. A few seconds later, the other car whizzed by us and was soon out of sight around the turn of the road.

"Now he is out of the way, you can go faster," my father observed, and with my heart echoing the relief which I fancied his tone betrayed, I sent my car along again at the 30 miles he had prescribed. The bald-headed man was only an ordinary speed maniac after all.

My optimism was short-lived, however. Upon rounding the third turn in the winding road I saw the now familiar car in front of us and realized that its driver must have slackened his speed as soon as he had rounded the first turn after passing us.

"That feller must be havin' trouble again," Jerry Ticer commented. "He's a fine one to race like that with a car on the bum as his is."

"He's a dangerous man to be on the road," my father said crisply. "Don't try to pass him, Margaret, unless his car gives out entirely and he stops."

"I won't, Father," I responded to the unspoken warning behind his words, and slowed my car down to the dawdling rate made necessary by the pace of the man in front. As we neared the village, however, the man increased his speed a bit, then slowed down and drew up at the first parking place possible, which brought his car almost directly in front of the bank entrance. There he jumped out and, raising the hood of the car, began to fumble inside of it. But I noticed that he was working on the opposite side of the car from the one he had been inspecting when near the farm. Then he had been standing so that he was facing the farmhouse, and now he was facing the bank entrance.

"Well! what do you know about that?" Jerry Ticer demanded of the world at large. "His engine's gone on the bum again. And he's got the best parking place for you, Miss Graham. Didn't you say you was goin' to the bank? You'll have to walk back several rods now."

"Shall I park there, father?" I asked, indicating the first vacant space near the bank.

"Yes, of course," he answered, and I drew the car into the line and stopped. Jim was out of the car almost immediately and held the door open for me. My father also stepped out and gave a crisp direction.

"Jim, come with us. Jerry stay with the car."

He took the suitcase from the car and shook his head at Jim's respectful attempt to carry it.

"No, I'll attend to it," he said, in a low tone. "You walk ahead, Jim, and look out for squalls."

"All right, sir," Jim responded, and we started for the bank, my eyes fixed in a sort of terrified fascination upon the bald-headed man bending over his car. There was something indefinably odd about the man's baldness, or so it seemed to my excited imagination, and I studied the conformation of his head carefully in an attempt to find out what it was that had puzzled me.

When we were almost abreast of the bank the man rose from his stooping posture and looked at us. It was to all appearances the casual glance of a tourist at any group of "natives," but I sensed that my father's muscles were stiffening in the anticipation of some aggressive move on the part of the queerly acting stranger.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Girls of Today—And Tomorrow

It is always easy to turn a man's head—in another woman's direction.

The sanitariums and jails are full of people on the return journey from the Primrose Way and Easy Street.

An operation may lift a woman's face, but it takes a new heart-interest to pep up her spirits and rejuvenate her vanity to match it.

A man likes to have a woman think him big and strong and capable—but not so strong and capable that he can put up the screens, paint the front piazza, hang the Summer curtains and set out the plants, all on his Saturday afternoon off.

There are the "chase-me" eyes, the "help-me" eyes, the "trust-me" eyes, and the "I-dare-you" eyes—and a susceptible man has about as much chance of escaping them all as a jay-walker of crossing Broadway alive.

* * *

Those may have been dull days when you called it an exciting evening if you made fudge in the chafing dish and stole a kiss or two in the hammock, but they were the kind that gave a boy a chance to save enough out of his salary to buy a wedding ring.

* * *

"Say it with flowers," say it with diamonds, or say it with telegrams, but beware of saying it with snapshots, checks or fountain pens.

The average man's love-making these days is not strictly personal, but just the involuntary outpouring of an overcrowded heart.

The girl of today treasures her grandmother's collection of old laces, but the girl of tomorrow will probably be making pretty little things out of her mother's collection of old wedding rings.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Acne Often Caused by Rich Diet

Health is an important matter, perhaps the most important thing in the world. Without it nothing seems worth while. Those who lose it would give everything to regain it.

DR. COPELAND

Many persons write me during the course of a week asking about the various diseases. One letter has just come to my desk, asking about acne, that very common skin trouble of young people.

The underlying case of acne is impaired health from one cause or another. All imperfections of the skin are likely to indicate that something is wrong with the choice of foods, or with other habits of living. Neglect of the diet leads to many ills.

Acne is a disease of the "sebaceous glands." These glands are scattered over the skin, being located wherever the hair grows. At the base of each hair there are one or two glands. They furnish the hair with an oily or greasy material, lubricating it and keeping it soft. Without this oil the hair would be brittle and readily broken.

Many boys and girls from the age of 12 to 20 are made miserable by the skin disease commonly known as "blackheads." Pimples and hard, red sores frequently accompany this condition, a form of acne.

Very often acne is most persistent. The face is disfigured by the scars of these sores, some of which last for years. It is very embarrassing, too, for it comes at a time in life when young people are becoming interested in social life.

Improper diet has a great deal to do with acne. Children, and many adults for that matter, eat too many sweets and starches and rich foods in general. Too much fats, hot biscuits, and nut sundaes are sure to bring their day of reckoning. It is this sort of thing which leads to constipation.

When the diet is made up of such things there is no appetite for the necessary foods, like fruits and vegetables, milk, coarse bread and butter. No one can have good health who does not include these in the daily diet.

A person who has a bad skin should drink quantities of water. In this way the wastes of the body are carried away, as they should be. Activity of the bowels and kidneys is most essential.

Exercise in the open air, vigorous enough to cause the skin to perspire, is another important thing. Perfect cleanliness of the skin of head, face and body is very necessary. The victim of acne should take a warm bath daily, rubbing vigorously afterward with the bath towel.

Have a simple diet, with plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit, cereals and only very moderate amounts of meat and fish. Be out-of-doors in the fresh air and sunshine. Get plenty of sleep. All these things are necessary to maintain good health, and as your health improves your skin should also take on a healthier condition.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Expressing Distaste for the Menu

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When one asks for an article to be passed should others avoid delaying it by helping themselves as it passes?

2. Is it important to avoid the expression of dislike for anything on the menu?

3. When creamed peas are thin like soup, may they be eaten with a spoon, although a fork is used when they are dry?

4. From which side is food always served? Removed?

5. Should a soup spoon be lifted away from or toward the diner?

6. Isn't the public criticism of another's error the least excusable error of all?

INQUISITIVE.

1. No. The article that some one has asked for should be passed directly. Then, when that person has been served the other people who wish to be served may ask for the return of the dish.

2. Such an expression is the height of rudeness. So important is it that we do not show our dislike for any item of the menu when we are dining in a home; that we should always accept a small portion of the food even if we only eat a bit of it. Always we should keep in mind the point of view of our hostess, who naturally hopes that we like everything that she has tried to serve with the greatest care and thoughtfulness for her guests. How terrible, then, to put into words our dislike of the food or of any food. It is unspeakably selfish and mean-minded.

3. Yes, when peas are served in this way, although they may be eaten with a fork (and undoubtedly a person of special punctiliousness of table manners would still eat them with a fork), they may also, of course, and quite correctly, be eaten with a spoon.

4. Dishes are customarily passed on the left side of the person dining, since this is, obviously, the side on which it is easiest to serve oneself. And, customarily, too, plates are removed from the right of the guest.

5. The soup spoon should be lifted away from the person dining. That is, toward the top rim of the plate.

6. Yes.

The 'Bread and Butter' Letter

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just returned from a 10 days' visit with a very close friend of my husband's. I wish to thank her fittingly for her charming hospitality, but because I do not know her very well the letter seems very difficult to compose. Could you not give me a suggestion or two as to what form of letter I should write her?

N. H. E.

Your bread-and-butter letter should first thank her for the hospitality in general, and then should make appreciative comments on definite things and occasions that your hostess planned for your happiness. Your own expression—"charming hospitality"—is a perfect one to use in thanking for the hospitality of the home. Make special comment about the "perfect hostess," about her generosity in letting you meet her delightful friends, of the many thoughtfulnesses she showed about the books that she left in your room to read, about the garden that you enjoyed perhaps, about the lovely dinners or luncheons or teas or dances or drives that she planned for your entertainment.

In other words, keep in mind that your hostess would liked to be thanked, naturally, for the things that she had in mind for your happiness. Put yourself in her place, in other words, and think what you would like to be thanked for, if you were she.

Don't try to make your letter as short as possible, but as articulate, as expressive as possible. Don't spare your words—use them freely, and with warm-hearted and deep appreciation of such friendly and thoughtful hospitality.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the bust is large a brassiere should be worn. But not too tightly. Compression of the tissues results in harm and to a certain extent interferes with free circulation and normal breathing.

If the cuticle about the finger nails is kept free, hangnails will not appear. After washing the hands, lift up the cuticle with an orangewood stick. Snip away cuticle shreds with the curved needle-point scissors. At night apply olive oil or cold cream to the base of the nail and the sides. Never use a steel instrument to push back the cuticle. That's bad.

To tighten up thick lips, smile and unsmile. This facial exercise strengthens the muscles. Mouth-breathing will cause the lips to become heavy and ugly. For chapped lips there are colorless lipsticks. Very effective.

While sweets, fats and starches are fattening foods, the featherweight who would increase her poundage must not eat them to excess. She must have a well-balanced ration that makes for good digestion and normal building of tissues. She should eat slowly and never eat when she is tired.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

Hail a new idea!

A woman suggests, at a public meeting, too, that the way for men to save is to let their women folks handle all the money. Women are better shoppers, she declares, so the men should turn over to them everything except enough to make necessary purchases under $1 in value.

That thing sounds pretty business-like, doesn't it?

Women shop more, no question about that. Whether or not they are wise spenders is a question on which there are differences of opinion. They spend more money, but is it right to buy a gold and purple necklace that makes them look prettier but costs $24, and save that amount by feeding the family hash and pot roast for the next few weeks? This has been done.

It may be wise to make papa wear funny looking ties, not well made, not durable and certainly not pretty, because they cost less, and then pay $4 per pair for spider-web stockings for mamma. I'm not saying it isn't, and I'm not saying it is. But doesn't it do something to papa's attitude toward life to have men cracking jokes about his ties? And a husband with an unhappy mental attitude is worse than no husband at all.

There's another type, the wife who would buy papa handsome ties and save on her own clothes. But she is not the women who suggests that papa turn over his income for her to distribute. She is happy to take what papa gives her, and if she's good to him he seldom neglects her. If he does she can always join the Demanders Society. But I've noticed that wives who make demands generally have considerable trouble getting what they want.

If men care enough about you to marry you and live with you, the majority of them will be fair with you if you don't try to live your lives and theirs, too. The way to get the necessities and luxuries, too, is to let papa feel that he's the best man in the world, bar none, and you are glad he isn't stingy like other men, and he has nice eyes, and he's an all around fine fellow. It's much more pleasant trying to live up to that reputation than to try to live down the opposite kind.

Men are children. If you tell a child to come here this minute and hand over what he has, he's going to crawl under the table or yell. If you tell him he's the most generous little boy in the world, he will hand over the whole works.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, May 16.

The lunar aspects for this day are not to be taken as encouraging any new ventures, being under the depressing and obstructing force of Saturn. The day may be characterized by frustrated plans and postponements, with hazards in the employment and retarded conditions generally. These may involve a sudden or unwelcome change or journey. It is suggested that all matters possible be deferred until more auspicious planetary rulership.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a year of difficult and thwarting developments, with delays and obstacles to be tenaciously overcome or compromised. Those in employment are enjoined to be cautious in all approaches to employers or those in authority. And care should be taken as to sudden tendencies to make change or to travel.

A child born on this day may be hard-working, industrious and faithful and may need these qualities to surmount many difficult situations in life.

FAMOUS GRAIN BINS BURN

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed a grain elevator of the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation late yesterday, with damage estimated at $500,000 by L. T. Sayre, general manager. The blaze started with an explosion in the grinding room of the huge elevator. In a short time the whole structure, covering a city block, was shrouded in flame. Soon the west wall collapsed, and thousands of tons of grain slid down into the street.

The elevator, grain men recalled, was a relic of the famous battle between Joseph Leiter and Philip D. Armour, Sr., in 1898, when Leiter cornered the grain market. Armour to overload Leiter with grain scoured the Northwest, gathering nearly 5,000,000 bushels. As this came into Chicago, he had the elevator, with its twin, nearby, built in 60 days, a record time. They were acquired by the Rosenbaum group several years ago when the Armour Grain Corporation became involved in litigation.

Aviators Escape When Plane Upsets

HAZLETON, Pa., May 15.—(AP.)—Blinded by a veil of fog over the Laurytown valley, east of this city, two aviators, in attempting to make a landing late yesterday in a field at the Middle Coal Field Poor District Home at Laurytown, struck a rut, and the plane turned upside down.

The aviators, who refused to give their names, said they were residents of Ambler, Pa. Neither was injured.

Dr. Gilbert Named Episcopal Bishop

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Charles K. Gilbert, secretary of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, was elected suffragan bishop of the diocese, to succeed the late Herbert Shipman.

Wedding Banquet Broken Up By Wolves

BEIRA ALTA, Portugal, May 15.—(AP.)—Two uninvited guests attended a large outdoor wedding banquet at Queijeiras and as a consequence the other guests had no refreshments.

The big feast was at its height. Suddenly, two huge hunger-crazed wolves trotted into the assembly of farmers. The guests fled shrieking in all directions. The wolves unconcernedly devoured the roast pigs and lambs and licked up enormous dishes of sweetened rice.

After satisfying their immediate needs they departed, carrying off two live goats from nearby pens. They were gone when the wedding guests, recovering from their alarm, reappeared with guns.

CONTROL OF AIR URGED ON U. S.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 15.—(AP.)—Federal control over all aircraft movements in the interest of efficiency and safety was advocated by C. W. Short, Jr., manager of the Municipal Airport, Tulsa, Okla., at the second national airport conference of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. In pleading for more uniform methods of air traffic handling, he said establishment of standards by the United States Government would best solve the problem.

Following a similar trend, a paper read by Maj. John Berry, manager of the Cleveland municipal airport, was aimed at the establishment of a uniform airport lighting code.

A drive to place small towns with populations less than 10,000 on the aviation map is expected to result from the address of Frank L. Bertschler, airport director of Beaumont, Tex., before the small towns landing fields committee.

Crow That Talks Balks at Einstein

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 15.—(AP.)—Persons living near the Soo—fishermen and the like—declare there is a talking crow living in the woods near here.

They assert that the big black bird shows a fondness for young people and frequently is seen near where children are playing. The crow will answer questions and is a good mimic, they claim. One fisherman said the bird appeared to be well educated.

Asked about Einstein's theory, the crow just smiled.

DOUBLE MURDER SUSPECTED

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 15.—Murder is now suspected in the case of Martin Boggs, 35, of Holcomb, whose remains, with those of James Cadle, 50, also of Holcomb, were found Sunday in woods near Penwick, as the result of an autopsy and the re-opening of a coroner's investigation.

The autopsy, performed late yesterday, disclosed that Boggs, a one-armed man, lost his other arm through a charge of shot. The coroner's jury, which first declared the deaths due to unknown causes, returned another verdict that Boggs had been killed by a person or persons unknown.

Meanwhile, state and county officers continue their investigation. Both men disappeared last November, and it was presumed they had been frozen to death.

DAILY 18-HOUR HOPS TO COAST

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Roscoe Turner, transcontinental flier, last night announced plans for the establishment within six months of a daily 18-hour coast-to-coast air express.

Speaking at a dinner to press representatives, Turner said the service, which would operate 365 days a year independent of the weather, is designed to transport valuable financial papers and merchandise.

He completed Tuesday a transcontinental flight which he said was part of a series of three-round trip hops to gather data for the use of the service.

He declined to disclose who will back the plan, but said that Earl Gilmore, of Los Angeles, was supporting the preliminary flights.

MANY PACIFIC ROOKIES DISAPPOINTING

WHEN YOU SCAN the major baseball field and note the number of loudly-touted and high-priced Pacific Coast League recruits failing to live up to their advance notices, you've got to commend the Pirate coaching system again. That system is already the most famous in the country, and the corps comprising Chic Fraser, Bill Hinchman, Joe Devine and Carlton Molesworth is admittedly without a superior, if it has even an equal. There is no part of the baseball map that does not come in for a fine-combing each season, and when a worth-while player gets away from the lynx-eyed Corsair agents it is generally because he is already owned by some other big league club.

Joe Devine

But it is on the coast that the largest prices are paid for young prospects, as a rule, and for that reason the Buccaneer system in the far West, where Devine is the year-round operative and where Fraser, Hinchman and the management also has a chance to inspect some of the material each spring, stands out with particular prominence when Pittsburgh's player selections are compared with those made by other clubs in the big show.

NO RIVAL TEAM can even begin to match the wealth of talent the Rovers have gathered in the Coast League in Paul and Lloyd Waner, from San Francisco; Gus Suhr, from the same club; Remy Kremer, from Oakland; Dick Bartell, from the California sandlots, and Larry French, from Portland. Foy Frazier is another who still has possibilities, even though he may be sent out for a time. Also there was Joe Cronin, who has since developed into a star for Washington.

Other Coast League players are performing creditably elsewhere throughout the major circuits, it is not to be denied, but nowhere are they to be found in a group of the same size as on the Pittsburgh team. There isn't a club on the main line that is able to show nearly as many high-class players obtained in coast investments as the Pirates. The Bucs surely have outdone all rivals in spotting and grabbing the good ones.

And the success of the local club in that respect is all the more striking in view of the poor results that some other clubs are getting with costly coast rookies this year.

Not all of them have proved failures, it is true. For instance, there is Vernon Gomez, Yankee southpaw recruit from San Francisco, who has defeated the White Sox and Tigers in such impressive style as to indicate he is a real pitcher and well worth the $50,000 said to have been paid for him.

Vernon Gomez

BUT MOST OF the others have fallen far below expectations in their major league performances up to date. Smead Jolley, with the White Sox, showed up so poorly that it was decided to bench him. The Yankees have got little out of Lyn Lary and Jimmy Reese. Earl Averill hit .330 for the Indians last year, but this spring his mark is only .231. Roy Johnson is batting only .224 for the Tigers against .314 last season, and on the same club Elias Funk sports an average of only .203.*

WILLIE KAMM NEVER has lived up to his $100,000 purchase price for the White Sox and it was not until he was shifted from shortstop to second base on the same team this year that Bill Cissell, another high-priced athlete, began to give entire satisfaction.

Russell Rollings has failed to win a regular job with the Braves, and several others in the two leagues are being tabbed as disappointments. Evidently the Pittsburgh club, in buying coast products, knew the difference between oranges and lemons.

A NEW RECORD for himself, at least, and one possibly equaled by few other players in the majors, has been turned in by Babe Ruth. In 15 consecutive trips to the plate in three successive games, he got on every time, and it enabled him to score a total of seven runs.

Eight times Ruth got on through bases on balls, twice through singles, twice through doubles, once through a home run, once by forcing another runner at second, and once through an error. Pitcher Phil Page, of the Tigers, finally broke the Bambino's streak by striking him out.

AMERICAN LEAGUE CRITICS and fans are complaining of a lack of uniformity in the interpretation of the balk rule by the umpires. President E. S. Barnard has ruled that a pitcher, when one or more bases are occupied, must stand on the rubber, stretch his hands in the air and then bring them to rest on his chest for an "appreciable pause" before delivering the ball. There appears to be a wide difference of opinion among the umps as to what constitutes an "appreciable pause," inasmuch as Brick Owens and Campbell have called a total of 24 balks already whereas the 10 other arbiters combined have called only three.*

Brick Owens

A TOTAL OF 27 balks in one month exceeds the number called in the American League during the entire season of 1929. The statistics of Sam Otis show that Owens has called 13, Campbell 11, and Hildebrand, McGowan and Geisel one each. Moriarty, though working with Owens and Campbell, has not called a single infraction of the regulation.

No fault is found with President Barnard's ruling, but the scribes believe he ought to take some steps toward establishing uniformity by issuing such instructions that all umpires will get the same slant on the regulation. It is pointed out that as the matter stands now, two umpires are right and 10 are wrong, or 10 are right and two are wrong.

THAT THE EARLY slump of the Pirates need not be considered alarming is clearly indicated by the present winning dash of the Cardinals. Less than a week ago, the Redbirds were in a worse plight than the Rovers are right now. They lost five straight games, seven

AMERICAN ACE TWICE VICTOR BY 1 UP

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service.

FORMBY, England, May 15.—Glenna Collett, American champion, was only a single match away from the goal of her heart's desire as a result of defeating Enid Wilson, England's best, by 1 up, in the semi-finals of the British women's golf championship this afternoon.

The American, who last year advanced to the final only to lose to the gifted Joyce Wethered, today won two heart-breakers, the first from Hilda Cameron this morning and the second from Miss Wilson, both matches carrying right up to the home green, so grimly fought they were.

Miss Wilson, who had eliminated another American, Helen Hicks, by 5 and 4 in the quarter-finals this morning, was well on her way to repeating against Miss Collett this afternoon.

But she reckoned without Glenna's power and punch in the stretch, the admitted hallmark of a champion the world over.

GLENNA RALLIES

Always in the rear or at least no better than even during the first 13 holes, Enid suddenly found herself in front at the fourteenth when Glenna missed a short putt. This had been Glenna's failing earlier in the match, for she bungled another at the eighth and a third at the tenth hole. Her long irons had been giving her trouble, too, but always she rallied in the face of defeat with a sound approach and a glittering chip shot to save herself from disaster.

The American had a chance at the fifteenth, where Enid's third shot was well back of the green. However, Glenna's was short with both second and third shots and finally got a half in 5's, Enid chipping back nicely and Glenna failing to get down a putt of 15 feet.

Then came the squaring of the match at the short sixteenth. Here Miss Wilson pushed her tee shot out of bounds and was over the green with her next. Glenna was none too good herself, having pulled her tee shot to a trap and missing her attempted out. She finally pulled herself up short, studied the line of a 10-foot putt with circumspect care and downed it for a winning 4.

FINISH DRAMATIC

This squared the match with two holes to go. Glenna spanked one well out in front of Enid off the seventeenth tee, but the latter replied with a fine brassie to the green, leaving herself two putts for a birdie. Glenna was short with her brassie and her chip shot left her a 6-footer for a birdie. She missed it, but Enid took three putts and they called it a half in 5's.

Then it came to the final showdown on the eighteenth. Both smote terrific drives and Glenna hit a great pitch to the green, 9 feet from the pin. Enid's stopped 30 feet away and, after carefully inspecting everything en route, she hit a beautiful putt that stopped on the brink of the cup. This was Glenna's chance and she made the most of it.

Steadying herself, she hit the putt right at the back of the cup and it popped in for a dramatic victory, comparable only with her 21-hole-decision over Molly Gourlay, the other British star, in the fourth round. The cards:

Miss Collett—
Out ...4 5 5 3 4 5 5 4 4—39
In ....5 4 5 5 5 5 4 5 3—41—80

Miss Wilson—
Out ...4 5 5 4 3 6 5 4 4—40
In ....4 5 4 5 4 5 5 5 4—41—81

While Glenna and Enid were fighting to the grim, bitter finish, Diana Fishwick, 18-year-old English school girl, came in with a 5-and-4 victory over Kathleen MacDonald in the other semi-final. Miss Fishwick thus qualified to meet Glenna in the 36-hole final tomorrow.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BEE-AGATE. GENUINE HONEY BEE IMBEDDED IN STONE—The existence of a real honey bee within the agate stone is a most remarkable circumstance. Agates were formed in the earth's early formative stages during the solidification of molten rock on our planet. The discrepancy between the age of the agate and the earliest occurrence of insects on earth makes this a most curious fact. The agate was found by Fred W. Hornaday, at Newport, Ore., in September, 1926. THE CHAIR THAT GREW—The grown-chair is a result of natural growth and of the extraordinary ingenuity of the grower, John Krubsack, of Embarrass, Wis. Twenty-eight box elders were required for it, and the time required was 12 years. A few years ago, the chair was on exhibition in the Furniture Mart, Chicago.

TOMORROW—THE SINGING RIVER.

REST TO HELP CORSAIRS' CRIPPLES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Rain, for the second time in two days, caused a postponement of diamond play between the Pirates and Phillies. Today's scheduled contest was called off shortly after noon. It will be played at Forbes Field as part of a double-header on Tuesday, August 12.

The Quakers and Buccos now face two double bills in Oakland. Yesterday's cancellation caused the home officials to arrange for a twin card to be played Saturday, June 28.

The successive postponements were hailed with delight by the crippled Pittsburgh club. Manager Ens and his athletes have been carrying on under great stress. The relaxation, it was believed, will be beneficial to the Oaklanders. The Phillies and Pirates will wind up their series tomorrow. The Reds are carded to meet the Buccos here Saturday in a single game. After this contest the two clubs will move to Cincinnati for three contests.

One month old today, the National League race has sparkled with surprises furnished mostly by the Pirates, the Cardinals and the Robins. A glance at the standings as the entries pass the second milestone shows the fifth-place Pirates and Reds to be only two or three games removed from the top.

"Why all the singing of blues about our club," said a Pirate official today. "Two or three games off the top and in fifth place is just as good as being in second place, yet to hear all the growling one would think the Pirates were sunk."

WIN HALF OF GAMES

True, too many are yelling "police" concerning the Freebooters, who have managed to win half their games after sustaining more misfortune than any other team in baseball.

The Pirates still have a big hospital list in Capt. Traynor, Lloyd and Paul Waner, Stuart Clarke and Heinie Meine, but better times seem to be coming.

Bedside reports on Brother Lloyd are to the effect there is nothing the matter with him, but owing to the removal of his tonsils and adenoids he will be kept at the Baltimore hospital for another week or more.

Some writers sent out some very bad reports regarding Lloyd, but his doctors say he is O. K. They suggest that he rest awhile in view of what he has gone through.

Capt. Traynor is due to be discharged from the Baltimore clinic any time and it is probable that he can take his place in the line-up in a week or so.

Stuart Clarke, utility infielder, is spending some time in St. John's Hospital with a sprained ankle. He probably will be unable to play for 10 days. Ben Sankey, shortstop, has been recalled from Wichita and is expected here Saturday.

Manager Ens stated this morning that Heinie Meine is just about ready to start a game. Meine succumbed to a throat ailment on the day before the opener. Ens also stated that he intended to use Steve Swetonic as a starting pitcher. Steve has been the most consistent hurler on the staff.

As the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pointed out some time ago, the Robins are the "surprise" team of the league. Picked for a second division berth, the Flatbush athletes are moving like champions.

ROBINS WINNING

The Cardinals were regarded in the same light in which the Pirates are now held in Pittsburgh. They lost four successive games to the Bucs and later were knocked off four times by the Robins, but now, after winning eight straight, they are the talk of the league. The Redbirds were only one and one-half games out of first place this morning.

STATE AWARDED RING TOURNEY

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 15.—Penn State, leading figure in collegiate boxing circles of the East, again will be host to the annual championship tournament of the intercollegiate association next year, Graduate Manager Neil M. Fleming announced today. The tournament has been held here twice before, in 1924 and 1929, each time before capacity audiences. On both of these occasions Penn State won the team championship.

The date for the tournament has not been set, but it will be late in March.

CUP BATTLES OPEN TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP.)—The Davis Cup teams of the United States and Canada will clash today on the courts of the Philadelphia Country Club in the opening matches of the American zone play.

John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., will oppose Dr. Jack Wright, Canada, in the opening singles match at 1:30 p. m. and immediately upon its completion, George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago, will meet Marcel Rainville, Canada.

YANK WALKER TEAM LEADS

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

SANDWICH, Eng., May 15.—American strengthened its tenacious hold on the coveted Walker Cup golf trophy today by winning three out of the four matches played over the course of the Royal St. George's Club here.

Although the Britishers put up a stirring fight, making it look more than once as though the honors would at least be even, the slashing game of the invaders was too much for them and only Capt. Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, of the British team, managed to come through triumphant.

They defeated the two Georges—Von Elm and Voight—2 up, after a stirring match.

So far as the rest were concerned, Bobby Jones and Dr. O. F. Willing, America's No. 2 team, made short shrift of Rex Hartley and T. A. Torrance, winning, 8 up and 7 to play. Francis Ouimet and Harrison Johnston defeated William Campbell and J. N. Smith, 2 up and 1 to play, while Don K. Moe and Roland MacKenzie won their slashing game with Sir Ernest Holderness and J. A. Stout, 2 up and 1 to play.

YANKS SET EARLY PACE

When the afternoon round started, all four American teams were up on their opponents, Moe and MacKenzie 2, Von Elm and Voight 2 and Johnston and Ouimet 3. The two Georges got into difficulty soon after the last 18 holes began, however, and just kept the match square at the end of the first nine. On the way in, fives on the tenth and 18th cost them the two strokes that deproived America of a 100 per cent. victory.

A gallery of 5,000 saw the finish of the match which gave Brition its lone victory of the day. The Prince of Wales saw Jones and Willing win and walked in with Bobby. The Prince tried

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

Well, folks, we had plenty of time to talk things over and play some golf yesterday. When you come to think of it we could be a lot worse off—we're only two and a half games from the top after all the tough luck we've had.

The news on Pie yesterday wasn't hard to take. Jule says he will feel a lot relieved when Pie is in there every day, because there's none better than him in the game.

I think the rest will do us a lot of good. Grantham was around the clubhouse a long time yesterday gettin' his arm baked by Doc. Jorgenson. I think he'll be out there today. A lot of us played golf in the afternoon. Jule doesn't mind if the fellas play a little on off days, but he doesn't want any poppin' off about it in the clubhouse or bench.

NO POST MORTEMS

The boss thinks golf is all right in its place. He said:

"Lefty, if you go out on the links and come back tomorrow with a lot of clubhouse post mortems, you're gonna be thrown under a shower bath with your clothes on."

I think it was Jule's way of just lettin' the gang know that the clubhouse is for baseball and not for golf, or bridge or horse-racin' and I think he's right. Anyhow, you won't hear me sayin' a word about them birdies I should o' made.

The Phillies were around celebratin' their victory. I guess that gang hasn't had so much to celebrate on this trip. They're a nice lot of boys, as far as I can see, but I hope they don't have any more celebrations in Pittsburgh for awhile.

PAYDAY—RAH!

Well, this is the day we march into the front office for the old

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Have you noticed how particular the umpires are this season on balks? It has got so a pitcher don't dare to switch his cud of tobacco from one side to the other. I don't mind an umpire watching a pitcher's arms closely, but we've got a couple in our league that would call a balk on Venus De Mile. I see old Tom Zachary was waived out of the big leagues. I know he went to the Boston Braves, but he's still in the minors. The Yankees are coming along now and like $920,000, They will look like $1,000,000 when Babe Ruth begins to hit.

WOMEN GOLF TEAMS BEGIN PLAY TOMORROW

HIGHLANDERS WIN GROGAN CUP MATCH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Now that the Highlanders are sitting back in their chairs this morning, joyful in the good news that their Clan of Kilties retained the Grogan Cup by defeating the Indians of Shannopin 120 to 66 in the first half of their annual 36-hole Grogan Cup match at Highland yesterday and the Shannopinites are plotting all sorts of revenge for the last half of the conquest to be held over the Ben Avon Heights layout June 12 or thereabouts, all is comparatively peaceful along the battle front so far as the two rival North Boroughs clubs are concerned. But the golf war in general has only a day's lull before another conquest is at hand.

Tomorrow the women officially will inaugurate their competitive season when, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, the eight country clubs in Section I of the Women's Golf Association of the Western Pennsylvania Team League, under the captaincy of Anjeannette Hunter, of Oakmont, former West Penn champion, fire their opening shots.

The Pittsburgh Field Club team plays the Shannopin Country Club women at 10:30. Oakmont meets Chartiers Heights beginning at 11 o'clock. Edgewood takes on Fox Chapel starting at 11:30 and the Allegheny and Stanton Heights players tee off at noon. Manager John Camozzi has all arrangements complete for a real reception for the women so that their lid-lifting match will be a real pleasure.

STEELMEN PLAY

The golf war will not be entirely centered in Aspinwall, however, for at the Edgewood Country Club, more than 100 members of the Officials Department Golf Association of Carnegie Steel, will be rambling the links in an effort to work up a decent appetite for the big feed Manager Eddie Shuttle will be preparing for them. Jimmy O'Donnell, professional and Toots Erath, assistant pro, will see that the boys get off in shape.

Dr. W. H. K. McDiarmid, East Liberty dental expert, who is the reigning club champion, will lead the Alcoma Country Club team against worthy foes in the Kiski School links squad in their first team match of the season. This event always is of great interest.

Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, also will be in town tomorrow to give exhibitions at Joseph Horne's. Part of the big day for Johnny will find him an honor guest among fellow professionals from this district, with Vance Smith acting as host, the festivities to begin at 1:30 in Horne's main dining room.

The Pennsylvania Golf Association has announced starting times for its first tournament of the season, to be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club Wednesday of next week, may be obtained by telephoning or writing the office of the handicap committee, 1101 Farmers Bank Building, Atlantic 0519. The pairings and starting times are to be announced Tuesday. An exceptionally large entry is indicated by the many entries being made at this time.

PRO PLAY CARDED

Charley Manning, Shannopin's good-looking professional, has announced a professionals' tournament has been slated for the Shannopin links for Monday, May 26. Excellent prizes will be awarded.

Last night at the Highland Country Club, after the Highland and Shannopin teams, almost 200 strong, gathered at the festive board, Manager Ben Arnold put forth his best in the way of edibles for their edification. Songs, cheers, a couple of impromtu speeches, etc., marked the event, which wound up a glorious day. Samuel M. Parks, Sr., chairman of Highland's golf committee, handled the tourney with great success.

In a special match, Vince Eldred, pro at Highland, and Samuel M. Parks, Jr., Highland star, played Joe Stanger, another Kiltie satellite, and Charley Manning, Shannopin pro, with honors about even—they played until darkness settled over the layout. to watch the finish of the Tolley-Wethered victory, but had to fight for a place in the crowd.

JONES ELATED

Jones, captain of the American team, was elated at the good start for his side, as he would have been satisfied with an even break in the foursomes. However, he was not over confident.

"We may need that advantage tomorrow" he said.

He admitted with a grin that he will sleep easier tonight with a two-point lead.

The Americans now need only to win three of the singles and score a half in the fourth to retain possession of the famous cup which never has been won by the British.

In the singles matches tomorrow the eight Americans who played the foursomes today will compete again, but the British may substitute two of its team. In the singles the pairings will be:

Johnston vs. Tolley.
Jones vs. Wethered.
Von Elm vs. Hartley.
Voight vs. Holderness.
Willing vs. Smith.
Ouimet vs. Torrance.
Moe vs. Stout.
MacKenzie vs. Campbell.

W. P. I. A. L. MEET HONORS IN DOUBT

By JESS CARVER.

Today we turn to Page 32 of the little red book and take a look-see at the possibilities along championship lines of the annual W. P. I. A. L. track and field meet, which will be held in the Stadium Saturday.

A year ago, Phil Bridenbaugh brought his New Castle High squad down, one that consisted of about three athletes and a lot of kids in runnin' pants. New Castle was so dark a horse that they hadn't even listed it in the program. But the three athletes were just good enough to win the meet, and one of 'em took away high individual point scoring honors.

CONNELLSVILLE STRONG

As is annually the case, it is tough this year to even hint at a possible champion. New Castle may repeat its 1929 triumph. Connellsville scored well in the Tech Interscholastics, and with a crack hurdler in Bradley, is almost certain of at least two first places. Ellwood City, with Dunn and McMurdo; Beaver Falls, with young Windy Moore; Fifth Avenue, with the elongated Spencer; Beaver, with Bob Pusch, Jim Campbell and Tony Ezzo, and Harding High of Aliquippa, with Markovich, are schools that will whittle into any startling advantage anticipated by any school.

With Pitt and Tech in Morgantown competing in the annual Big Four championship meet, the Dukes will run opposition to the W. P. I. A. L. event by staging the first track meet Duquesne has put on in Pittsburgh since wampum was used for dough, meeting Bethany in a dual engagement at Schenley Oval.

The Tipoff

What's doing today—

At Waynesburg, a tennis match between Geneva and the Yellow Jackets. If it doesn't rain.

Prior to the W. P. I. A. L. meet at the Stadium Saturday, the league officials will hold their annual spring confab at the University of Pittsburgh Faculty Club.

It is unfortunate that Pete Bowen will not be able to defend his intercollegiate 440-yard championship this year. Pitt will need him against the Army, true, but it is a question whether it is better for the university to have Pete leading his team here or representing the Panthers in a national event.

Knute Rockne is back on the job at South Bend, directing the final days of spring football practice. If you've forgotten which caused his ills, his leg or his teeth, you can't lose. It was both.

Wm. S. Haddock, who'll be in charge of the National A. A. U. track and field championships here in August, intends to run the 220-yard events around one turn, rather than in and out of the Stadium tunnels.

Hornsby to Receive Loop Award May 31

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby, injured second baseman with the Chicago Cubs, will become $1,000 richer on May 31.

The date was set aside today as the one on which Hornsby will be presented with $1,000 in gold, in recognition of his selection as the National League's most valuable player in 1929. The presentation will be made by John Heydler, president of the league.

This will be the last award of its kind, the club owners having decided to abandon the idea. Hornsby was the only player to win it twice in the six years of its existence.

MOORE BEATS ALLEN

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—Pal Moore, veteran Memphis, Tenn., featherweight, last night outpointed Bobby Allen, Chicago, in a 10-round bout at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium.

RAIN PREVENTS MEYERS BOWL OPENER

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The opening show of the outdoor boxing season in the Pittsburgh district, scheduled for tonight in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, with Battling Battalino, world featherweight champion, boxing Vic Burrone, of New York, in the main bout, was postponed shortly after noon today until next Monday night.

The original intention was to put over the show in the event of rain until tomorrow night, but the Weather Bureau informed the promoters that no better outlook was in prospect then, and so the later date was agreed upon.

The out-of-town boxers on the card, Battalino, Burrone and Ralph Lenny, who meets Andy Andrucci in the eight-round semi-final, will remain over in town and continue training.

Between Rounds

Tickets for the Primo Carnera-George Godfrey bout at the Phillies' Park, Philadelphia, June 23, will sell for from $3 to $12.50, including taxes. Tickets for the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling title bout in New York, June 12, are scaled from $2.10 to $26.25.

Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Frank Limhardt, of Buffalo, will box the 10-round main bout of a show in the Erie Auditorium tomorrow night.

My Sullivan, of St. Paul, boxes Jackie Phillips, of Canada, at Winnipeg, Can., tonight.

A Negro flyweight named Johnny Yonet has just been added to the Mason-Dunlavy string. His home is in Kansas City, but he has been boxing as an amateur in Chicago and came here to visit Don Frazier featherweight, with whom he boxed in Chicago. His folks hail from Cuba.

Jackie Rodgers, who has been visiting with his parents in Sandusky, O., is due here today and will leave almost immediately for Willie Davies' training camp in the mountains near Bedford. Pa. Don Frazier and Harry Williams will go with him, Davies already is training lightly for his bout with Black Bill at the Meyers Bowl, June 7.

Phil Goldstein, Hill lightweight, boxes Danny Dalmond, of Chicago, in the main bout at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. Freddie Landers, of New Castle, boxes Joe Boda, of Cleveland; Lefty Arnold, of New Castle, meets Roger Shea, of Cleveland, and Elmo the Mighty, of New Castle, tackles Nick Grichel, of Aliquippa, in the six-round preliminaries.

Knute Hansen, New York heavyweight, will arrive here several days in advance of his bout with George Parker, of Homestead, which will open the Hickey Park arena in Millvale next Thursday night, it was announced today by Matchmaker Charley Lock.

Draw Announced For French Tourney

PARIS, May 15.—(AP.)—With formidable American teams in all three divisions, the draw was announced yesterday for the French hard course tennis doubles championships which begin on Monday. The singles draw will not be made until next week as the organizers are still awaiting belated entries.

In women's doubles the California combination of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan was seeded in the top half of the draw. A third Californian, Helen Jacobs, is paired with Jeanne Sicard of Belgium.

SCHOOL MEET SATURDAY

Shaler Township schools will hold their first annual field meet at the high school field adjacent Braun School, starting at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Track and field events for boys and girls are to be held.

Fight Results

At Youngstown, O.—Maurice Holtzer defeated Mike Dundee, 10 rounds; Ted Tarrass won by technical knockout over Jimmy Herman, 3 rounds; Lew Carroll won by technical knockout over Tom Stout, 5 rounds.

DEMPSEY QUITS AS PROMOTER

By FRANK G. MENKE,
International News Service.

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 15.—Jack Dempsey, recuperating here from an operation, has decided to quit promoting fights until next fall, it was learned today. And unless business conditions improve greatly by that time, and some glittering fistic stars are available for Chicago display, the ex-champion is completely finished as an impresario of fist throwers.

Dempsey's decision was precipitated by the necessity for an operation here two weeks ago and which will make it impossible for him to get back into strenuous business of any kind for many months. Discussing other reasons, he said:

"I had planned to put on some open air shows, but the great trouble was to find some first-class men who would draw gates of real size. The bulk of them were tied up with their outfits. Unless one has some real stars headlining an outdoor card the thing is quite likely to be a bust because of the terrific overhead.

"Up to the time I came here for the operation I was unable to get the men I wanted. Since I have been advised by the doctors that I must take things very easy until late in the summer, I decided to close up my Chicago office and attempt no promotions until fall. If by that time a new crop of fighting youngsters has come along, I will resume indoor shows in the Chicago Coliseum. If not, then I'll be through."

Dempsey will be here another week or 10 days. After that he will keep a few refereeing engagements and then go to California, where he plans to spend the summer in some of the mountains near Los Angeles.

The ex-champion was operated on for an intestinal growth which has been troubling him for more than seven years. The surgeons here marvel over the fact that with this condition he was able to fight five battles—Gibbons, Firpo, Sharkey and two with Tunney. They are of the opinion that the operation will put Dempsey in better physical condition than he has been for many years.

TRACK MEET AT STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 15.—The sophomore and freshman classes at Penn State will hold their annual dual track meet tomorrow. In the recent interclass meet the freshman won by an overwhelming score with the second-year men furnishing.

out of 10, and nine out of 13. During their first 11 games they never won two in succession.

Yet, here they are now with eight consecutive victories to their credit, equaling the longest winning streak of the season in the majors. It merely goes to show that an early run of defeats does not necessarily indicate that a club is weak. The Bucs may get going again just as suddenly as did the Cards. Incidentally, in spite of all that has happened, the locals are only two and a half games below first place.

Jack Dempsey

BECAUSE LOU MAGNOLIA has been chosen to handle the majority of the important fights in the East and the South during the last couple of years, he is looked upon by most ring followers as the country's leading referee. But in the opinion of Charley Murray, Buffalo promoter, that distinction belongs to Jack Dempsey. "Dempsey is the best referee in the United States this minute," Murray declares. "He's got decision. He knows the game. The fighters respect him. The public respects him. No monkey-doodle business when old John is in there calling them. Dempsey gave the world the best he had when his fists were flying. Now he's giving the public the best he has as a referee. I haven't heard a squawk in any fight that Dempsey has refereed."

THOUGH GALLANT FOX is the choice of the turf talent for victory in the Kentucky Derby two days hence, he is no longer the favorite for the rich Belmont Stakes to follow. He has been supplanted by the Whitney star, Whichone. After winning the Wood Memorial and the Preakness, Gallant Fox was made first choice in the Belmont at 2 to 1, while Whichone was quoted at 4 to 1.

But Whichone has since worked two fast trials, his second being a mile in 1:4 2-5. There has been a shift in the Belmont betting, in consequence. Whichone is now the favorite at 2 to 1, and Gallant Fox is second choice at 3 to 1. Sentiment may swing toward Gallant Fox again, however, if he happens to win the Derby in impressive style.

By TOM BIRKS.

A pair of Central League battles will feature this evening's sandlot card. Etna, with a great club, invades the home of the Beckmans to tangle with Lutton's Motors' aggregation, and in another battle the Allegheny Collegians will tangle with the fast-going Lincoln Civics at Hartzman Park.

The Civics have been the sensation of the Central League, having beaten Fintex, Soho Traders and Etna. Jimmy Arrigo, the Homewood boy, has been the mound star in all the games. However, the Civics will bump into either Sammy Leon or Walter Snee this evening, and this pair of seasoned hurlers will be a tough nut for the Civics' hitters to solve.

In the West Penn, Verona Community will try to break into the win column when North Bessemer appears at Cribbs Field. The Community team is slow rounding into form, and this is one game that North Bessemer is eager to win.

DRAVO FACES MINERS

Dravo will appear for the first time at Homewood playgrounds, meeting Mine Safety. Gettings probably will hurl for the Appliance boys.

The feature game of the early season in the Steel City League should be on tap at the Union High School field, Turtle Creek, when the undefeated Young Men's Star Circle team clashes with the Hale Club. The Bloomfielders have been going at a sensational clip and expect to take Hale.

In the City League, N. S. Civics will meet Stowe Civics at the Salt Works Field. Mitchell probably will oppose Callahan on the slab. The other game in the circuit will find the defeated Book Shoe outfit clashing with J. L. Thomas at Dean Field.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Edgewood plays Reliance Life at Pleasant Valley.

The Philadelphia Company League will stage its second game at Mellon Field, Duquesne Light meeting Equitable Gas. In the Allegheny Kiski League, Renton goes to Arnold and Springdale to Pioneer Hose.

Three games will be on tap in the North Side Twilight League. St. Boniface meets the North Siders; Ingomar hooks up with Blaw-Nox and Troy Hill tackles Fineview.

HOW THEY FARED

Nellan pitched shutout ball for Etna last evening in the Central League as his teammates defeated Y. M. H. A., 3 to 0. In the Steel City League, the East End Cardinals defeated St. Elizabeth 7 to 4. Verona tied the Dan Heeps, 3-3 and Reliance Life turned back the Homestead Jenkins, 1 to 0, in Greater Pittsburgh League games. Hurley held the Jenkins club to one hit.

Raybestos won another in the Commercial circuit, blanking McCreerys, 9 to 0. In the Major League, Iroquois won over Lorena, 7 to 2; Hoffmans hammered St. Georges, 9 to 2, and the Union Printers nosed out the J. A. Lineys, 5 to 4.

The Shamrocks defeated the Aspinwall Rangers, 5 to 2, and the Rinkey Dinks won over Sharpsburg, 9 to 2, in independent tussles.

Bunts

The Observatory Civics want to book games with clubs in the light first class ranks. For games call Manager Meeder, Fairfax 2071, or write him at 23 Drum st.

The East Liberty Crimsons surely surprised East End fans with that snappy pitching. Manager Conn's club had a great attack, and Hussey, Birne and Walberg are a nifty trio of hurlers.

Young Men's Star Circle is looking for games after winning three straight in the Steel City League. The Bloomfielders want to meet strong clubs. For games call Mayflower 8147.

Immaculate Heart, headed by Joe Dobbs, stacks up as one of the hardest hitting clubs in the tri-state district. The West Penn Park boys went after the Duquesne Traders and scored 20 runs.

The Homestead Grays invade Pennsylvania tomorrow to meet an all-star team of Allegheny-Kiski Valley League players. Saturday the Grays meet the Akron Independents at Forbes Field.

ACADEMIC CUSTOMS

Received an anonymous letter some time ago from a chap who says in part:

"Doesn't it seem rather inconsistent and ungrateful that you, a man who has made his reputation and living on education, should be so out of sympathy with education?"

Ingratitude is not my weakness, nor is education. Football coaches always have been the target of educational authorities and so I thought for a change a few of the latter's weaknesses might be brought to light without any harm to the country at large.

Knute Rockne

I feel very grateful to my institution for the opportunity that has been afforded me, and I feel quite sure I would not have received the same in many schools. At Notre Dame a football coach is not restricted when it comes to free speech and doing work outside of his regular job. However, in most institutions the football coach is the most restricted of individuals.

For instance, I know of one man who coached to put himself through medical school and continued to coach as he was putting in two or three years of internship in a hospital. Then he fell in love and married. His expenses were a lot higher, and, upon being offered a coaching job that paid a pretty fair salary, he decided to continue coaching for a few years until such time as he had a start in the practice of medicine.

On entering his new job what did he find? He found rules. In the morning, he could amuse by playing golf, checkers, etc., but to practice the profession for which he had studied, slaved and trained, was forbidden.

Neither he nor anyone else ever heard a good reason for the rule, but there it was.

Delving into the inconsistencies of academic customs, one hears many queer notes which do not harmonize with the symphony of common sense.

PROBERS WOULD BAR CARNERA

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—Indefinite suspension of Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight giant, was recommended last night to the National Boxing Association, controlling boxing in 29 states, by a committee appointed to investigate Carnera's bouts since his invasion of the United States five months ago.

The recommendation, if adopted, would bar Carnera from appearing in any state affiliated with the N. B. A. and may prevent his next important engagement, a match with Meyer (K. O.) Christner, of Akron, O., scheduled for Detroit May 31, under the direction of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons.

The committee which investigated the goings and comings of the ambling Alp consisted of Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission; Walter Liginger, secretary of the Wisconsin State Boxing Commission, and Thomas Donohue, of Hartford, Conn., former president of the N. B. A. The committee forwarded its recommendation of indefinite suspension to Stanley M. Isaacs, of Cincinnati, O., president of the National Boxing Association.

O. K. IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 15. —(INS.)—Regardless of what action may be taken by other states or the National Boxing Association, the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission will not suspend Primo Carnera, the huge Italian boxer, Frank Wiener, chairman of the commission, announced today. Carnera is matched with George Godfrey for a battle here the night of June 23.

WRIGHT'S BAT DEFEATS REDS, 7-4

ROBIN SLUGGER CONNECTS FOR FOUR HITS

By COPELAND C. BURG.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 15.—When Lily Damita, that little French actress who is the most beautiful girl on Broadway right now, was introduced to Babe Ruth the other night, she piped up:

"Oh, you Beeg Babee, where is your home run?"

Poor Babe blushed, looked through all his pockets and did not answer, which brings us face to face with today's case of Glenn Wright, that big sticking captain of the Brooklyn Robins. Glenn was asked the same question as Babe in that conflict between the Flock and Cincinnati yesterday and what an answer he gave.

It was in the third inning, one man on and the Reds two runs ahead in a game deciding disputed possession of the third rung in the National League race. Glenn annoyed those Cincy fans considerably by showing right where he kept his home run supply and in addition to the four-sack clout he delivered, the Robin chief contributed two triples and a single, which accounted rather largely for the fact Brooklyn won, 7 to 4.

The Giants and the Cardinals played the only other game yesterday and because the Giants couldn't hit, St. Louis won its eighth game in a row, 7 to 3. They are in the first division now. Frankie Frisch hit a home run and two doubles for the Cards, while Herman Bell, who took over the mound for the St. Louis team in the fourth from Grabowski, did some fancy pitching, allowing New York only one hit in five innings.

Rain soaked out the other games in the National circuit and all contests in the American League.

COLTS DEFEAT GENERALS

Only four of the eight Middle Atlantic League clubs were able to get into action yesterday. Rain spoiled the games scheduled for Scottdale and Fairmont.

At Cumberland, the Colts turned back the Clarksburg Generals, 4 to 1, Stub Rase, leading hurler of the league last year, pitching a steady game. Bashore slammed a home run in the seventh inning with Connell on base.

Johnstown defeated Wheeling, 8 to 4, at Wheeling, overcoming an early lead compiled by the Stogies. Weber clouted a home run for the Johnnies in the fifth inning.

Jeannette and Fairmont, rained out yesterday, will stage a double header at Fairmont today. Del Gainer, manager of the Black Diamonds, dissatisfied with the play of his right fielders, will break into the lineup.

Badger Slab Ace To Join Bruins

MADISON, Wis., May 15.—(AP.)—The Capital Times yesterday said Maury Parber, of Chicago, pitching ace on the University of Wisconsin nine, will join the Chicago Cubs at the close of the Big Ten baseball season.

Anderson Suspended For Six Months

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP.)—Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., middleweight, was suspended for six months and his license in Illinois was revoked by the State Athletic Commission yesterday because of his refusal to box Haakon Hansen Tuesday night.

LEGION ENTRIES OPEN

Entry blanks for the American Legion Junior Baseball Championships now are available at the office of Bob H. Giffen, Allegheny County athletic chairman, 537 Jones Law Building, Pittsburgh. Entries will be received until June 15. Edward Schlesinger is to award a trophy to the Legion post sponsoring the team winning the county title.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 15.—(AP.)—Carter White, pitcher on the freshman team of William and Mary College, of Williamsburg, Va., yesterday pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Navy Plebes. The score was 5 to 0. Carter struck out 14 men and issued one base on balls.

CLARENCE SHAKESPEARE,

Washington County Golf and Country Club.

Clarence Shakespeare

In starting his third year as professional at the Washington County Golf and Country Club, Clarence Shakespeare finds back of him a solid phalanx of supporters who rate him as the greatest pro the organization ever had, at a club that is in better condition both as to membership and finances than it ever has been. Shakespeare is one of the few American-born members of the paid brigade in this district; he is a native of Wilmington, Del., where he learned to play, his first engagement as a pro being at the Bucks County Country Club, at Langhorne, near Philadelphia, at which club he stayed two years. He went from there to the Trenton (N. J.) Country Club for three years and then moved westward to the Uniontown (Pa.) Country Club, where his tenure extended over a span of eight years. In 1928 he moved 38-miles farther west to the Little Washington club. With his arrival at Washington, Shakespeare started a campaign for the improvement of the course, in which he succeeded admirably—to the extent of assisting in the reaching of a full club membership list of 450 and in bringing the links to a higher state of perfection than ever before. He spends his winters in the South, and during one of them was in charge of the Royal Palm layout at Miami.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Women's Tourney Enters Third Round

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 15.—(AP.)—Helen Waring, Pinehurst star, carried Miss Margaret Maddox, of Atlanta, the defending champion to the twentieth green yesterday before being defeated in the second round of the woman's southern golf championship.

The survivors include Mrs. Dave Gaut, of Memphis, three times a champion in the past; Mrs. W. L. Pierce, of Charlotte, last of the Carolinians, and Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake of New Orleans, who, although still young in years, is a seasoned veteran of the Dixie golfing wars.

Night Ball Gets O. K. at Decatur

DECATUR, Ill., May 15.—(AP.)—Night baseball made its bow in Decatur before an enthusiastic crowd of 4,500 fans last night when the local Three I League team defeated Quincy, 7 to 5.

Despite inclement weather, a light rain and general cloudiness, the field was well illuminated and players and spectators were able to follow the ball with ease. Team officials voted the experiment a success and decided to play lamplight games here for the rest of the week.

Two players were injured by ground balls but the accidents were attributed to the wet condition of the field. Dan Jesse, Decatur shortstop, was struck in the face when he failed to probably judge a bounce. T. Barbour, Quincy center fielder, was struck in the eye by a hit ball.

Family doctor's laxative instead of harsh purges; trial bottle Free

Dr. Caldwell's prescription cannot form the cathartic habit. It can be given to the child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is fetid, or has a little fever. Or to older people whose bowels are clogged. Its ingredients stimulate muscular action and thus aid the bowels to more normal functioning. The pure senna and laxative herbs in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are good for the system. So do not hesitate to use it when there's biliousness, headaches, or any sign of constipation. Your druggist has this world-famous prescription in big bottles. Or, write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., and a free trial bottle will be sent to you, postpaid.

GOOD RESULTS IN THREE DAYS

Woman Gets Quick Relief From Severe Pain.

"One bottle of World's Tonic has done so much for me that I must tell you about it," said Mrs. Moore, of Washington, Pa., to the druggist as he wrapped up her purchase of World's Tonic. "I was in a terrible state when I began its use, and so many of my troubles have been helped that I am sure I have at last found the right remedy. The last year I have suffered more than I can tell. Most painful of all were the sharp aches in my back, arms and shoulders. Whenever I would sit long in one position, and when I had been lying down, my arms and back would hurt me so that I could hardly keep from crying out. The trouble started with my stomach about a year ago. At first I only lost my appetite. Then I felt distress after eating. Soon I noticed much gas. I had to use physics. My skin got rather pale and my breath became foul. I suffered much from the pain, but I suffered even more from the humiliation of a bad breath and the gas on my stomach. I was afraid to go any place. Then these pains began in my back and arms. They worried me greatly.

"One day I decided to try World's Tonic. Other remedies had not helped me and yet I knew something existed that would restore my health. I had taken World's Tonic about three days before I felt any real benefit. Then it seemed to me that my stomach was less tender. The next day I felt better in every way, and I have not had the pains that worried me so since. It is simply wonderful what help World's Tonic has been to me so soon.

"I am going to take a full course of six bottles, and I am just as sure that I shall be as well as I ever was in my life. With the pain gone and my stomach behaving itself, there is nothing in the way of my complete recovery."

Not always do sufferers obtain relief as quickly as did Mrs. Moore, but literally thousands have been helped by World's Tonic so rapidly as to seem marvelous. You may find in this remarkable medicine just what you need for perfect health. Be sure you get the genuine World's Tonic, which can be had at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-26)

MEN!

Make No Mistake—Consult a Doctor for Men

MY MESSAGE TO MEN

I want to talk to every sufferer from this and surrounding territory. What I am doing for others I can no doubt do for you. For many years I have limited my practice to the successful treatment of men and their ailments. I invite every ailing man to consult me free and without obligation—so do not put it off, but call today.

WHAT IS YOUR DISEASE?

Is it your blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, stomach, heart, lungs? Do you suffer from enlarged or swollen glands? Have you a skin disease? Suffer from gas, dyspepsia? Do you feel tired, irritable, weak, depressed and debilitated? Nerve disorders wreck many men yearly.

Modern Scientific Methods Master the Diseases I Treat

MEN! You who know and feel the results of overwork and worry—those of you that have been unsuccessfully treated and think there is no help for you, I invite you to call and investigate my modern methods. Many men from this and surrounding territory attest to my ability.

My Success Is Due to the Fact That I Know How!

I do not believe in guesswork—thoroughness marks my every effort. A searching examination is made of each to determine the true existing condition—analysis and blood test made when I deem it necessary—and your treatment is outlined in a sane, rational manner—assuring each and every patient the latest and most scientific treatment—and results in the shortest possible time. Delay is dangerous—so if you are ailing do not put the matter off another day, but consult me at once and learn your true condition.

Hours: 9 to 5, 7 to 9. Tues. and Friday, 9 to 5. Sundays, 10 to 2.

ACCUSE WOMAN IN KILLING

READING, Pa., May 15.—(AP.)—With a charge of murder placed against her, Ruth Cramp, 38, was committed to the Berks County jail from St. Joseph's Hospital, where she has been a patient since Monday.

She is charged with the slaying of Ralph W. Homan, 35, whose body was found in an apartment, with two bullet wounds in the neck, Monday morning. At the same time police, who had been summoned by neighbors, found Mrs. Cramp in another room of the apartment, nearly dead from gas fumes.

Police say their investigations have uncovered that the woman had been living with Homan for several weeks, and although she refuses to talk, they are satisfied she shot Homan during a quarrel and then tried to end her own life.

W. Va. School Head Accepts Ohio Job

Surprise Cures Victim of Paralysis

HAMILTON, Ont., May 15.—(AP.)—Enlivened by the sudden joy of meeting a sister he had not seen for 20 years, Charles Elgie, invalid from paralysis for more than a year, arose from his chair and walked across the room to meet her.

The sister, Mrs. Alice Burton, of Toronto, had believed her brother dead, although they were separated by less than 40 miles.

FRAUD CHARGED OVER BRIDGE

HARRISBURG, May 15.—(AP.)—W. H. Williams, of Jacobs Creek, Westmoreland County, has filed his third application with the Public Service Commission for permission to operate a toll bridge over the Youghiogheny River at Jacobs Creek. The first and second applications were dismissed on the complaint and protest of Daniel Farkas, who laid claim to prior charter rights to transportation of persons across the river at this point.

The third application was filed on the grounds that Farkas had committed perjury, fraud and deceit in presenting his protests to the commission.

FOUR MEN HELD IN AUTO THEFTS

WHEELING, W. Va., May 15.—Charged with conspiracy to violate the national motor vehicle theft act, four young men, two of whom are from the Pittsburgh district, will be arraigned in the United States Court here today before Judge William E. Baker. The four were indicted by the Federal grand jury.

Lawrence J. Bleichner, Pittsburgh; Frank Cereno, Bridgeville, Pa.; Paul Page, alias "Baldy" Paige, New York, and James Buono, Bellaire, O., are to be arraigned. It is alleged that they were connected with a ring that stole cars and then handled them through Pittsburgh garages, after having them remodeled.

An order was signed by Judge Baker yesterday, ordering William Heller, of Marmon Company, Pittsburgh, to bring records of that concern here to aid in the defense of Bleichner.

Federal Prisoners Taken to Atlanta

WHEELING, W. Va., May 15.—Fourteen Federal prisoners, indicted by a grand jury and convicted at this term of the United States District Court, will be taken to the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., today to begin sentence. Included in the list are Paul Jebbie and Owen Palmer, Wheeling, sentenced to two years and one year and a half, respectively, for violation of the Jones law. They carried their case to the Supreme Court of the United States, where sentence of the District Court was affirmed; Tony Olivio, Pittsburgh, charged with transporting liquor in Monongahela County, serves three years, the longest sentence of the number imposed for violation of the Jones law.

Man's Nose Broken In Crash on Bridge

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., May 15.—When his automobile skidded at the approach to the Ohio River Bridge and was struck by another car, John Beles, 27, of West Aliquippa, sustained a broken nose and cuts about the face.

MINERS' STRIKE IN MARYLAND

LONACONING, Md., May 15.—At a meeting of several hundred employes of the Georges Creek Mining Company, controlled by the Althouse interests in Philadelphia, it was decided to ask all the employes of the company at the various mines here to strike.

About 200 men employed at the Sonny mine struck Monday because the company required them to load a long ton at the short ton rate, 56 cents. About 700 men would be affected altogether. The miners say they will make an effort to form a union.

If You Have Bad Feet

Read What This Grateful English Woman Writes About Radox

"Fifteen years ago I began to suffer with bad feet and corns, and as time went on they got from bad to worse, thus making life a misery. I was recommended to try Radox (after spending a small fortune in one 'cure' or another). I found very great relief in a very short time. I am pleased to say that my corns, also the hard skin from the soles of my feet have disappeared, and walking, which was a torture, is now a pleasure. I can assure you that I recommended Radox to all my friends."

Mrs. L. P. W.,
Petersborough, England.
23rd September, 1929.

When you put your feet into a foot-bath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn, and the oxygen which Radox liberates enters the pores, opens them and penetrates further and further, carrying the corn-softening salts right into the root of the corn, which is thus loosened so that it can be lifted out bodily.

Get a generous box of Radox at Mayflower Drug Stores or any drugstore in America—a 15-minute bath three or four successive nights will rid you of corns and callouses.

This may give YOUR CHILD a pleasing face

AROUND six years of age a child cuts four teeth which directly affect the shape of her face. They are called the six-year molars. Don't let your child neglect these important molars — or any of her baby teeth. The health of her permanent teeth depends largely upon the care given her first teeth.

Thousands of mothers consider Squibb's Dental Cream the finest dentifrice for children. It contains no grit, no astringents, nothing to injure the gums or teeth. And because it contains 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, it renders harmless the germ acids which are the cause of tooth decay. Ask your dentist about the six-year molars. He will probably tell you, at the same time, to use Squibb's Dental Cream.

Little Actors From 4 to 14 In Dramatic Contest Like Old Stagers

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHAT DOES IT MATTER if William Gillette has retired? There is plenty of embryo dramatic genius, as you would admit if you had been out at the East Liberty Carnegie Library last night to see the opening of the School Children's Tournament, staged by the Civic Children's Theater.

George Seibel

Here were young Mansfields and Modjeskas ranging in age from four to 14. They were of all colors—black, and tan, and lily-white. They played all kinds of parts from wicked burglars to innocent vegetables like Lettuce and Spinach.

Grave judges sat in judgment upon these juvenile Booths and Bernhardts, and decided after much thought and mental labor that the first prize should go to the James E. Rogers School, the second prize to the Watt School, and third place to the Chatham School.

They also decided that the best individual performance was that of John Haupl, who played Peter in Louise Ayres Garnett's drama "Hilltop." So you see William Gillette has a successor already. Maybe in 60 years from now we shall be witnessing the farewell performance of John Haupl. Who knows?

MANY LITTLE GILPINS

Last week Charles Gilpin died, the Negro actor who became famous in Eugene O'Neill's "Emperor Jones." Last night, in the play put on by the Watt School, "Held in Mother Goose Land," there was a crowd of little Gilpins. Bill Bailey as Old King Cole may be playing "The Emperor Jones" 60 years from now. Who knows?

That play about Mother Goose Land, by the way, sounded very much like propaganda for Vegetarianism, Tooth Brushes and Pure Milk. Even the rhyme about Old King Cole had been revised in accordance with the Volstead Act, and the renowned monarch whose bowl is now contraband told us all about the virtues of Pure Water.

Then the Fruit Fairies, Rosalyn Jamron and Constance Rideout, did a pretty little song and dance, and Guelda Scott as Little Miss Muffet sang the praises of curds and whey.

And the 45 little players excelled in acrobatic work and eurhythmics, having been well trained by Miss Dugan and Miss Dilig. Ziegfeld should have been there.

EVEN A TCHEKOFF PLAY

If any one thinks these young players are not ambitious, be it known that one of the plays was by Anton Tchekoff, and was played by children of the sixth grade. True, it was not about anything more tragic than the toothache, but if you've ever had the toothache you'll think "A Horsey Name" was tragic enough.

Tonight the Tournament will be continued — the McCleary School, the Chatham School, the Harwood Dramatic Club and the Shanty Players furnishing the contestants.

"Spring Fever," one of tonight's plays, is by Jerome Weinberg of the McCleary School. So they are even providing dramatists for future theaters. Maybe Jerome will be the Belasco of 60 years to come. Who knows?

Back on Job

Dick Leibert will be back on the job as organist in the Penn Friday. He has been absent for a number of weeks, due to illness.

NEW PICTURES OPEN HERE TODAY AND TOMORROW

The Stanley today inaugurates its new policy of Thursday openings with "The Texan," starring Gary Cooper as its screen feature. The film, which also will open an engagement in the Enright tomorrow, is based on the O. Henry story, "A Double-Dyed Deceiver." Fay Wray plays the heroine.

"The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," featuring Warner Oland, comes to the Penn screen tomorrow. Wesley Eddy will appear on the stage as guest master of ceremonies. Organist Dick Leibert also will be back.

BANCROFT TALKIE

"Paramount on Parade," a film revue, opens an engagement tomorrow in the Warner. It features the stars associated with the Paramount Studios.

PLAY, PICTURE REMAIN

Thurston, the magician, will conclude his one-week engagement in the Alvin Saturday night.

Greta Garbo's New Film Is 'Red River,' Based On Indo-China Play

By DOROTHY HERZOG
(Copyright, 1930, by Premio Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.

Fred Niblo is preparing to go into production on Greta Garbo's next talky, "Red River," dialogued by Madame De Gresac from an Indo-China play, yclept "Red Dust." The Garbo, in this, will portray the dramatic role of a woman on the lower rung of the social ladder. At this paragraphing, Greta is vacationing in the Redwood country of Northern California, but is due back in town come day after tomorrow or so.

Greta Garbo

The note run in this colyum reporting Renee Adoree's illness has met with a slew of sympathetic responses from many readers who are anxious to drop her a line or send her flowers. Miss Adoree is at Lacresenta Hospital, near Monrovia, California.

Mary Carr recalls the early days of the flicks and one producer in particular who believed seriously that he was catering to a temporary fad!

CHANEY IS RESTING

Lon Chaney is resting in a local hospital. He checked in upon the completion of his initial outloud, "The Unholy Three." Seems Chaney's throat was badly hit by the attack of "flu" he suffered. He's taking no chances on its pulling temperament because he talked through one film. Hence, the hospital.

Lon Chaney

And now Polly Moran is preparing to voodvil for umpty ump weeks personal appearance-ing. Hear tell the cut-up will get two grand per week for her capers.

HEDDA IS INCENSED

Is that Hedda Hopper provoked? Answer: Yes. Hedda stepped aboard the Chief, New York bound. She got as far as Winslow. A wire greeted here there from Pathe ordering her to return pronto for a re-take for "Holiday." Deliberately, even grimly, Hedda stayed aboard the train until it snorted into Gallup. Then she mournfully got off and boarded a westbound Chief. Oh, was that girl incensed! And the topper is, Hedda has to wait a coupla days more before she can make that re-take. Mebbe she won't manage the Manhattan jaunt right now 'atall. This department offers its condolences to Miss Hopper in all sincerity . . .

Gibson Gowland, who was marooned in Mexico when he trailed down for "Sea Bat" location, is back in Uncle Sam's territory again. Mr. Gowland's passport wasn't shipshape and he couldn't get across the border with the others. Oke, now.

Warners Observe Brunswick Week

Warner Brothers have designated the week beginning tomorrow, as Brunswick Week in all their Pittsburgh theaters. Dealers will have phonograph displays in the lobbies. Warner Brothers recently purchased the Brunswick Phonograph Company.

ROSSINI MASS MELODIOUS

The second day of the convention of the Saint Gregory Society of America began yesterday morning with pontifical high mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. John Mark Cannon, Bishop of Erie, in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Visiting clergymen, nuns, and children of the parish school filled the church, and the choir sang a mass, "Factor Orbis," of the Reverend Carlo Rossini, director of music at the cathedral. Father Rossini discloses his Italian descent in all his music, for the mass overflows with lovely melodies and the organ interludes are particularly fluent. The composer has made special good use of the lower voices, and there is many a vigorous canon figure in the choruses. The mass is not without its Gregorian flavor in the soprano voices, but the music remains sturdy throughout the work.

As before, papers on various aspects of Gregorian music were read at the afternoon meetings. This afternoon Caspar Koch, city organist of the North Side Carnegie Hall, will give an organ recital of church music from the earliest periods of our recorded music until the present day.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Haw!

One of our better actresses who is starring in "Strange Interlude," the Theater Guild's production of Eugene O'Neill's classic, lost her temper again the other night. It happened in a leading city. For four episodes the star suppressed her exasperation at the audience, which chattered and chattered during the show, which, incidentally, is crowded with "asides." Prinstance: When she says "I love you" she turns away and says: "But I don't love him, I hate him."

Finally, in the fourth act of the nine-act play, the actress ankled down to the foot bulbs and gave the audience a murderous stare. Then she cried: "You imbeciles!"

Add Similes

R. Copeland's: "He's got a crush on her as heavy as a steam-roller!"

Character

One of New York's "unusuals" is Raymond Duncan, brother of the late Isadora. Raymond parades the boulevards in a toga, sandals and fillet around his long curls, and he isn't bothered by the titterers.

He will say that the reason he attires himself in a toga and sandals, etc., is that he won't wear tight clothing because it is bad for one's health.

Yet you may see him frequently in the windowless Broadway night clubs.

The Squelch Swelegant

"The gal," growled Guinan, "is all wrapped up in herself, and she makes a terrible looking bundle!"

Folks I Comb Outta My Hair

Avis Golden, of the Vincent Youmans Music Publishing Company, at 66 W. 44th St., N. Y. C., a person we cannot ever remember meeting, sends us one of those "do not break the chain" letters "or you will have bad luck."

The poor girl.

Miau!

One of the town's alleged columnists complained of a fierce pain between his shoulders.

"It's probably from one of those knives someone threw at you which you forgot to remove," said a friendly dramatic critic.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Mr. Winchell," writes Mrs. J. L. Coppen, of Brooklyn, "I am an ardent reader of your column, and I scan eagerly for news of Rudy Valee. Any kind of news. It seems that you never mention him at all. Don't you like him? He certainly has 'got' me, I don't know what it is but when he is on the air my heart just stands still. At the theater I keep my eyes glued to him until he goes off, and even then I have to be almost shook from my trance by my husband. Yes, I am married, but what's a mere husband when Rudy's around?

"I think his chief charm lies in his shyness and his desire to keep himself in the background. It's refreshing after all those so-called wise guys. I'm going to look in your column every day, so please answer your opinion about him."

Is there a doctor in the house?

He's Funny That Way

Samuel Shipman, playwright and movie scenarist, was telling friends in Holywood about his completed movie version of "Oliver Twist."

"I know I shouldn't talk about myself," he said, "but even if I do say it, my picture is almost as good as the book. Why, you'll love Fagin. But as soon as I can get back to New York I'm going to fly back. If I stayed out here too long, why, I'd be nothing but a hack-writer!"

And he was serious.

The New Version

Al Klein will tell you that when the two-Times Square guys see a friend off to Chicago they say: "S'long, don't take any wooden kimonos!"

Tranking Her for the Ad

Miss Florabel Muir, one of our better "stylists" and the Hollywood correspondent for a contemporary, has decided that such phrases as "Reno-vated," "sealed," "they are That Way" and "anticipate a blessed event" improve her column of movie chatter. On Monday Miss Muir (who is a Barrymuir at heart) reported: "I asked Jack Pickford when he planned to middle-aisle it."

Oh, well, the Muir, the merrier.

Things That Burn Me Up And Knock Me Cold

Among other things that probably make the editors of the Cleveland News die young is this type of letter. Ohio certainly has its troubles. Prison riots and this: "To the Editor of the Cleveland News: Since we are living in a dry country, and the really patriotic and Christian citizens are strongly in favor of prohibition, I believe that legislation should be enacted to prohibit the broadcasting of such songs as 'Fill the Stein for Dear Old Maine.' It is such songs that will create an irreverence in the minds of the adolescent for our prohibition law. Personally, I have written a protest to my representative in Washington.—Truman A. Littlejohn."

And they hang pictures!

Few Issues Break Sharply But Leading Shares Sag Little Over Two Points

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Stock prices sank slowly in unusually calm seas today, as professional operators failed to provide renewed buoyancy, and the public remained apathetic. A few issues in which only a thin market is provided broke sharply, but leading shares generally lost little more than 2 points or so.

Neither long nor short positions in the market have worked out very profitably of late, and traders were disposed to await developments sufficiently definite to be used as a starting point for a new move. With moderate signs of improvement in freight traffic, retail trade and bank clearings, bears have been cautious, but bulls have failed to attract any notable following in bidding up stocks.

AWAIT LOAN FIGURES

Speculative attention was focused on the Federal Reserve brokerage loan and condition statement, to appear after the close of the market and this also served to hold operators in check, while the rally in prices over the last week would seem to indicate a substantial gain in loans, hangover liquidation or weakly held stock on rallies sometimes causes a further reduction in the total even after a selling movement has definitely ended, and the market turned upward.

The American locomotive dividend rate cut from $8 to $4, had been so generally expected that it was without reflection in the market. Standard Oil of New Jersey's annual report, showing $4.75 a share against $4.43 in 1928, and mildly optimistic summary of conditions in the industry by W. C. Teagle, president, failed to stir up renewed enthusiasm for the oils. Some of the eastern utilities were firm, in response to further rumors of new alignments.

Auburn Auto was an acutely weak spot, dropping nearly 30 points to a new low for the year below 160, and more than 100 points below its 1930 peak, despite its excellent sales record.

LEADERS DECLINE

Such issues as Case, Worthington Pump, Macy and Eastman Kodak broke 4 points or more. Shares declining 2 or 3 points included U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Standard Gas Electric Power and Light, Coca Cola, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, Kansas City Southern and Norfolk and Western.

Columbia Gas was bid up a few points, and the Western Pacific common and preferred shares were strong. St. Louis Southwestern rose several points to a new 1930 high, and American and Foreign Power and Radio Keith were firm.

Won't Increase Runs From Okla. Pool

NEW YORK, May 15.—Pipe line companies serving Oklahoma City pool declined to increase percentage of their runs above the 16 2-3 per cent of daily potential output of the field despite the fact that producers in the field have requested an increase to 25 per cent of potential output.

The action of pipe line companies, it is stated, is not due to their unwillingness to accept more oil at present, but on the theory that potential output of the pool is rapidly mounting and that the present basis of 1 2-3 per cent of the potential will shortly be sufficient to tax the pipe lines to capacity. At present the pipe line companies are taking approximately 106,000 barrels of crude daily from this field.

Proposed Freight Revisions Suspended

WASHINGTON, May 15.—A series of transcontinental freight rate revisions applying to and from Florida territory south of Jacksonville on the one hand, and Pacific coast points on the other, which railroads proposed to make effective tomorrow, was suspended today by the Interstate Commerce Commission until December 16.

Bank of England Rate Unchanged

LONDON, May 15.—The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England remains at 3 per cent today.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 15.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 7 points in response to steady Liverpool cables and talk of too much rain in the western belt. Trading was quiet, however, and the advance met some realizing and southern selling, which supplied the demand and caused reactions of a point or two during the first half hour.

July contracts eased off from 14.31 to 14.25, and the new crop months from 14.19 to 14.15. The weather map proved a little more favorable than anticipated and probably accounted for some local selling, although local map reports said it looked like showers weather for the western belt. Liverpool cables reported local operating and talking, with a cessation of liquidation. They reported an improved demand for cotton cloths from Egypt, but complained of a small turnover at the Manchester auctions and said that yarn rates were much below production.

LIVERPOOL, May 15.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices lower; American strictly good middling, 8.37; good middling, 8.02; strict middling, 8.12; middling, 8.52; strict low middling, 8.17; low middling, 7.82; strict good ordinary, 6.92; good ordinary, 6.52; sales, 4,000; to-day, including 2,700 American; receipts, 9,000; American, 500. NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 15.—The Curb market followed the line of least resistance into lower ground today, reacting moderately and then turning dull. There was profit-taking in utilities which had been moving forward, and also in oil shares, but the declines by early afternoon were of inconsequential size.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

COLUMBIA GAS EXPANDING

The Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation plans to take over the Empire Gas and Fuel Company and associate companies owning gas fields and distributing properties and serving approximately 11,000 gas consumers in and around Wellsville and Hornell, N. Y. These properties are located adjacent to pipe lines of Columbia systems of New York, which are transporting gas as far east as Binghampton.

In the quarter ended March 31 last the Columbia Gas and Electric Company earned $1.08 a share on the 8,477,224 no-par shares of common, against $3.04 a share in the first quarter of 1929 on 3,372,808 shares then outstanding.

For the 12 months ended March 31 the company earned $2.94 a share on 8,477,224 common shares, against $7.26 a share in the preceding 12 months on 3,372,808 common shares.

AM. LOCOMOTIVE ON $4 BASIS

NEW YORK, May 15.—The American Locomotive Company declared a quarterly dividend of $1 on the common stock, placing the issue on $4 annual basis compared with an $8 basis previously. Directors also declared the regular quarterly $1.75 preferred dividend. Both dividends are payable June 30, to stock of record June 13.

The halving of the rate was not unexpected, as the divident has not been fully earned since 1926 and has been paid in part out of surplus. It is expected, however, that the $8 rate would be maintained until fall.

The company, which is one of the two largest manufacturers of locomotives in the United States, reported net income in 1929 of $6,851,300 equal to $17.80 per share of preferred stock and $5.40 per common share.

Week's Copper Sales At New High Record

NEW YORK, May 15—Domestic sales of copper for the week ended May 14 totaled 273,400,000 pounds, the largest weekly tonnage ever sold, according to metal and mineral markets. A very active foreign business brought the combined bookings to the tremendous total of 393,000,000 pounds.

Sales of copper for foreign account this morning came to 10,250,000 pounds.

Van Sweringens Seek Coast Link

NEW YORK, May 15.—With the Alleghany Corporation holding slightly more than 50 per cent of outstanding voting stock of Missouri Pacific, it is understood the Van Swearingens have now turned their attention toward acquiring the Western Pacific and effecting a through line between St. Louis and the coast.

Wabash Railroad Modification Granted

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has agreed to the request of the Wabash Railroad for a modification of its order of May 2, 1928, so as to permit the road to pledge or repledge until December 1, 1931, all or any part of its holdings of 177,900 shares of Lehigh Valley stock.

April Anthracite Shipments Lower

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Shipments of anthracite coal for April, as reported to anthracite bureau of information, amounted to 3,662,470 gross tons, up 231,707 tons over March shipments, but off 1,497,873 tons from April, 1929.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 15.—The bond market pursued an uneventful course today, as the interest of traders turned to its many new offerings. The volume of new securities placed on the market since Monday has been the largest in several weeks and has contributed largely to the slow pace of listed bonds. The general tone was firm.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

MERGERS HELD HARMFUL TO KEY MEN

Management Engineer Doubts If Most Executives Give 50 % of Effectiveness

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, May 15—Industrial mergers have a tendency to reduce the personal efficiency of key men, according to J. P. Jordan, of Stevenson, Harrison & Jordan, management engineers.

Mr. Jordan indicated that when companies are absorbed the men who were big fishes in little puddles become little fishes in big puddles, with the result that they lose the sense of responsibility originally felt. They become less efficient as producers, he said.

"It is very doubtful," Mr. Jordan insisted, "if the majority of men in executive or semi-executive positions render as much as a 50 per cent yield of their possible effectiveness. An honest analysis made by anyone of the actual use of his time would probably prove this fact."

Mr. Jordan proposed a remedy that executives receive substantial cash bonuses for yielding better than normal results.

In view of the widespread pessimism among amateur investors concerning the earnings performance of the railroads thus far this year, I have asked a few of the outstanding railroad executives to interpret the figures. Paul Shoup, energetic new president of the Southern Pacific in a message to this column said:

"The drop in earnings of representative railroads in the first quarter simply demonstrates that business is not of the same volume as it was during the corresponding period of last year. In many sections last year's first quarter traffic reached the maximum for that period. In such instances, some reduction might be anticipated without classifying the result as a business depression. Recession has gone beyond that, however, in the majority of industries in nearly all sections. As to how long this subnormality will continue, only the real prophets can say. Always heretofore we have gone through these spells within a reasonable time without sinking and I have no doubt at all we will do so in this instance."

DANGEROUS PRINCIPLE

Queried as to whether the rate structure was adequate, Mr. Shoup said:

"Any inadequacy in the rate structure would not be greatly different from that schedule which was an element in the spring of last year, but, of course, it is more apparent in periods of light traffic volume. The whittling process to which I have heretofore referred has been going on. Reductions on commodities between one producing point and one market are used to reduce rates elsewhere, and reparations that follow under which these rates are made retroactive establish a dangerous principle which on the whole I feel is very injurious to the railroads. Our western trans-continental lines feel keenly the competition of the Panama Canal, accentuated by loans of the government to steamship lines to increase the swarm of vessels now engaged in the traffic. I have been hopeful that some way would be devised among the steamship lines whereby they could avoid cutting the throats of the railroads and each other's throats by reasonable, stable rates that would give them net earnings they are entitled to and which they are not now making, and at the same time lessen the inroads on the traffic of the railroads."

Regarding near term business prospects, Mr. Shoup pointed out:

"Our summer and fall crop conditions now are such as to indicate a volume traffic from crops in the second half of the year at least equal to that of the last half of 1929.

"Passenger traffic is decreasing relatively somewhat less than freight traffic compared with last year. It is, of course, responsive to business conditions. As for the long term outlook, it is impossible to make any conclusive forecast. Both our hope and belief are that the railroads will be able at least to maintain their present positions."

LUMBER DILEMMA.

A conflict between economics and law is seen in the dilemma of the lumber trade. Theoretical foresters have been agitating for timber conservation for many years. The forest industries have at length persuaded the President to establish a timber conservation board similar to the oil conservation board.

The hamoly lies in the fact that the outstanding method of conservation today is the avoidance of overproduction. Let lumber men say that it is almost impossible for them to restrict output without colliding with the anti-trust laws. On the other hand, the forest bureau of the Department of Agriculture and doctrinaire critics perpetually criticize the lumbermen for the rapidity with which they cut down virgin timber.

The surplus of lumber is only another expression of the world-wide excess production of raw materials. The public nowadays faces the perils of a superabundance, which upset price, rather than of shortages.

Roger W. Babson, whose repeated predictions of a financial setback finally came true last autumn, in a forthcoming book on investment fundamentals, astutely points out:

"With the aid of compound interest and well-planned investments, the ladder to financial freedom becomes a real escalator. Otherwise, this ladder is but a greased pole."

German War Bonds Find Scant Favor in This Country

By B. C. FORBES.

AMERICANS are not in love with the idea of asking them to put up money to pay Germany's many-billion war penalty. This is made clear by letters received commenting on the recent column printed here on the impending flotation of German Reparation bonds.

PRESIDENT J. W. HARRIMAN of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Company of New York writes:

"I want to congratulate you upon your column in relation to the contemplated Reparation issue.

"I cannot understand the attractiveness of the German issue without the endorsement of the Allies. I should think every investor would have in mind the definition of a 'scrap of paper,' which was so vividly described a few years ago. In any event, with the slump in securities that has taken place here, and the attractive return at the present level, there will be a ready excuse for repudiation a little later on if the rate is made even the rate that most of our good substantial securities now return.

"It is true that we should assist Germany in getting on her feet, but in view of past performances, I fully believe that a guarantee on these bonds is first in order; the present pledge is insufficient.

"Our bank is not a big one, but I can state positively that we want no German issue without an endorsement; nor will we lend upon German bonds unless that endorsement accompanies them. We have already taken Liberty Bonds to carry on and win the war, and now we are asked to take from the loser German bonds without any practical security. So we pay twice. What a curious proposition it all is, and what a short memory we have! You are absolutely right."

"Compliments, congratulations and good wishes to you for your marvelous article.

"I trust that the good American people will be protected from these efforts to entangle them in these international obligations."

H. M. NEWMAN, New York citizen comments:

"Please let me thank you for your exceptionally fine article. It is the finest portrait of the present American mental processes that could possibly be painted, and any bank or investment house which does not request its being placed under the glass top of every responsible executive's desk is overlooking a marvelous free insurance policy. I do sincerely thank you."

SUCH is the prestige enjoyed by J. P. Morgan and Company throughout American banking and investment circles that any offer of securities sponsored by this firm is readily subscribed for by those regularly participating in Morgan syndicates. It is accounted a valuable privilege to be admitted to the Morgan list of syndicate participants. Once in a while certain firms would rather not take any of a Morgan issue, for one reason or another, but they would not dream of doing anything which would result in having them dropped.

Frank A. Vanderlip, when I asked him many years ago, why the original J. P. Morgan (then living) enjoyed so enviable a standing, said, in course of his explanation:

"It isn't so much because Mr. Morgan's banking judgment has been so vastly superior to that of all other bankers, but nobody has ever doubted Mr. Morgan's honesty, nobody has ever doubted his fairness, nobody has ever felt that he wasn't anxious to give an absolutely square deal. Every other banker in the United States, therefore, is willing to accept Mr. Morgan's leadership in times of crises, and is delighted to do business with his house."

The House of Morgan is infinitely more powerful today than it was even in the heyday of its founder. So, it may be taken for granted that the German Reparation Bonds will all be immediately taken by those invited to become associated with the syndicate.

BUT ORDINARY American investors are not all convinced that German war debts will continue to be met for nearly two generations. Not only so, but they don't want to get mixed up in any way with either the supplying or the dividing of the spoils of war. Before $75,000,000, or any such amount of these bonds can be distributed to ultimate investors, a process of education will have to be vigorously conducted.

THE SOONER this overhanging "experiment" is out of the way, the better. It would be better still if the United States could have been left entirely out of this particular money-raising.

Donahoe, superintendent of maintenance, Pittsburgh division, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was chosen a director to fill an existing vacancy. The following were re-elected to the board: Frank C. Kohne, J. Thomas Beall, Jr., Dr. Albert D. Price, Dr. C. L. Curll, Lewis Z. Birmingham, Jr., and Donald C. W. Birmingham.

Chain Seeking Liberty Dairy Products

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

LIBERTY DAIRY PRODUCTS CORPORATION may be involved in a merger with one of the nation-wide chains of dairy companies if overtures being made to the organization are successful. None of the negotiations has reached any definite stage since officials of the local company are not anxious to enter a consolidation unless particularly favorable terms should be made.

It is known, however, that several of the large dairy organizations have been watching Liberty for a considerable period of time. The local company's principal competition is aligned with National Dairy Products Corporation. Liberty, which was formed by a consolidation of independent local companies, offers the only opportunity for any of the other nation-wide dairy chains to gain a foothold in Pittsburgh by the acquisition of a well established company serving all types of consumers in the entire city.

Beatrice Creamery

AMONG THE ORGANIZATIONS frequently mentioned as angling for Liberty Dairy have been Beatrice Creamery Company and the Western Dairy Products Corporation. The former would seem a more likely organization to form an alliance with the local organization since it is engaged in the distribution of both milk and ice cream in a large number of cities. Western Dairy has specialized in ice cream and dry milk products.

Liberty was formed a year and a half ago by the merger of the Shadyside Milk Company, Reinhold Ice and Ice Cream Company, Kittanning Pure Milk Company, Harmony Creamery Company, Allegheny Dairy Company, Star Creamery Company and the Ohio and Pittsburgh Milk Company which did business as the Hermes-Groves Dairy Company.

It operates five receiving and distributing plants in Pittsburgh and surrounding communities. The East Liberty and North Side plants are being expanded. In the near future the company plans to double the size of the Oakmont plant.

Steel Trade Quiet

LITTLE CHANGE IS EXPECTED in the steel business during next few weeks. The industry is in a period which normally shows a seasonal decline. This has already been apparent in operations which have slumped to below 75 per cent of capacity. The decline is not likely to reach great proportions since only a moderate rate of activity has prevailed for the past few months.

Further weakness in prices has tended to accentuate the seasonal decline by making buyers cautious about placing orders for more than immediate requirements.

Outlook for Earnings

EARLIER PREDICTIONS that steel earnings for the second quarter would be about equal to those of the first quarter will have to be modified as a result of the further shading in prices. It now seems probable the earnings for the present current period will be less than in the first quarter and substantially below a year ago when both volume and prices were highly satisfactory.

Mail Order Houses Reduce Tire Prices

CHICAGO, May 15.—Sears-Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co. have reduced tire prices on an average of 4.1 per cent to 6 per cent.

The average price reduction in Sears, Roebuck's mid-summer sale catalog exceeds 10 per cent.

The company says: It is discontinuing payment of freight charges. However, during the life of the sales catalogue for spring and summer 1930, the company will pay freight wherever the description so states.

Republic Steel Corp. To Open Pipe Mill

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 15.—Republic Steel Corp. expects to operate shortly another mill to produce steel pipe by the electric welding process, from eight to sixteen inches in diameter, and with this unit will have capacity for 30,000 tons of steel pipe monthly. Under its Johnson patents. Construction of natural gas lines, many of them running long distances, is stimulating demand for steel tubes. The Republic Company expects to book substantial orders on its new unit, as soon as definite delivery dates can be assured.

Pursglove Heads Terminal Coal Co.

Samuel Pursglove, of Cleveland, said to be affiliated with the Taplin interests, dominating factors in control of the company, has been elected president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, succeeding Hugh T. Wilson, resigned.

Pursglove is widely known as an individual coal operator, with mines in Eastern Ohio.

'Mop' Carloadings Gained Last Week

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—Missouri Pacific Railroad handled 31,549 revenue freight cars in the week ended May 10, against 31,413 in like period last year.

Bank Acceptances Register Decline

NEW YORK, May 15.—A further decline in the volume of bankers acceptances outstanding is reported by the American Acceptance Council, which announced that the bills total had dropped $125,568,520 during April to $1,413,717,278. The decline last month was 8 per cent.

Since December 31, the volume of dollar acceptances has declined $318,719,000, or 18 per cent. The present total of bills of about $300,000,000 in excess of the total on April 30, 1929.

Stock Exchange Topics

United Corporation Holds About 27% Interest In U. G. I.

The United Corporation, as a result of its recent offer of exchange made to holders of United Gas Improvement Company common stock, now holds approximately a 27 per cent interest in the latter company under the offering which terminated with the close of business on Monday. The United Corporation received tenders for some 1,425,000 shares of U. G. I. stock in addition to the 500,000 shares acquired under a special trade with larger U. G. I. holders which preceded the general offer. In consequence, the corporation now holds some 6,076,846 shares of the total of 22,554,000 shares of U. G. I. common outstanding, equivalent to about a 27 per cent interest. This position is tantamount to giving United Corporation working control under ordinary circumstances.

The fact that wide publicity was given to the government's charges that a monopoly exists in the radio industry did not retard the current move in Radio Corporation of America. Some of the others mentioned in the suit included General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Western Electric and American Telephone and Telegraph. The opinion prevailed in some quarters that the heads of the defendant companies welcomed the investigation and that no obstacles will be placed in the way of those who are desirous of obtaining the actual facts. Prior to the publication of the charges the street was rife with rumors that a bear attack would be staged on Radio Corporation. These were not borne out by its action.

Reports are coming into the New York financial district telling of the plans of automobile manufacturers with regard to contemplated changes in models later in the year. Aside from new body designs, it is said producers are working on what is called a free wheel drive. This is to be accomplished by the use of high-angled universal joints on each wheel and will eliminate suspended weight. Of late much attention has been paid to the front wheel drive and the public reception being accorded it. "Satisfy the public" appears to be the aim of the vehicular makers.

Although railroad buying of equipment has been curtailed to a considerable extent, due to lower earnings for the carrier systems, it is interesting to note that certain equipment companies have been successful in reporting earnings for the first quarter of the current year well above those reported for the like period of 1929. This select list includes General American Tan Car, General Railway Signal, Pullman and Westinghouse Airbrake, with the percentage of increase over the same period of the preceding year being 68 per cent, 63 per cent, 24 per cent and 14 per cent, respectively. The expectation is expressed in New York financial quarters familiar with the rail situation, that the worst of the recession has been seen, thus making it likely that with an increase in net income, rails will be able to expend more for necessary equipment. It is well to remember that those organizations which have stood the test best under adverse conditions will be the first to share in the period of prosperity.

The record-breaking achievements of Allis-Chalmers Company make pleasant reading at the moment, and account for the strong tone displayed by the stock in recent sessions. Unfilled business on April 30 increased more than 20 per cent over the amount on hand on December 31. Orders booked by the company for the first quarter of the year were 10 per cent in excess of the like period of 1929, and more than 70 per cent above that on hand for the first quarter in 1928. It is estimated that full earnings for the current year will be considerably above $4 per share, upon which an annual dividend of $3 provides a yield of close to 5 per cent.

The oils are again looking up and should the long awaited move in the oils actually get under way it will be such issues as Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Standard of New York, Texas Corporation, Atlantic Refining, and Phillips Petroleum which will hold prominent positions on the advancing tide.

Cities Service Co. Gets Another Well

NEW YORK, May 15.—Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company, a Cities Service subsidiary, brought in the C. E. Trosper No. 1 well in the Oklahoma City field, flowing before proration at the rate of 25,000 barrels of high-grade crude oil a day.

Jersey's Earnings $4.75 a Share For 1929

NEW YORK, May 15.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in its annual report for 1929 shows net profit of $120,912,794, equal to $4.75 per share of capital stock outstanding at the end of the year, as compared with $108,485,686, or $4.43 per share in 1928.

The net profit was equal to 10 1-5 per cent of the net assets of $1,184,697,419. Total assets were carried at $1,767,377,555, an increase of approximately $200,000,000 over the total as carried at the end of the previous year. Cash and marketable securities totaled nearly $242,000,000, as reduced from approximately $264,000,000 at the end of 1928.

COPPER PRICE GAIN SEEN

NEW YORK, May 15.—Edward H. Clark, president of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation, said at the annual meeting of the corporation that since Monday's advance in the domestic price of copper to 13 cents a pound the various companies were refusing to sell all they could at that price.

In answer to a question, he said that sales had been small for several months before the price was reduced from 18 cents, but that tremendous sales followed the reduction to 12½ cents in the domestic price. After the cut to 12½ cents, he said, 100,000,000 pounds of copper had been sold for export and it was estimated that 200,000,000 pounds were sold for domestic shipment.

Mr. Clark added that some were of the opinion the price of copper may go higher.

National Biscuit Co. Acquires Two Firms

NEW YORK, May 15.—National Biscuit Company has acquired Pacific Coast Biscuit Company for 140,000 common shares and Bishop & Co. for 70,000 common shares.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The 'Go-Getter'

Millicent Maybridge was a "go-getter."

She was clever as sin.

And at that her sins had been few, perhaps only the normal amount of the average girl.

Mrs. Wakus, matron of the county orphanage, had often said, "Mary York is clever as sin."

Mary York and "Millicent Maybridge" were one and the same person. Mary York didn't like the name, so she got herself another. She did it by the simple means of announcing that henceforth her name was Millicent Maybridge.

There had been five little Yorks set down in this county orphanage one day. Father and Mother York had failed to beat a train across a track in an ancient flivver.

Two of the little Yorks died in the orphanage. Two girls and a boy were left. In due time the boy was taken away up-State to become a farmer's boy. They said he had a good home.

Mary, aged 10, and her sister Lottie, a year younger, lived at the orphanage quite a number of years. By the time Mary was 14 she was taken by an elderly couple, named Tilton, who lived away up-State.

The Tiltons had just as soon call Mary "Millicent" as anything else. It was at this place that Mary decided to become Millicent Maybridge.

Millicent did the housework for the elderly couple. She was given fairly good clothes and three dollars each week. Millie was clever, as already mentioned, and cagey. She worked diligently and kept her eyes opened. She had dim recollections of big towns and a city she had seen as a youngster. She yearned for such a place. She would hang on to all of her money, lay low, and when the time came, and she was old enough, she would hop off to other pastures.

Millie had been brought up with girls in the orphanage who were, some of them, as old as eighteen. She learned plenty that no girl of fourteen was ready to know, which, perhaps, was a good thing for her in a way.

Like Girl of 20

When Millie was sixteen she had the face and figure of a girl of twenty and she certainly didn't relish doing housework. It was a hick village where she lived. Twice one of the officials from the orphanage came up to see how she was getting along, because she had not been adopted but just taken to work for a home. The official seemed satisfied. On the last trip this official said: "'Mary, your sister Lottie has been adopted into a home out West somewhere."

"I hope they're nice people. Lottie's a nice kid but no gumption; she's timid and can't take care of herself," had been the answer.

"We investigate. They had to be all right or we wouldn't put any one out with them, Mary."

"Good," she said. And from that time on Mary York forgot that she was ever one of the poor York tribe, forgot that she had an older brother on a farm up state or a sister Lottie out west.

When Millie was 17 she had $400, a few fairly decent clothes, a pretty face and an ambition to get out and see the world.

When the Tiltons left for a day's visit Millie wrote a note stating that she had gone "down south" to be with relatives. She had no relatives that she knew, and instead of going south she went northeast and stopped in the flourishing city of Watertown.

She stopped at a small restaurant for food, saw the fat proprietor get up to make change for every customer and when she paid her check she said, "Why don't you hire me as cashier, mister?"

"I been thinkin' of getting me a cashier," he said, huskily.

"Stop thinking — you've got one," Millie told him, and he had.

To a Rooming House

Millie went to a rooming house to live, and worked each day at the restaurant. She got $15 a week and hated the work.

The daughter of the woman who ran Millie's rooming house came home for a visit. Millie liked Jane and Jane liked Millie. Millie was good to her and got very friendly.

Jane was a show girl.

Millicent Maybridge and her friend Jane went to a really big city, and Jane got Millie into the show. That was easy, because Millie was a "looker," and could wear the costumes to advantage, or the lack of costumes.

Millie was soon disgusted. Twelve shows a week was harder than housework or being a cashier in an off-the-arm joint. But she was able to save money.

Most of the Johns were, as Jane said, "mighty cheap skates." When the show got around to New York for the metropolitan circuit, Millie had her plans made. She knew that she was a good go-getter by now. Among the men who hung around was a nice fatherly looking old "geezer," as Millie called him. Jane told Millie that he was a dead one.

"His checkbook isn't dead, I'll bet, and that's all I'm interested in," she declared.

Millie had plans. She let the kindly old gentleman make his Indian summer love to her and she put up a clever tale of woe about going to throw herself off the dock because her mother was dying up-State and she didn't have the $1,500 the necessary operation would cost to save her.

The old gent was sympathetic.

"I'll tell you what I'll do. To prove how much I love you and how desperate I am to save Mommer," Millie said, managing to look tearful, "I'll let you fix up that little three-room apartment you mentioned and I'll be back in just a week to settle down in the love-nest with you, you wonderful, handsome, lovely, strong man!"

Millie got the fifteen hundred and the old boy saw her off on the train. She rode as far as the One Hundred Twenty-fifth Street station, got off, found a nice cheap room and went to the secretarial school she had previously selected.

Perhaps the kindly, generous man is still waiting in the little love-nest. If so, it has been a corking wait, as that was some four years ago!

Millie finished her course at the secretarial school with such success that she had the highest recommendations and went to work in the office of an important company.

Fourth Job

The three men who owned the business were not only married, but seemingly satisfied, and Millie being a go-getter, quit this job for another. She got four jobs before she found the place she wanted as secretary to Mr. Smithson, of the Smithson Supply Company.

Smithson was extremely wealthy. He took Millie to lunches and now and then to the theater. Millie was absolutely proper. That was her game. She didn't want any love-nest stuff, she wanted to marry this man because he had plenty of money.

When Smithson started that ancient "My-wife-doesn't-understand-me" wheeze, Millie agreed. She was thinking that after she made him get rid of that wife and marry her, she'd see that he never told any other girl that his wife didn't understand him.

Carl Smithson lost his head completely over Millie. He bought furs and jewels for her, and because Millie was so awfully proper and sweet and modest with him he was crazier than ever to win her.

"I'm crazy about you, Carl," Millie told him, "but you know you're married, and before you can win me you'll have to marry me—I can't help loving you, even if you are married, but you know I'm not the sort who could ever go wrong."

Smithson said he knew it.

He thought he did know it. He believed every word she told him.

One day he came to her excitedly.

"My wife is going to agree, sweetheart!" he said.

"Sensible woman. How soon can she get the divorce Carl?"

"Right away, only she wants to see you first. She thinks she can tell if I'll be happier with you."

"I'll see her and tell her how I couldn't help loving you. I'll fix it all right," Millie promised.

Millie went out to the suburb on the appointed afternoon. It was a handsome house. Millie would throw a lot of style when she lived there.

Blue-Eyed, Sweet

A little boy playing on the lawn gave Millie a start. She didn't know there had been any children.

A maid ushered her in. Mrs. Smithson came down. Mrs. Smithson was small, blue-eyed and sweet, although her cheeks were flushed and she seemed rather sad.

Millie got up as Mrs. Smithson entered.

"You are Miss Maybridge—Carl's friend—the girl he—he—"

Millie nodded. She tried to look sad and frightened.

"I—I just couldn't help it—I fought and tried. I've always been good," Millie said, "and always intend to be, but the way it happened, the way people fall in love and can't help it—it sort of dazes me."

Mrs. Smithson stared at her and went up close.

"You aren't Millicent Maybridge," she said. "You are Mary York and you came from Clay County Orphanage!"

"Why—why—how—well, is it a crime to be left an orphan?" Millie was staggered for the first time.

"No, but it's a crime to steal your sister's husband. I'm Lottie, Mary. I married Carl out in Idaho three years ago. For God's sake go away; do your go-getting in some other city, Mary!"

She promised. She waited for Smithson to come home. She explained in a few words and added:

"Forget it, Carl. I was just playing you for a sucker."

Ridgway to Hold Water Bond Election

RIDGWAY, Pa., May 15.—A special election for a bond issue to raise $50,000 for the extension of the Ridgway water line will be held in the near future. A borough ordinance to authorize the holding of an election is being prepared. Should it be approved there will be an additional tax millage of 2 cents. The plans call for a 20-inch supply line to the reservoir from the pump station instead of the 12-inch pipe now in use.

Short-Haul Steel Rate Menaces Our Industry

The Public Service Commission has a chance to be of real service to industry and the people of its home state.

An enormous volume of steel products is moved by rail from steel mills to manufacturing plants in the Pittsburgh district. The railroads on May 20 will put new rates into effect which, in many cases, will double the cost of moving this freight.

This will bring steel makers in Youngstown, in Cleveland and in Chicago nearer to Pittsburgh markets in point of cost. It will deal a severe blow to this district's industrial development.

The railroads are not primarily responsible. The new rates conform with a general order by the Interstate Commerce Commission which adjusts all rates on steel to a mileage basis.

Pittsburgh's short haul rates have been boosted, while those of other districts have not, because the order does not apply to rates within switching areas of large industrial districts.

Pittsburgh's switching area has a maximum length of only 10 miles, while Chicago's is 30 miles long and those of other districts are also larger than here. Thus a plant in Pittsburgh getting steel from Aliquippa will suffer from an increase, while a Chicago plant, the same distance from its source of supply, will not be affected.

The short haul rates around Pittsburgh are not interstate rates. The Public Service Commission has the right to order the old rates left into effect. These rates are profitable to the railroads. The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and all the leading steel companies have filed complaints with the commission.

If it has the interests of its home communities at heart the Public Service Commission will forbid the increases in the short haul rates.

'Plan T' Means Waste Of Construction Cost

Among other pending ordinances relating to the Pennsylvania Railroad passenger terminal is one known as "Plan T" for caring for traffic as part of the proposed improvement. "Plan T" provides for a traffic circle at grade. A far better arrangement, known as "Plan Z," recommended by a majority of the special committee that made a study of the problem, is to be discarded because of its greater cost unless members of Council change their minds.

If Council wants to get a good idea of how a traffic circle at grade ("Plan T") works let the members stand at the one at the south end of the Liberty Bridge, at the junction of the bridge, Mt. Washington roadway and the Brownsville avenue approach to the tubes. If they can vision the motor car congestion there at a busy hour, multiplied indefinitely, and then imagine mixing it all up with street car traffic in addition, they may have some idea of how the problem will be with the completion of the new passenger terminal.

Opposed to this is the sensible idea of "Plan Z," providing for grade separation by a series of traffic lanes, some depressed below surface grade, to permit free flow of traffic in all directions, by all types of vehicles, including street cars. It is designed to do away with interference instead of focusing the lanes of all vehicles at one point.

If Council approves "Plan T," as it seems determined to do, it is likely that the cost of it will be sheer waste, since it appears certain that, even with present traffic and not considering the expansion that annually takes place, it will have to be abandoned for the really adequate plan about as soon as it is completed.

Since that is the probability, Council will be wise to modify "Plan T" now in such a manner as will permit its alteration to grade separation as economically as possible. Engineers versed in traffic problems and other men of prominence who have made a study of the subject have been unanimous in favoring "Plan Z," whereas the few who have taken a side for "Plan T" do so only because of its lesser cost, admitting the great superiority of the other plan.

In such an important thing—it's too bad we can't have the best and not a makeshift.

Spanking

In Style Again.

Old and discarded ideas have a way of turning up again disguised as new ones, with scientific trimmings.

"Spare the rod and spoil the child" used to be the rule in every well-ordered home. Then it was discovered that moral suasion was better for children than a licking. And now experts on child training tell us that the old-fashioned laying on of hands is the only way to bring up children, in some cases, at least.

One of the authorities says:

"A child who is impulsive, imaginative and quick in argument is soonest straightened out by a short, prompt spanking, which at once ends the matter. It is kindness to such a child to spank it.

A little sharp lightning and deep thunder clears the muggy and depressing atmosphere. A little quick and decisive punishment often settles disturbed nerves."

So there you are, right back to the year 1830 or thereabouts.

Maybe there was something in "the wisdom of our ancestors," after all.

It's All So Simple

How to Keep Husbands at Home.

Jennie Partridge, clubwoman, has formulated a set of rules which she believes will help women to keep their husbands willingly on leash.

She suggests that wives permit their husbands to sit at home five nights a week.

"Listen to your husband if he likes the sound of his voice," says Miss Partridge. (Do you suppose the "Miss" was a slipographical error in the press dispatch!) "Ask his advice on everything. Flatter him to make him think you are a poor, weak creature and he is nine feet high with the strength of a lion and the courage of a Napoleon."

You can say this for clubwomen—they find simple solutions for everything.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Dropping the Pilot

Ryan heirs to yards of millions ask for another guardian. They claim their grandmother is old-fashioned, reactionary and very stale.

"Bugs" Baer

Tom Ryan left more money than you could shake your imagination at. He also made granny the guardian of the children because he knows that you have got to eat meat and potatoes a long time before you get smart.

The heirs have reached the advanced and exhausted age of 16 and 17, have probably seen everything twice and know that the whiskers of Santa Claus are detachable.

The heir who doesn't want his money has no ear for music.

But some slicker has got to these kids with his oiled hair and city clothes. He's probably told 'em he is going to make them rich.

They'll wind up with a rumble seat on the stock exchange, an oil well in Iceland and a factory for making self-winding sofa springs.

A granny is a person who is deaf when she wants to be, nearsighted when she doesn't want to see you and sleepy when it's time for the neighbors to go home.

You couldn't sell her a dime for half the price. If she is old-fashioned it's because she pulls the stopper out of the bathtub and wastes that good society gin.

She may have no experience in practical business affairs, but she knows that you can't get rich picking berries for a farmer.

She also knows that right is right and wrong is wrong. No old lady can stall around America for 60 or 70 years without grabbing enough information to stuff Carnegie Institute to the hinges.

She may be a hold-over from hoss-and-buggy days, but she never missed that last trolley car.

When she danced the round waltz her partner didn't act as if he were trying to win a Yale football letter.

We admit that times have changed and that an old lady is sadly out-distanced. But she never got round-shouldered from carrying pint flasks on her hip.

She doesn't smoke cigarets that would knock a bale of cotton off a wharf. She is just an elderly person with a body squeak and an ear trumpet.

We'll guarantee that she will bring them up so carefully that they won't need lawyers until they are of age.

PARTICLES AND WAVES

By Archibald Henderson

The trouble with nature is that it is not accommodating! It will not adapt itself to the intellectual requirements of man.

Nature pays no heed to the analytical difficulties which man encounters in his attempt to plumb her abysses and pluck out the heart of her mysteries. Ingenious models of the atom—the static model of Langmuir and the dynamic model of Bohr, for example—are ingenious constructs devised to explain the interior structure and behavior of the atom.

Both of these brilliant and imaginative attempts to construct a model of the atom seem to have broken down. The phenomena of nature, alas! are far more complicated and mysterious than Langmuir and Bohr dreamed.

According to those two theories, electrons were thought of as behaving like particles. The new theory of Schroedinger conceives the atom as continuous and vibrating in more than three dimensions. We do not know just what it is that vibrates inside the atom, nor why atoms should vibrate in dimensions more than three in number. It is at present virtually impossible to arrive at any visualization of atomic processes.

As Davisson says, the theoretical physicist has outgrown the ambition of Lord Kelvin to devise a mechanical model of every physical phenomenon. It has been discovered by the mathematical physicists that a certain esthetic pleasure is derived from dealing with calculations in symbols which evoke no mental picture whatever.

To all the new theories of the atom a purely pragmatic test is applied. This test is not whether we can make a diagram or picture or model of the phenomenon. The test of the theory is: will it work?

These are not new difficulties; they have long been familiar in the conflicting theories regarding light. Sir William Bragg once said that physicists regarded light as a wave phenomenon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and as a corpuscular phenomenon on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Today the physicists must regard the electron as both waves and particles every day of the week!

The new theory of the atom put forward by Schroedinger conceives of the atom as undergoing peculiar fluctuations in density. The vibration is conceived, not as an advancing wave but as a standing wave, like the vibration of an ordinary violin string.

If the atom is in a stationary state, as we say, no radiation is emitted. But suppose that two vibrations associated with the atom occur simultaneously. Then there occurs a beat frequency; and this constitutes the frequency of emission.

This agrees precisely with the results attained by Bohr, in his corpuscular theory of the atom. A co-existence of two states of vibration occurs while the atom is radiating. And this co-existence occurs while energy is being transferred from one vibration to the other. These vibrations must be thought of, not as mechanical motions, but as electrical fluctuations of some unknown sort.

In his "New Frontiers of Physics," Heyl has given a lucid exposition of the Schroedinger theory. An emitted electron, he says, would be a little bunch of waves thrown off from a larger vibrating sphere, something like a wisp of flame thrown up from a wood fire, except that the electron lasts indefinitely. Perhaps it meets another vibrating sphere sphere and coalesces with it, adding its energy to existing vibrations or contributing a new frequency to the atom.

As in Einstein's theory of gravitation, the speed of the electron is here suggested to be a space property.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Tired of stagnant streets and revelled humans? Feel that the big, brave days have gone forever? Then read this. It's only the story of a country woman who is making a home on a strip of desert land which the state of Washington gave her ex-soldier husband. She is 30 years old, crippled and half blind from infantile paralysis. And her letter to her friend tells of very simple things—cows and pigs and chickens and apricot trees, and three babies tumbling on a lawn. I am sure she considered it an ordinary sort of a letter—and herself a very ordinary soul.

But the spirit that flames through that letter made civilized beings out of brutish savages . . . braved the loneliness of that first "rock ribbed shore" . . . and sent the covered wagons rolling over western plains.

"Dear Elsie:

"It is so long since I wrote to you. You would not know this place now. It is not much like the desert Al and I came to after the war—without a cent. You remember the state gave us this piece of land and a house with three rooms and dug a well? It sure didn't look like much to start with. But you should see all we have now.

"We have three children, Don, 10; Dorothy, 7, and Lois Marie will be 2 in September. She is just like a big doll, with large brown eyes and curly hair. We all sure think there is no one like her. I am so glad for them, but having them is awful hard. Somehow I never seem to have got rested up. But I manage somehow. It keeps me busy, though, for of course we can't afford any help—and Al still has to keep his job, so I do everything around the place. But it's getting on wonderful.

"I have got most of my garden planted. Our apricot trees are just beginning to bloom. We should have a good crop this year. We will have three cows to milk next year. I am raising turkeys this year for a little extra money. The ones I sold last year brought seven dollars each. Hope I can raise 150. I have 30 eggs set now.

"I wish your kiddies had a lawn to play on like mine have. It is sure a large one. Al set out nine more shade trees the other day.

"I don't know what I would do if I lived in town and couldn't get all the lovely milk and cream and eggs that we have here. We also raise meat enough to do us nearly all year. I can beef. It is so nice for lunches. I have three to put up every morning and it keeps me guessing to make them different and tasty. I also put up fresh pork sausage in jars. It's nice that way. We have all the apples we can use. Won't be but a few days now until I have fresh asparagus to cut and ship. That is my job and it's slow work.

"Wish I had all my sewing done. There's an awful lot, with two little girls and all the washing and ironing.

"I'm getting me 100 baby chicks—we never get tired of fryers. And we've got some little pigs and one baby calf. I like to take care of them—they are so pretty. Must get busy now and get my flowers fixed up. We're going to fence the yard and we're hoping to build a new house this fall, so you can see how well we're getting on. Don will soon be as tall as I. I am doing a lot of crocheting for Ellen, who is going to be married—"

So it goes. Ten years ago a strip of desert land, three empty rooms, a well—a crippled woman, a penniless man. Today three babies, apricots, apples, heavy pantry shelves, a cool green lawn, a garden strip, a growing herd—and love still building for the days to come!

Why is America? That is why!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Duty's Ways

How easy to discern are duty's ways
On which so much of argument is spent!
The dullest eye could find them in a maze,
They are so bright, so glowing with content!

And though they lead to summits steep and cold,
To lonely pinnacles few feet have trod,
Through that clear air the spirit may behold
More plainly still the paths paths marked out by God.

They are not thronged like pleasure's broader roads,
But here and there companions lend a hand
To fellow-travelers bearing heavy loads,
And other climbers smile, and understand.

How pleasant in the end are duty's ways,
Though those who journey there seem but to plod.
They know themselves secure through all their days,
They walk so near, so very near to God!

Text for Today Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?—Ezekial, XXXIII: 11.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The time taken for the formation of these Pre-Cambrian rocks was longer than for all the later eras together; for one of them as radium dated back to over 1,200 million years.

The earth came into being when the ancestral sun was disrupted by the too-near approach of some other star. Of that stupendous birth you can read in Jeans' Astronomy and Cosmogony.

H. G. Wells

The date of that remote event must still be estimated within much wider limits, though the limits are rapidly being narrowed down. As Holmes shows, it cannot be less than 1,600 nor more than 3,000 million years ago, and probably the lower estimate is nearer the truth.

Let us provisionally take 2,000 million years as the age of earth. Life, as revealed by actual fossils, has been in existence for nearly a third of this time. Without any doubt the real age of life is greater, since the first living things would be soft and squashy and very seldom fossilized, and even if they were preserved would, in most cases, have been later baked and crushed out of recognition.

It is only in the last fifth of the earth's history that we know of vertebrates, and in less than a sixth of it that we know of land vertebrates.

Mammals have been on the scene for only a thirteenth of the time, and modern placental mammals for only a thirtieth. And as for man, he is a mere upstart.

The earliest creatures that could be called men, or at least not apes, cannot possibly have been on earth's stage for more than a paltry ten million years, or one two-hundredth of the total, and it may well prove necessary to halve even this estimate; while our own species of man boasts perhaps a million years of history—one-twentieth of one per cent of the earth's full record.

Time is telescoped, and the centuries of history shrivel. Twenty-five thousand years ago man was still in the Stone Age.

Civilization, in the sense of a stable social life based upon agriculture and metal working, dates back to less than 10,000 years. Ten thousand years—when it took at the very least ten million to generate man from the first tailless ape, and a hundred million for that ape to be brought into being from the first mammal!

With this revelation of the huge spaces of earth's past, the doors of the future, too, seem to open. We know a good deal now about the rate of cooling of the earth and of the sun. That sort of knowledge also grows more and more exact.

The discoveries that heat may be generated by radioactivity, by shrinkage, and by the actual transformation of matter, have enormously enlarged the possible future of life upon earth.

There is every reason to suppose that conditions on our planet will continue to allow life to flourish in the future for as long as they have allowed it to flourish in the past; indeed, this trifle of 1,000 million years or so for the future of terrestrial life is almost certainly an underestimate, granted, of course, no unforeseen catastrophe breaks in upon it.

That same stream in the dawn of life on earth manifested itself in the form of single microscopic cells; hundreds of millions of years later, after transformation through forms we dimly guess at, forms of polyps, of wormlike creatures, of headless things like lancelets, it flowed through thousands of generations in the form of fish; it emerged on land, it learned to be a reptile, it covered itself with hair and warmed its blood, and fed its young with milk.

Still without break of continuity, it transformed itself to become fully mammalian, its young to grow as parasites upon its life. Four-footed, tailed and hairy, it took to the Eocene forests, it grew into lemur, into monkey, into ape, and finally ape turned man-ape, and man-ape grew to man.

If that selfsame stream of life that flows through our human generations and that we call man was once fish, and if those fishy ancestors could be transformed into our present selves in 300 million years, without the aid of conscious purpose in any of the pre-human forebears who shall prophesy what our race may not achieve and into what it may not be transformed before another such period in the history of life on earth has passed?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 15.—There is nothing so easy for a dog owner to write about as his dog. Mine is a 16-pound Boston perfectly marked and with a nub of a tail. He is named Billy and like everybody's dog unusual. Three weeks after his purchase he was discovered to be stone deaf—a congenial affliction. Six puppies he sired were also deaf.

A deaf dog in a crowded city presents a problem. Billy has never been off a leash when outside his living quarters. Despite his handicap few dogs have seen so much of the world. He has visited Europe six times, crossed the continent to California five times and invaded the interior of old Mexico.

He has been in every state in the Union save five, crossed the Gulf of Mexico, flown from Los Angeles to Tia Juana and barked his joyous way among the pleasure seekers of Monte Carlo, Palm Beach, Saratoga, the Riviera, Lido, St. Moritz and Atlantic City. All this in seven years of a happy life.

Billy, through improvised sign language, can do several tricks. People who are not told, never realize he is deaf. His sense of smell is remarkably acute and he is sensitive to the slightest vibration. He aroused the household 10 minutes before an earth tremor in a Western state.

He has all the qualities of shyness so frequently stressed among the human deaf. He makes friends slowly, but when he does the friendships are lasting. I sometimes wonder if through some subconscious process he does not realize he is not just like other dogs.

Frequently after lively romps in the presence of strangers, he will disappear from the room. Almost invariably he will be found in some dark corner, gazing abjectly and a little pathetically at nothing whatever. It is for all the world as though he realized something was lacking.

There is only one person whose friendship Billy spurned. This was a steward on a trans-Atlantic steamer. He refused to let this steward come into the room and after three days the cabin space was changed and the new steward was soon his friend. The other steward was later dismissed as a thief.

There is in the barbershop on the rue de Castiglione side of the Hotel Continental in Paris a bearded gentleman—the proprietor—who is very fond of Billy. A block away the dog will tug at the leash to get there. The proprietor has a bulb from a perfume atomizer he uses to play with him. He keeps it behind a stair post. After a year's absence recently, Billy rushed to that post and barked until the bulb was tossed to him. Dogs remember!

Of all the countries I visit, France is the most tolerant toward the dog. He is permitted in the finest hotels and cafes. New York in later years is lifting many restrictions. The best hotels permit well-behaved small dogs. And nearly all provide sanitized kennels for larger ones. Owners more than dogs themselves are responsible for restrictions against them.

I have frequently heard dog owners say they were suspicious of those who do not like dogs. As a dog lover whose devotion is almost a phobia, I think such an attitude is extremely unjust. Some of the most characterful men and women I know have no use for dogs. I think they miss much but I do not believe such devotion or lack of it means a thing.

A pronounced trait of a dog is his sense of sympathy in trouble. The blackest moment I ever experienced I sat at my desk in almost a complete trance. My only recollection is of a jumble of racing lines from Hovey's poem: "There is no escape by the river, there is no flight left by the fen." The fog was in my throat. In this despair a gentle paw touched my leg. Looking down I saw my dog with his head quizzically cocked. He jumped into my lap and nuzzled a dewy nose against my neck—something he never did before. And he remained there motionless and breathing quietly as though in complete understanding, while I had a good cry. And when I cry I cry.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Bosses don't fire a man without giving him warning that an improvement and increase in his production are necessary if he is to hold his job.

After such a warning if a man does not make every possible effort to do better, then he does not deserve sympathy or leniency.

In certain instances a man may not realize that he is failing to meet requirements and in other cases he may have drifted into habits which he might overcome if he realized he were likely to lose his job.

Employers might avoid a more or less expensive labor turnover if they would give their employes a second chance to make good before discharging them.

It is unfair, of course, for any boss to hold over every man the threat that he will be dropped from the payroll if he does not do better.

But there are men who need a little awakening now and then in order to keep them doing what is expected of them.

The man who wants to hold his place, but has been a little negligent, needs only to be reminded of the fact that he is not doing as he should.
